MORE SUCCESS BERLIN CLAIM

Germans Victors in Fighting on Skis in Vosges Mountains.

BELGIANS AGAIN BEAR THE BRUNT

Remnant of King Albert's Soldiery in Thick of Battle Clash.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—The announcement on the progress of the war given out today by the German general staff says the Germans, near Massiges, have been successful over the French, occupying their positions for more than a mile and capturing over 600 men. They claim also success in the fighting on skis in the Vosges.

In the eastern arena of the war no important engagements seem to have occurred. German, Austrian and Hungarian soliders are described as fighting successfully side by side in the Carpathians. Elsewhere in the east the German report claims success.

AGAIN IN HUNGARY.

Russians Reported to Have Crossed the Boundary.

London, Feb. 4.—(12:34 p. m.)—Emperor William's troops still are maintaining an offensive movement on the battlefields to the west of Warsaw in Russian Poland, but on the remainder of the eastern battle line the Russians claim to be exerting the greatest pressure, notably across the East Prussian frontier and in the Carpathians. In the latter region the Russians claim that the fighting has gone against the Austro-German force and the Russians again are reported to have crossed into Hungary.

The remnants of the Belgian troops, which are still defending the little strip of their fatherland not in possession of the Germans, once more are bearing the brunt of the fighting in the west. Unofficial reports from Amsterdam state that the Germans are again making an attack along the Yser, which was the scene of the heaviest fighting and greatest loss of life of the war thus far, during the earlier German attempts to break through the allied line and reach the English channel. For the last two days Belgians and Germans have been engaged in combat, in which the possession of trenches has been decided with the bayonet. The Amsterdam reports say the German attacks have been repulsed.

The struggle in the east is increasing in severity as the Austro-German attack develops. Hard fighting is now in progress along virtually the whole front, except in Bukowina.

Turkish activities along the Suez canal can hardly be classed yet as even

JAM SENDS IOWA DOWN

CLAMBER ACROSS PACK TO SAFETY

Thrilling Escapes in Lake Accident Off Mouth of Chicago River.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The steamer Iowa, of the Goodrich Transit company, sank in Lake Michigan about three miles off the river mouth today after being crushed by what lake men declare was the heaviest ice jam seen in years off the Chicago harbor.

The crew numbering 70 and the one passenger clambered over the ice pack as the vessel settled and struggled over the hummocks to shore. Some reached the government breakwater and were rescued by tugs and others landed at different points. Those who reached safety first declared that no one had been lost.

The Iowa, beaten back from the Chicago harbor Tuesday night, made a fresh start from Milwaukee last night and with the Racine and other vessels, was caught in the ice floes off the harbor here this morning.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

German attacks have been resumed in several sections of the western battle front, and according to today's official communication from Berlin, one of these movements in the Argonne has resulted in a victory of importance. Three lines of trenches were stormed, and the statement is made that the principal French positions for more than a mile were taken. The French statement mentions a few small engagements, which are said to have ended favorably for the allies.

The German statement confirms Petrograd's assertions that another great battle is in progress in Poland west of Warsaw. Russian attacks were repulsed, the Berlin war office says, and the Germans were able to make further progress in the vicinity of Bolimow, on the section of the front closest to Warsaw.

Germany today notified the United States that American vessels should avoid the north and west coast of France. The state department at Washington believes that this action is intended as a warning against mines rather than as equivalent to the declaration of a blockade.

7:30 p. m.—Song service led by Mr. Jones.

8:00 p. m.—Sermon by Dr. Lyon.

Those who persuaded a Fort Wayne man who recently committed suicide to take a drink, the bartender who sold him liquor and those who have been voting for the liquor business are equally guilty of that man's murder, declared Dr. Milford H. Lyon in his sermon at the tabernacle Wednesday evening.

"That isn't in my sermon; I'm merely throwing it in for good measure!" exclaimed the evangelist.

He said the man had decided to reform after hearing the famous lecture on booze at the tabernacle the other Sunday.

After the meeting he called on his wife, from whom he had been separated because of his excessive drinking, and promised her that he intended to reform. She gave him encouragement and they were soon to be reunited.

Lured Into a Saloon.

"But he was lured into a saloon and the bartender and his old associates succeeded in getting him drunk," the evangelist continued. "When he went home in that condition his wife closed the door on him and in his despondency he went out and committed suicide."

"That bartender, those devils who lured him into that saloon and you men voting for years past in favor of the liquor business stand guilty before the bar of God of the murder of that man!" cried the evangelist.

"More than one church member must cut loose from sin or they will go to hell as sure as the sun rises in the morning," Dr. Lyon declared.

Audience Is Astounded.

The audience was astounded that such a tragedy had taken place in Fort Wayne. It was known that the man had committed suicide, but not until Dr. Lyon's reference to it Wednesday night was it known of the struggle he had made to reform.

Indifferent church members who had raised their hands when asked if they were Christians were given a scoring by Dr. Lyon because of their refusal to do personal work.

"I like to have a hundred of you people right in front of me hit the trail," he exclaimed. "You don't talk to others and you don't seem to care whether people go to heaven or hell. Many of you raised your hands signifying you are Christians. If you are Christians, in the name of God what kind of religion have you? Do something!"

Dr. Lyon spoke on "The Reasonableness of Religion." He declared that those in their right mind would accept three facts: A higher and lower nature; the fact of sin and death. He dwelt at length upon each point.

Must Bridge the Gulf.

"The most wicked and most worldly men can hold up high ideals," he said. "The question is how are we to bridge the gulf between the real and the ideal—to bring a man from what he is to what he ought to be? Environment, ethics and culture have never been able to do this. This is the province of the gospel of Christ."

The evangelist delivered a message to cause one to think. This was particularly true in his picture of death and the certainty of it.

Dr. Lyon made the startling claim

It is not a choice between a good and a better, it is a choice between something and nothing.

I've heard some flippant person say, "I'm not afraid to die." Neither is a hog. The question is, are you prepared to die?

Some of the most wicked and vile are those who were reared in the most favorable surroundings.

By no process of evolution was ever a bird developed into a horse, or a monkey into a man.

WOULD NOT PERMIT SEIZURE OF LILLIAN

A temporary writ of injunction issued by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court, shortly after noon Thursday, prevented the forcible seizure of Miss Lillian Russell, the famous American actress and beauty, and her cast in the production of "Wildfire," the race track drama, in which Miss Russell so signally stars. The suit was brought by the Lyric Theater company, of Fort Wayne, and enjoined and restrained the World Film company, of New York, and more particularly one Ratz and Constable Harvey Hughes from forcibly by seizure or by process from taking possession of the moving picture reels of Lillian Russell in "Wildfire" from the Lyric theater, where it was billed for presentation Wednesday and Thursday. The Film company is said to have made a mistake in its bookings for this real drama and sent a man here to take possession of it. Messrs. Stouder and Barnett, of the Lyric, got out an injunction to prevent the seizure, alleging that the film had been extensively advertised and to deprive them of it would close their picture theater for the day, much to their loss and damage.

YOUNG FORT WAYNE BANKER AND POLITICAL LEADER IS DEAD.

Young Banker and Political Leader Dies Following Operation.

The unexpected death of Marion B. Johnson, aged 37, cashier of the Citizen's Trust company, former member of the city council, and during the Grice municipal administration a member of the board of safety, has been a severe shock to an uncommonly wide circle of acquaintances in Fort Wayne. His death came at the Lutheran hospital at 9:45 Wednesday night and was due to complications that attended an operation performed at the hospital last Monday for appendicitis. Mr. Johnson had been ill but a short time when his physicians decided that an operation was necessary. He was at his post in the Citizen's Trust company bank last Saturday and made no complaint of illness. He complained Sunday of abdominal pain, but ascribed his suffering to indigestion. He rapidly became worse and a physician was summoned. The trouble was diagnosed as appendicitis and on Monday he was taken to the Lutheran hospital.

Mr. Johnson endured the operation well, but the development of uraemic

WOMEN TAKES STEPS FOR CITIZENSHIP

Miss O'Dowd and Miss Noonan, War Sufferers, Want Papers.

Caught in London at the outbreak of the great European war, without passports or other credentials to show that they were residents of this country, and put to great trouble, embarrassment and deprivation by the difficulties they encountered in getting back to their adopted land, Miss Mary Gertrude O'Dowd and Miss Mary Noonan, of 1236 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne, have filed their declaration of intention to become citizens of the United States of America and thereby renounce allegiance to all foreign rules, princes and potentates, more particularly his majesty, King George V, king of Great Britain and Ireland.

Miss O'Dowd is a sister of Thomas W. O'Dowd, proprietor of the Rich hotel and is employed by him as a bookkeeper. She has been in America since 1893, when she left Ireland, her native land. Miss Noonan came here in 1909. She also is a native of Ireland. Last summer these ladies paid a visit to their old homes in Ireland and had great trouble to get back. These are believed to be the first citizenship declarations ever filed by women in the courts of Fort Wayne.

FIGHTING ON YSER AGAIN DESPERATE

Amsterdam, Feb. 4.—The Belgian positions on the Yser near Westende again have been the scene of fierce attacks by the Germans, in which the bayonet was used by the troops on both sides of the trenches, the Telegraaf states in a dispatch from its Sluis correspondent.

The Germans, after the usual preparatory bombardment by artillery, the correspondent says, made repeated but unsuccessful attacks on several important Belgian trenches.

The desperate nature of the fighting of the past two days is indicated by the large convoys of wounded being sent to Germany.

The German administration in Belgiumgium has announced that a limited railway service will be open on thirteen lines in the region of Brussels, fourteen in that of Liege, five around Luxemberg and five in the vicinity of Charleroi.

This report states that the governor of Cracow has been instructed by the Austrian general staff to make preparations for the reception of 200,000 troops which it is proposed to withdraw from the center of the forces operating in Russian Poland.

The situation at Przemysl is reported to be desperate, with the garrison on the verge of starvation as the result of the long investment by the Russians.

NOTED JURIST OF INDIANA IS DEAD

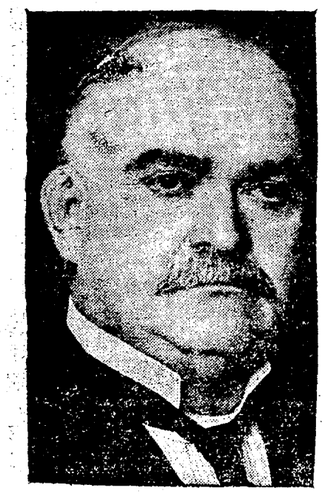
(Special to The Sentinel.)

Angola, Ind., Feb. 4.—Hon. Frank H. Powers, judge of the Indiana appellate court for the Northern district, died here last night at 10 o'clock of pneumonia. He had been ill for about ten days, but his condition had not been regarded as critical until early in the present week.

Judge Powers had not been in good health for some time and was decidedly unwell when he went to Indianapolis the first of the year to take his oath of office and ascend the bench of the appellate court. He returned to his home here January 23 for a rest and at once was taken to his bed. Pneumonia developed following what had seemed to be an attack of acute indigestion and he never again arose.



HON. FRANK H. POWERS,
Judge of Indiana Appellate Court and Noted Jurist, Who Is Dead at Angola Home.

Judge Powers was eminent in Northern Indiana as a lawyer and jurist. He was born in this city fifty-five years ago and all his life had resided here. His education was obtained in the public schools and in the Tri-State Normal college. Following his graduation from that institution he became a student of law in the offices of Woodhull & Croxton and in 1882 was admitted to the bar. He built up an extensive practice and gained a high repute in his profession. In 1910 he was elected judge of the DeKalb-Steuben circuit court and served on that bench for three years ending last December, when he resigned to assume his duties as a judge of the appellate court of Indiana, a position to which he had been elected last November.

Judge Powers leaves no immediate family. He never was married and with his brother-in-law, Hamilton H. Keep, had kept bachelor apartments in this city. He leaves a brother, George W. Powers, of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Harriett Rose, now residing in Arizona. The late Hon. Stephen A. Powers, formerly judge of the DeKalb-Steuben judicial circuit and later state senator from these two counties, was a cousin.

Judge Powers was a Scottish Rite Mason of the 32d degree and that and other Masonic bodies will participate in the funeral services. Arrangements for the funeral will not be completed until communication can be had with the confreres of the deceased on the appellate bench and with other officials of the state. The bar associations of this and DeKalb counties will take appropriate action upon his death.

The message declared that the troops near San Luis Potosi had captured more than 300 prisoners, three trains and other equipment. It added that Lieutenant Colonels Verduge and Orendain had joined the Villa forces with a command of 400 men. General Estrada in Jalisco state was reported active.

TO HAVE NO OPPOSITION

House Officers Will All Be Re-Elected in Caucus Tonight.

DEMOCRATS TO MEET TO REORGANIZE IT

Caucus Chairmanship Promises Only Big Fight of Session.

Washington, Feb. 4.—New democrats of the sixty-fourth congress and re-elected members of the next congress will caucus tonight to reorganize the house of the next congress. There is no opposition to re-election of Champ Clark of Missouri and the entire list of house officers, embracing Clerk of the House South Trimble, of Kentucky; Sergeant-at-Arms Robert B. Gordon, of Ohio; Rev. Dr. Henry N. Couden, District of Columbia, and Postmaster Wm. M. Dunbar.

Representative Claude Kitchen, of North Carolina, has no opposition for chairman of the ways and means committee, who automatically becomes democratic leader of the house to succeed Representative Underwood, of Alabama.

The fight in the caucus promises to be between Representatives Saunders, of Virginia, and Foster, of Illinois, for chairman of the democratic caucus. Both claim sufficient strength. All the eight re-elected democrats on the ways and means committee, Representatives Kitchen, Rainey of Illinois, Dixon of Indiana, Hull of Tennnessee, Garner of Texas, Collier of Mississippi, Dickinson of Missouri and Conry of New York, are expected to be selected again for the committee.

The democratic majority representation on the committee is to continue evenly balanced between the north and the south, seven from each section. There will be six vacancies for the coming congress, two from the south and four from the north. For these vacancies Representatives McGillcuddy of Maine, Allen of Ohio and Helvering of Kansas, are looked upon as certain of election on the committee and Casey of Pennsylvania is another candidate with considerable support. From the south the candidates are Representatives Barkley of Kentucky, Oldfield of Arkansas and Crisp of Georgia, only two of whom can be selected.

Other matters that may come up in the caucus include the representation to give the progressives, which probably will be referred to the committee, and an increase of the number of republicans of the committee because of the increased membership of the next house.

SAYS ALL WHO HAD PART ARE GUILTY

people call irrational is that which they cannot understand with their narrow, peanut-brained manner of thinking. You might as well try to dam Niagara Falls with a toothpick as to try and stop the onward flow of Christianity."

Dr. Lyon said that one of the greatest battles of life is the battle between the flesh and the spirit. The devil is at the bottom of the soul pulling down, and Jesus Christ is at the top lifting up."

Theory of Evolution.

The evangelist declared there are a great many people who don't know whether their parents came from the Garden of Eden or a zoological garden. He was speaking of the theory of evolution.

"By no process of evolution was a bird ever developed into a horse, or a monkey into a man," he declared. "Some people apply not evolution, but de-evolution or devilution. Why, there are some foolish people today who have a fad and believe, or say they do, that blue glass in the windows will make us all right."

Dr. Lyon said he had frequently heard some flippant person say, "I'm not afraid to die." "Neither is a hog," he said.

"Gold will not keep you from the grave," he continued. "You may be a millionaire here, but a pauper over there."

"My God," the evangelist shouted, "a large share of mankind is drifting along as though they were going to live here forever. How can you drift on to eternity helpless and hopeless?"

There were forty-eight decisions Wednesday evening, making a total of 2,537 who have signed cards.

Three Young Men Converted.

Two young men were under conviction and wanted to go forward, but a dance stood in the way. They couldn't decide whether to surrender themselves to Christ or attend the dance. Finally, the personal worker who was talking to them went up and told Dr. Lyon the situation.

"Tell the boys to come up here, I want to talk to them," the evangelist said. The two young men agreed, explaining to Dr. Lyon the thing that stood in their way.

"Boys, it isn't necessary for me to advise you," he told them. "If you surrender yourselves to Christ He will remove the thing that is bothering you."

The two boys knelt down in the sawdust with Dr. Lyon between them and his arms around them. The evangelist prayed one of those wonderful prayers and the boys were converted. Then they went to the rear of the tabernacle and talked with another young man. He, too, marched forward and gave himself to Christ.

The three young men are in deadly earnest and since their conversion they have been doing some wonderful personal work among their friends and associates.

Five Delegations.

There were five delegations Wednesday evening as follows: Rebekah lodge, members of the South Side Baptist Young People's union, Mrs. Easley's Sunday school class of the First M. E. church and professional women. Practically every delegation had a special song or a yell.

One of the features of the song service was a solo by little Onley Wight, the five-year-old daughter of Amherst Wight, 2814 Clinton street, who was called by the ushers. Mr. Jones [illegible] word until her father took a seat. "Go and sit down," she told him. Standing before the big audience the little girl sang in a clear sweet tone that could be heard in almost every part of the big tabernacle the chorus of "Jesus Will Sustain You." The applause was so continuous that she had to respond to an encore.

In speaking to the Rebekahs Dr. Lyon said: "I have been told that Rebekah was a very pretty woman and I guess you are following in her footsteps. She was a very shrewd woman, too. I am speaking of Rebekah of old."

Chautauqua Salute Given.

As the evangelist entered the tabernacle he was given a Chautauqua salute by the professional women. Speaking to the South Side Baptist Young People's union he said that the south side folks were way ahead of any other section of the city in attending the tabernacle meetings.

"I want that good looking preacher to make a report," Dr. Lyon said and Rev. Montgomery marched forward. He said that there were seventeen or eighteen more old people who wanted to attend the meeting Thursday afternoon than there were machines provided. He said more machines were needed. Mr. Jones sang as a solo, "So May You." Prayer was offered by Rev. C. M. Tunison, pastor of the South Side Baptist church.

Arrangements were made Wednesday by Dr. Lyon to go to Terre Haute at the close of the meeting in Tiffin, Ohio, where he had been invited by the ministers for a series of meetings. Rev. H. H. Pitzer will go to Terre Haute next Monday to complete the arrangements.

Employes from Bowser's plant will attend Thursday evening in a body. The railroad men will attend Saturday evening.

Noon-Day Luncheon.

Between eighty and ninety men were present at the noon-day luncheon Thursday at the First Presbyterian church, after which Dr. Lyon spoke for about half an hour on "Ability and Responsibility." Each person has some natural ability, the evangelist declared, and God expects him to use it. A man with the most opportunities will be held more responsible than the man with less opportunities.

There should be advancement in religion the same as in other things, the speaker said.

"The trouble in the religious life of today is that we have altogether too much tallow candle, stage coach, log cabin religion," he continued. "Making a profession of your religion does not increase your responsibility one tu. Christianity gives you power to bear those responsibilities."

Shop meetings were held at the Fort Wayne Electric works and the Pennsylvania car shops at the noon hour by members of the Lyon party.

A special service was held Thursday afternoon for the old folks of Fort Wayne. They were conveyed to the tabernacle in automobiles and were provided with every possible comfort.

Remarkable Experiences.

Those who went out in the work of Tuesday visiting from house to house, report remarkable experiences. The blessing was mutual upon the visitor and visited. Some who went out with fear and trembling returned with joy overflowing. They say they would not have missed the experiences for anything. In nearly every home they were welcomed. Prayer was offered in thousands of homes. All districts not visited should be completed on next Tuesday. Captains needing help report immediately.

Less Expense——Greater Values

The Patterson-Fletcher Co. business year begins Feb. 1st, and this year we begin a new policy—A policy of "Less Expense," and still greater value, but values in the finest of Men's wearables such as Hirsh Wickwire and Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothing, Wilson, Manchester and Manhattan Shirts, Trimble and Stetson Hats, Vassar Underwear, Auerback Stag Underwear.

When we see all of the extravagant advertisement in the papers with just as extravagant statements, we are convinced that the best advertisement in the world is to give people values they can get in no other store. This we did during the past year, but we are going to do still more in value-giving during 1915, but the only way we can do it is to cut our expense. Our windows and our customers must do the greater part of our advertising.

Aside from our GREAT SALES that we have twice a year—(Feb. and August), we will do but little advertising, but what we say in our small space will be right to the point.

We probably have the largest clothing business in Indiana. We expect to hold this trade and gain new customers by giving the best possible service and values that you can find in no other store in the state.

Tell your friends that this is the store that has what you want when you want it, and that it is the best clothing store in the state, and your statements will be backed up by

Why is POSTUM Replacing Cottee?

People are waking up to the harmful effects of the powerful drug—caffeine—in coffee, which poisons thesystem, often resulting in nervousness, heart flutter, headache, biliousness and many other ills and discomforts.

The pure food-drink, Postum, is absolutely drug-free—made only of the choicest wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses. It contains no caffeine or other harmful elements.

If you doubt that coffee hurts you, a sure test is to leave it off for 10 days and use Postum. It's an easy change, too, for Postum tastes much like the mild, high-grade Javas. As the coffee-drug is eliminated from your system, your own feelings will suggest Postum and better health.

MOOSE MINSTRELS HAS RECORD CAST

And Quantity Measures Up Well With Quality of Coming Show.

In addition to having more "actors" than any minstrel show that has ever been produced on a Fort Wayne stage —Road companies not excepted—the Moose charity minstrels, which will hold the boards at the Majestic theater next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, will be the best show of the kind in the city's home talent history.

More time has been devoted to training the participants and in arranging the scenic effects and the general stage "business" and more money has been spent in reading perfection. Val Ewig and Adolph Wichman, who are directing the production, are highly pleased with the showing that has been made by the eighty-seven amateurs that will take part and they are confident the stage rehearsal at the Majestic Saturday evening will show everything all set for the start Tuesday night.

The olio that will close the show is made up of a half-dozen clever little skits. Among these is "A Night at the Club," written by Jack Bailey, of the Englander Woolen company, which will be staged by the author, Darrell D. Hallenstein and Ed Cranston. Each of the three will render a song and between the numbers will pull an amusing fire of quick conversation. Mr. Hallenstein will sing "Ruff Johnson's Harmony Band"; Mr. Bailey, "Memphis Blues," and Mr. Cranston, "When He Kissed Her Good-bye."

A ten-minute sketch, featured by singing and dancing numbers, will be "In Camp at Twilight." Miss Marie Morris will be the fortune teller in this tabloid; Adolph F. Wichman, the man of the world; Miss Ruth Lanternier, the flower girl, and Miss Helen Farnan, the dancing girl.

A silk flag, fifty-six by forty-eight inches in dimensions, ordered by the lodge for the tableau scene that will close the show with a blaze of beauty, has been delivered and is on display in a window of the Fort Wayne Outfitters store.

SENATE SAVES ON PRINTING BILLS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—A saving of $465.30 has been made in the matter of printing of senate bills up to and including January 30, as compared with the same period of the 1913 legislative session, as shown by an itemized statement filed with the senate today by Secretary Free. The report also shows that there have been more bills ordered printed for that time than there were during the same period of the 1913 session.

It is shown that the total cost of the printing for the senate at this session had been $1,383.34, whereas the total cost for the same period in 1913 was $1,848.64. In 1913 there was a total of 140 bills presented as compared with a total of 178 bills printed at this session. The saving, it is said, has been due to the new plan adopted by the senate at the suggestion of Senator Chambers, himself a printer. This year the bills are printed forty one wide instead of twenty and the space between the lines has been reduced.

R. L. Polk and company has been awarded a judgment for $20 against August Kline for the publication of a book. The case was heard in the court of Justice Michael J. Tancey.

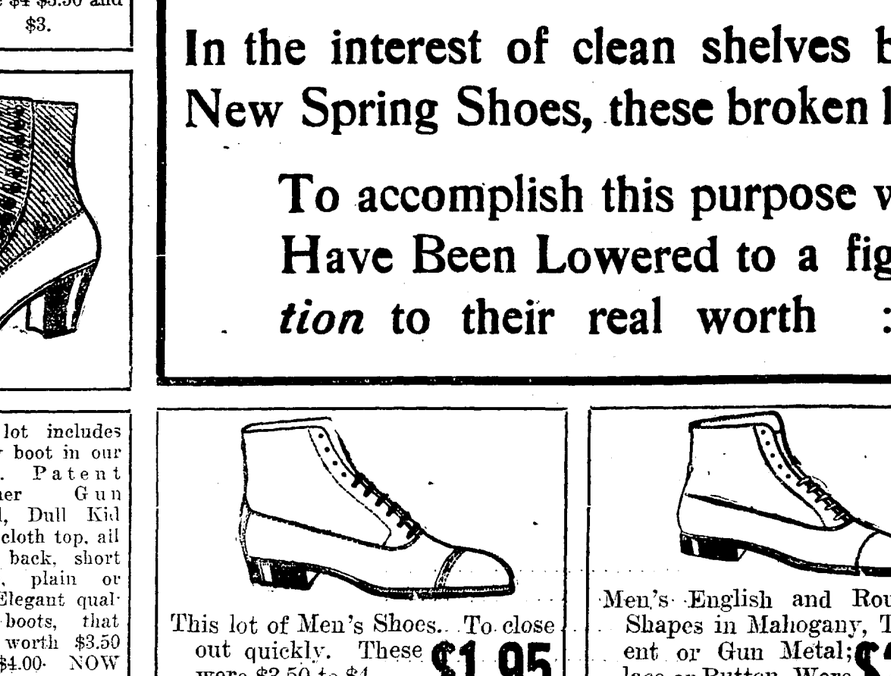
OFFICIAL STARTER DIRECTS TRAFFIC OF JITNEY BUS.



The jitney bus loop at the San Francisco Ferry building, where the association of five-cent auto drivers recently stationed an official starter to expedite the handling of crowds and to give each bus the same chance to get a load. This is but one factor in the rapid systematizing of the jitney bus business in San Francisco into lines of regular, scheduled passenger service.

GOVERNOR SIGNS ANTI-LOBBY BILL

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—Governor Samuel M. Ralston today signed the anti-lobby bill, passed by the Indiana legislature. The law provides that all lobbyists must register with the secretary of state, giving the name of the employer, the legislation in which they are interested and the pay received. Heavy fines are provided for violation of the law, which goes into effect at once.

After signing the measure Gov. Ralston went before the legislature and discussed the law, which had been objected to by lawyers all over the state. The lawyers contend they should have the privilege of representing their clients without being classed as lobbyists.

To give the unemployed in Indiana work will be the purpose of a meeting in this city today, which is being held at the instigation of the chamber of commerce of Kokomo. It is thought that a bill will be drafted to be introduced in the legislature this week providing for municipal and county administrations to do public improvement work without submitting the jobs to contractors under competitive bids. Representatives of various commercial civic and charitable organizations of the state will attend.

URGES FEDERAL AID TO MERCHANT MARINE

Washington, Feb. 4.—Government aid in building up an American merchant marine and federal legislation permitting the maintenance of resale prices were commended in special report submitted at today's session of the chamber of commerce of the United States. These recommendations and addresses by Secretary McAdoo and Senator Burton, of Ohio, on the "development of the merchant marine of the United States," and Commissioner of Corporations Davies, on the "Federal Trade Commission," were features on the day's program.

In its report the committee on merchant marine advocated the creation of a federal shipping board to encourage the establishment and successful operation of an American merchant marine and a marine development company, capitalized at $30,000,000, to advance funds to buyers or builders of steamers.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Proverbs 6:1-19.

1 My son, if thou be surety for thy friend, if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger,
2 Thou art snared with the words of thy mouth, thou art taken with the words of thy mouth.
3 Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend; go, humble thyself, and make sure thy friend.
4 Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids.
5 Deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.
6 Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise:
7 Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,
8 Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.
9 How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?
10 Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:
11 So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.
12 A naughty person, a wicked man, walketh with a froward mouth.
13 He winketh with his eyes, he speaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers;
14 Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth mischief continually; he soweth discord.
15 Therefore shall his calamity come suddenly; suddenly shall he be broken without remedy.
16 These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him:
17 A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood,
18 An heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief,

Cutting Down the Offices.

In these days when the fashion is the creation of new offices, new commissions and new boards rather than the abolition of old ones, it is somewhat shocking and at the same time rather refreshing to note that certain Indiana lawmakers strongly favor the elimination of some state offices that have long been maintained. Bills looking to this end have already been introduced in the state legislature but it is of course too early to hazard any sort of prediction as to what will come of them.

These bills include among others a measure to abolish the state geologist's department, the state entomologist, the state board of forestry and the state statistician's office and transfer the duties of these departments to Indiana and Purdue universities. Representative Waite introduced a bill seeking to create a state department of horticulture and forestry and abolish the office of state entomologist and the state board of forestry. Representative Deniston introduced a measure to abolish the state department of statistics and transfer its duties to Indiana university. He also introduced a measure to abolish the office of state geologist and transfer its duties to the state school at Bloomington. Representative Coons introduced bills seeking to abolish the office of state entomologist, his deputy, the state apiarist and the stato board of forstry and transfer the duties of these offices to Purdue university.

There is at hand no specific information as to just how the proposed changes would work out, but we fancy that as a general proposition the idea will obtain a good deal of favor over the state. On the face of things, if we are going to have economy in state expenditures, there has been a rather admirable selection of places at which to make a start.

The death of Judge Frank M. Powers, of Angola, will bring a shock of poignant grief to his very wide acquaintance over Northeastern Indiana and in other sections of the state as well. To thousands who have known Frank Powers as lawyer citizen, jurist and frind his passing comes as a deep personal sorrow. He was just, fearless, upright, kindly, companionable, of lofty honor, a man of brilliant attainments and of warm sympathies who gained friends steadily and never lost them. He had been repeatedly honored by the citizens of his home town, county and district, and more recently was elevated to a place on the Indiana appellate court bench, a position which he had but begun to adorn when stricken by the illness which has proven fatal. It is in such men as was Frank Powers that one of the finest types of American citizenship is to be found and his passing is a distinct loss to the community and to the state.

The postoffice department has manifested pronouncedly favorable interest in the suggestion to experiment with an aeroplane mail service between Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, and it is made clear that it will be gladly undertaken as quickly as an appropriation can be secured from congress to defray the expenses of the enterprise. Those who were inclined to smile superciliously at Aviator Gladbach's proposition may yet see the airship mail proposition between Fort Wayne and the state capital a daily actuality.

Representative Rauch is said to be having the troubles of his life picking a postmaster for Huntington from the list of four ambitious patriots who are after the place and at the same time keeping the other three maintaining an unshaken faith in the glory of the stars and stripes and the United States constitution. The Eleventh district congressman might have profited by noting the quick action policy pursued in the Twelfth, where selections were made before so many persons had been exposed to the postmastership contagion.

Jack Johnson is reported to be deeply puzzled as to how he is going to be able to evade federal officers and get into Mexico for his forthcoming fight, but the general public is plainly going to let the negro pugilist do his own worrying about it.

EFFICIENCY ON THE JOB.

(Indiana Times.)

Lieut. Gov. O'Neill and Speaker Bedwell are to be commended for fairness, attention to duty and for efficiency in the performance of the important tasks to which they are assigned by the people. As presiding officers of the separate houses of the Indiana legislature, these two men carry a large responsibility. Not the least difficult of their problems is that which compels them to maintain a party offense and defense, while at the same time, according to their political foes, the republican minority, the courtesy and consideration that result in respect and friendship unimpaired.

The sixty-ninth session of the Indiana legislature thus far has been marked by good feeling and fair play and by an acceleration of business that only is achieved through efficient leadership. Credit, and large credit, is due to the president of the senate and to the speaker of the house. The democratic majority is fortunate, for many reasons, in having two such presiding officers as O'Neil and Bedwell. The people will judge the majority leadership on the record it makes; on the economy, fairness, justice and the quality of the work done by the legislature. If the early part of the sesson is to stand as a criterion for the remaining weeks of the legislative period, it appears the public will be able to find much worth commending. If O'Neill and Bedwell are to continue throughout the session on the lines they have laid down up to this time, the people, regardless of party, will bestow upon them a full measure of praise. It is no more than the truth to say that these two men, a new leadership, as it were, have done much in a short time to bring credit upon themselves and on their party. They are doing good work in a modest, matter-of-fact way.

WELL TEMPERED LIVING.

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer.)

The statistics of insanity show that the minds of men and women are often made aberrant through the steady drive of environment, in which the simple life and the spurring city life are equally at fault. The figures show the per capita of insanity differs little in city and country. Rural solitude and the abnormal life of the city are alike responsible for mental diseases. It is as bad for man to be too much alone as it is for him to be surrounded by perfervid life. The history of the race, the inquiries of investigators and the judgment of specialists in the diseases of mind and body tell us that the well tempered life, void of excesses, is the plane upon which men and women best endure in mental and bodily health; a temperance of thought and a temperance of action in an environment in which the individual is neither submerged by human society or detached from it.

LETTER TO PRESIDENT WILSON.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 3, 1915.—To President Woodrow Wilson, Washington, D. C.—A six (6) cent loaf of bread is in sight now all over the land.

Now is the time to urge again the three (3) cent coinage, held up before by the five (5) cent street railways.

There is no danger now to street railways of a three (3) cent care fare, their traction expenses are so much higher with everything higher now.

When the cost of a food product is four (4) cents, one (1) cent is not enough profit, the dealer says, and jumps the selling price to ten (10) cents, the same practice holding in other small merchandise items of many kinds and varieties, to avoid giving pennies in change. Many of such small items would be marked eight (8) cents, (a five and a three) instead of ten (two fives or a dime), and nine (9) million dollars per annum is a low representative estimate of the savings to the consumers all over the United States.

MR. BRYAN FACES A HIGH-SPEED PROGRAM

Eight Speeches Before Him in Two Days Visit at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—Eight speeches were before Secretary of State Wm. J. Bryan when he arrived here at noon for a two days' visit. While here Mr. Bryan will be the guest of Governor and Mrs. Ralston and will have luncheon at the home of United States Senator John W. Kern on Friday. Mr. Bryan's first address was to be to the students of Shortridge high school at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Two addresses are on the program for tonight, the first before the democratic state editorial association and the second at a public meeting at 8:30. The activities of the second day of Mr. Bryan's visit will begin at 7:30 tomorrow morning, when the governor planned to invite a number of friends in to meet the secretary. Then will follow an address at Butler college at the foundation day exercises at 8:30, after which the secretary will make a hurried trip for a speech at Manual Training High school. The speech before the Indiana legislature will begin at 11 o'clock.

After the luncheon with Mrs. Kern Mr. Bryan expects to rest at the Ralston home until 3:30 o'clock, when he will speak at the Y. M. C. A.. The final and probably the most important speech of the trip will be made at the Transportation association club banquet, where he will talk on the subject: "The Railroads' Relations to the Business World."

Secretary Bryan will depart for Washington late tomorrow night, arriving there at 2:15 o'clock Sunday morning.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS CRITICIZE WILSON

Berlin, Feb. 4.—A news dispatch has been received here from Washington saying that President Wilson has consented to an amendment to the ship purchase bill which provides that no vessel is to be bought by the United States if such purchase would lead to conflict with any one of the belligerent powers. Nearly all the German newspapers criticize this course sharply. They virtually unite in calling it a backdown before Great Britain on the part of President Wilson. The Kreuz Zeitung says:

"This tender consideration for Great Britain is the more remarkable inasmuch as it injures America herself."

New Star Rises in Opera Firmament

Helen Stanley

When Mary Garden pinned a Red Cross badge on and went a-nursing sick soldiers in French hospitals, her grand opera mantle seemed to naturally slip around the shoulders of Miss Helen Stanley, the American prima donna.

Miss Stanley is splendidly endowed with voice and dramatic temperament. One of her operatic successes is 'Louise," made famous by Mary Garden.

BABY'S FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES

Itched and Burned. Fretful and Restless. Impossible to Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face as Well as Ever.

Glenburn, N. Dak.—"My baby's face began to break out with pimples which turned into sores. The pimples were small and festered. They itched and burned so that she scratched them. She was fretful and restless and kept scratching them while she slept. It became so bad that it was impossible for her to sleep nights.

"I began by bathing her face with ——— and water and then applying ——— but as it kept growing worse I got a prescription of some kind of salve. Still her face got worse. I read of Cuticura Soap and Ointment so tried them. After the second application I could notice an improvement and in less than two weeks her face was as well as ever without a scar." WOULD MAKE INDIANA DRY monthly a report showing the amount of liquor sold.

Where intoxicants are intended for use for scientific, medicinal and mechanical purposes, the druggist would be permitted to make the sale direct only to persons whom he knows not to be in the habit of using intoxicants as a beverage, and who has good moral character. The quantity a retail druggist could sell would be limited to a pint, while the wholesale druggist could not sell less than a gallon at a time.

Prescriptons Public Records.

Physicians in giving prescriptions would be required to state the liquor was needed for medicinal purposes and in event of a false statement being made the person could be prosecuted. His prescriptions would become public records. Any citizen, the prosecuting attorney, or the attorney general of the state could institute proceedings to determine any violaton of the proposed law. Possession of a United States liquor tax license also would be regarded as prima facie evidence of sale.

It would be made unlawful for a liquor advertisement being placed in any street car, or posted on any billboard, or printed upon handbills and distributed.

Governor Ralston in an address to the legislature after signing and interpreting the anti-lobby bill as he understood it, said it was broad enough to include all organizations, whether incorporated or not and to require a strict accounting of all money received by lobbyists. The governor defended the constitutionality of the law, which he said had been attacked and quoted state supreme court decisions to sustain him.

He said that under the act "the citizens' rights are in no wise abridged, but the exercise of certain of his rights are regulated."

Governor Ralston said in part: "Notwithstanding all the talk and misrepresentation indulged in either through ignorance or with the deliberate desire to deceive the public to the effect that this act does not apply to public officials, on the contrary, it expressly provides that it shall be unlawful for public officials to serve as 'legislative counsel' or 'legislative agents,' who are the only persons that may be legally employed to advocate or to oppose legislation. It does not prevent, of course, a public official advocating or opposing legislation without hire.

"The law has long been recognized in justice to law makers and the public that those who favor or oppose legislation because they are financially interested, commit a fraud upon the law when they fail to disclose their interest to the legislator, whom they seek to influence.

"This act, I am convinced, if complied with, will make employment to present a client's case before a law making body respectable, and the patriotic legislator and the reputable lawyer should be its strongest champions."

JAM SENDS IOWA DOWN

The vessel, valued at $150,000, carried a miscellaneous cargo of from $50,000 to $75,000 in value. Officials of the company said it was fully insured. On July 16, 1913, the Iowa was in collision in the Chicago river and sank after being tied up at her dock. She was raised and rebuilt and was given an A-1 rating by government inspectors.

MARSHALL MAY HOLD SHIP BILL'S FATE

Vote of Vice President on Probable Tie to Swing the Balance.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Vice President Marshall probably will cast the vote which decides whether the administration ship bill lives or dies at this session of congress. If the expectations of the leaders are fulfilled it will be one of the few instances in which the vice president of the United States has swung the balance. The last was when the late Vice President Sherman cast the deciding vote for the Bristow session, which put constitutional amendment for direct election of senators before the people.

Administration democrats re-formed their lines today and found they had only 46 votes against the 48 republicans waiting to send the bill back to the commerce committee without instructions. Their only course was to stave off a vote while Senator Newlands hurries back from California and Senator Smith, of South Carolina, can come from the bedside of his wife. With these votes the democrats figure that, barring surprises, the contest will be even on the floor and the vice president will be called on to cast a deciding vote. Administration leaders count him with them. With this program before them today's proceedings were carried on as part of the plan to hold off a vote until the arrival of the two absent senators.

In the course of the debate Senator Hoke Smith said: "It is understood that if the bill as now before the senate goes to a vote, it will be beaten. It is also understood that if it is amended a majority of the senate will vote for it."

AL HEIDER NOW A FEDERAL PRISONER

Hardened Young Crook Has Confessed to Stealing Mail Packages.

Albert C. Heider, 28, who has been living with his brother at 1309 Maud street, arrested with Joseph C. Swain, 27, on charge of breaking into a restaurant on West Main street, has made a complete confession to W. B. Piatt, postoffice inspector, to the charge of stealing three packages from mail sacks at the Wabash depot on three different occasions, August 12, 1914; November 19, 1914, and January 8, 1915, and was turned over to the federal authorities this afternoon.

Heider was arrested on complaint of Piatt on the specific charge of stealing a package containing dry goods on August 12, 1914, directed to Miss Persis Bond, 2137 Robinwood avenue, Toledo, O.

When arraigned in the city court for preliminary hearing on the burglary charge several days ago, Heider admitted on the witness stand that he had stolen mail packages from the Wabash depot, said he knew it was a federal case and that he was not terrified at the prospect of a term in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas.

Heider's pal, Swain, with whom he has had a falling out and whom he denounces as a "dirty rat," was arraigned for trial in the circuit court Thursday morning on the burglary charge.

NOW UP TO STATE VOTERS.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Two blankets marked "Idler" washed ashore at the Cape Hatteras coast guard station are regarded as silent proof that the vessel wrecked on the diamond shoals last week was the yacht of that name from New York, as a series of the Yacht Racing Association will be held on board the Idler this summer. GREAT IS COLLEGE EDUCATION—KNOCKS BOTTOM OUT OF H. C. L.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Who cares whether the little red hen goes on her annual winter strike or not? Who ever else does, the gay college chappies of Evanston don't. These boys don't spend all their time selecting purple socks and ties. Last fall they took a course in reducing the high cost of living on a college allowance without doing janitor work to pay room rent.

It was Howard Osborne, student of chemistry, who discovered that a solution of radium silicate was a sure preservative for hen fruit. He organized a corporation, cornered a few hundred eggs, painted them with silicate, planted them until the prices went up—and now some Evanston students are egg merchants, unworried by the infrequency with which checks come from the "old man."

DREAMS OF WEDDED BLISS SHATTERED

Pretty Cleveland Widow Sues Minister for $10,000 Heart Balm.

Cleveland, O., Feb. 4.—Dreams of a cozy home, either in Akron or some southern clime, and remembrances of auto rides, dinner and theater parties and frequent visits which, she alleges, were among numberless attentions paid her, crumbled and fell for Mrs. Zella M. Gilbert, of Cleveland and Akron, who has commenced a breach of promise suit against Rev. George H. Richie, asking $10,000 heart balm.

Mrs. Gilbert, pretty at thirty-six, who was divorced from her first husband and whose second husband died three years ago, expected, she said, to be a bride for the third time on February 3.

Mrs. Gilbert conducts a rooming house in Akron and is active in business. She has been a successful real estate agent, rent collector and until recently conducted a grocery store.

"I dread all this notoriety, but there was nothing left for me to do," she said. "I disposed of all my property on Mr. Ritchie's promise to marry me, and I had no reason to believe that he would not keep his promise."

MADE HER WILL AT AGE OF 100 YEARS

The late Mrs. Caroline P. Ferry, who died a few days ago in this city at the age of more than 100 years, did not make her will until after she had passed the century mark.

Her last will and testament was filed in the circuit court Thursday for probate and it bears the date of October 23, 1914. Mrs. Ferry celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of her birth in September. Her estate, real and personal, is left to her daughter, Mrs. Eudora E. Boyles, of West Main street.

GERMANY WARNS TO AVOID FRENCH COAST

Washington, Feb. 4.—Germany today notified the state department that American vessels should avoid the north and west coast of France.

The state department does not regard the notice as a formal declaration of a blockade by Germany of the French coast. It is said the presence of German submarines or the planting of German mines would not constitute a blockade, which, according to long established principles of the state department, requires the maintenance of a fleet of warships sufficient to prevent any intercourse with the blockaded port.

Miss Katherine MacDougal entertained a dozen ladies at a luncheon at noon today with Miss Nelly O'Brien, of Foynes, Ireland. Only a dozen ladies were seated at the luncheon, which was quite informal, Miss MacDougal taking this opportunity to have a number of club women interested in the Gaelic league, which Miss O'Brien represents, meet the distinguished guest.

"Cead Mile Failte" is the greeting to be extended to people who attend the entertainment to be given at Library hall tomorrow evening. Those words are the Gaelic meaning of a thousand welcomes. Another Gaelic expression which will become familiar to the audience is "abhrain rinnci agus ceolta," which is true Gaelic for songs, dances and music. For besides cultivating the Irish language and promoting Irish industries the Gaelic league is fostering the traditional Irish dances. An interesting feature of the entertainment tomorrow will be the costumes to be worn as the ladies conducting the exhibit of Irish art in the city will appear in costumes worn by gentlewomen in Ireland during the fifteenth century. Miss Teresa Halpin, of Garryowen, who illustrates much of the talk to be given by Miss O'Brien, is the winner of hundreds of trophies in Ireland for step dancing.

The kindergarten teachers and parents of little children are greatly interested in the entertainment to be given this evening in the auditorium of the High school building by Miss Mari Reul Hofer, of Chicago. Miss Hofer has a national reputation for her work concerning songs for children and her work in kindergarten methods and her subjects are such as interest all parents and teachers. No admission is charged but the kindergarten association of the city is anxious that a big audience pays respect to a woman with an important subject.

Another address of far more than passing interest is to be given tomorrow afternoon, also in the High school auditorium, at 3:30 o'clock by C. D. Jarvis. Mr. Jarvis is sent here by Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, to talk about home and school gardening. Dr. Claxton heard a few months ago of the work done by some Fort Wayne schools and Fort Wayne children in gardening and asked for a report. The report pleased him and this talk by Mr. Jarvis under the auspices of the Woman's League educational department is to further interest in the movement. Parents, teachers and everyone else interested is invited to hear this address.

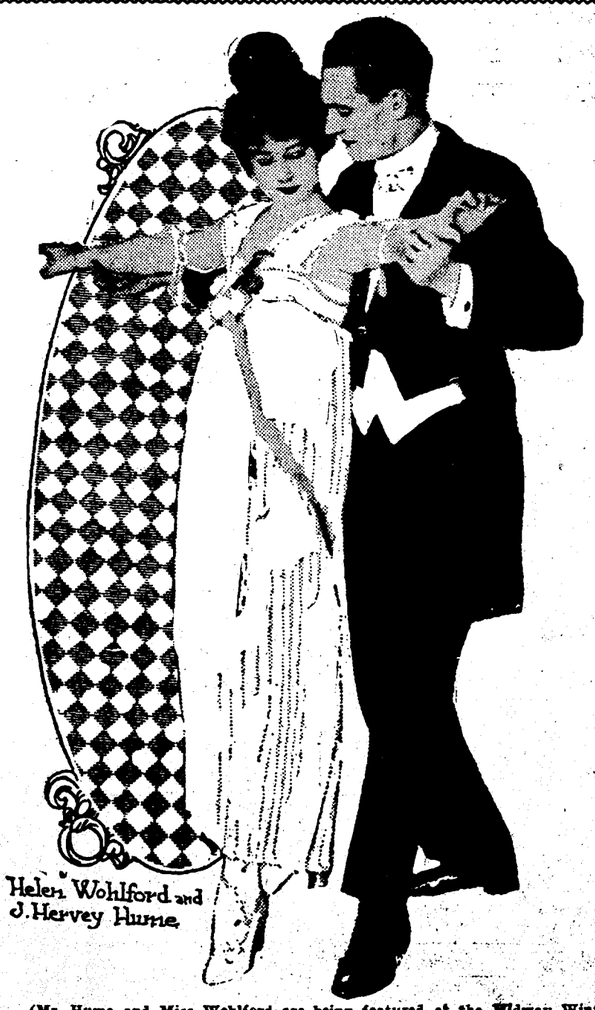
THE "BREAKSTEP" IN THE NEW WALTZ CANTER.



Helen Wohlford and J. Hervey Hume.

(Mr. Hume and Miss Wohlford are being featured at the Midway Winter Gardens, Chicago, in this series of new dances.)

(By J. Hervey Hume.)

The waltz canter is little more than the "lame duck" figure in the one step or ba...an tango, done to waltz time. With the exception of the pivots, the lady's step is backwards practically all of the time while the gentleman goes forward. However, canter variations are many, including what is known as the "draw" or "break step," the "box turn," the "reverse" and the "half corte." Making proper allowance for the difference in music, most any one-step variation may be adapted to the canter.

AT THE EMPRESS.

For the last half of the week—opening this afternoon—the Empress has a dazzling array of theatrical talent for Fort Wayne people to feast their eyes on. The Six Abdallahs, the world's greatest tumblers, with their mystifying, marvelous feats of strength and skill, will charm and delight all beholders. "Henpecked Henry," with five people in the cast, is one of those nifty farces that are all mirth and movement. Patrick and Otto, two warriors bold, present "A Battle of Words," founded on the recent fracas between the United States and Mexico. Brennan and Carr, with their "Fun on the Docks," are there with the laugh goods, while Eiler's animals constitute a real novelty in the way of animal acts.

AT THE LYRIC.

The charmer of charmers, Lillian Russell, whose golden beauty has made her name internationally famous, will repeat her performance of "Wildfire" in five big acts at the Lyric this evening. Miss Russell still is the mistress of all the artifices of the professional beauty and is as charming as ever in this role, which first gave her fame. She plays a game of tennis, although as a matter of fact, she is a grandmother a couple of times and in the thrilling race scene is infinitely more convincing on the screen than in the spoken drama.

"The Man Behind the Door" is the thrilling story to be told in four acts at the Lyric Friday. Murray Vann is playing the leading role in this splendid production.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

German Performance of "Lieb Vaterland" Friday Evening.

"Lieb Vaterland," the latest and greatest war play of the present day, will be produced at the Majestic theater tomorrow evening. It is indeed a rare treat that is in store for our German-American citizens and all students of the German language. The New York critics have unanimously endorsed "Lieb Vaterland" and praised its author, Max Simon, a New York newspaper man, on account of the fairness and impartiality shown in his thrilling play. The four powerful parts of "Lieb Vaterland" depict the great struggle of Germany from four new and immensely interesting angles.

AT THE NEW PALACE

With Frank Keenan, the American actor, featuring the bill, in his surpassing playlet, "Vindication," the New Palace has a current program in every respect worthy of the headline attraction which is surety sufficient that it is a real entertainment. Mr. Keenan's remarkable abilities as a character actor never were given a better vehicle for their exploitation than afforded by the sketch written for him by Willard Mack.

Annie Laurie is a Scotch classic that never will grow old, especially when it is sung by a girl with a voice like the one possessed by the soloist with Wyatt's Scotch Lads and Lassies. The act is a rollicking succession of Scotch ballads, dances and instrumental music.

George W. Barry and Maude C. Wolford are royal entertainers, who have provided themselves with a seemingly unending array of topical songs and funny chatter that have made them prime favorites at the New Palace. The remainder of the bill consists of the Farrell Taylor trio of blackface comedians, in "The Minstrel Man at the Club;" Charlie Nevins and Ada Gordon, in a hodge podge of laughs, songs and dances, the Steiner trio of acrobats, and Grace DeMar, the raven-haired beauty in a cycle of new songs.

AT THE TEMPLE.

An entertainment every minute the curtain is up and with enough laughs in the action to keep one chuckling between burlettas, "The Cherry Blossoms" at the Temple is a regular show, especially with Harry Shapelle and Mart Guild doing the Peple, which played at the Longacre theater, New York, for an entire season and the Cort theater, Chicago, for six months, should have been called "The Purple Pill" instead of "A Pair of Sixes." There are probably more poker players among the theater-goers than there are druggists, and so "A Pair of Sixes" may, after all, be the better of the two titles.

The story of the play carries a valuable hint to all partners and particularly to proprietary medicine people. The two partners who manufacture Eureka Digestive Pills have built up a wonderful business, selling over 10,000,000 pills annually, but developing an absolute hatred for each other in their mutual jealousy as to which of the two is contributing most of the success of the business.

AT THE COLONIAL

MRS. LESLIE CARTER IN "DU BARRY."

Staged on a scale of lavish magnificence that fairly bewilders the inspired onlooker, "Du Barry"—George Kleine's tremendous six-part photographic adaptation of the immortal story of history's most celebrated female character, opens a notable engagement at the Colonial theater today, remaining over until tomorrow evening. Mrs. Leslie Carter, one of the foremost actresses of the contemporary American stage, is found in the title role, and the vivid, picturesque interpretation that she gives to this trying role will go down in motion picture history as one of the most remarkable pieces of acting ever contributed to the screen.

Vast Pageant of Color.

In order to insure the proper atmosphere necessary to the presentation of the "Du Barry" drama, George Kleine, the producer, took the entire company of participating artists to Italy, and filmed the scenes among environments of surpassing beauty. Little doubt that this picture is considered a masterpiece by all who have seen it.

Girl in Purple Coming.

The next Columbia Wheel attraction at the Temple will be "The Girl in Purple," a burlesque with a real plot built around this same girl in the purple clothing.

THE SENTINEL'S LIVE SPORTS CRISP RELIABLE

CONCORDIANS ARE READY FOR WINONA

College Boys Believe They Can Trim the Aggies Friday Night.

Capt. G. E. Byroade and his squad of Concordia college basket ball players are all keyed up for Louis Scott and his Winona Aggies, who are carded for the college gymnasium here on Friday evening.

They figure something like this. Zanesville is the standard by which all the basket ball teams hereabouts have been measured. The margin by which it defeated Concordia is smaller than that by which it beat the other clubs therefore the local collegians have a little something over the others.

With this as a basis it is calculated that the Concordia club is about the best of the city's fives and it ought to pile up a bigger victory over Winona than the Lyceum team managed to annex.

Of course, managers of other city clubs will dispute this but these little differences between players and managers as to the relative strength of their organizations is what contests are founded upon. Concordia does not expect to win easily and is preparing for the game as carefully as it has for the others in which it has taken part this season.

The Winona team has always been a strong card and this coupled with the fact that there is a big contingent of fans strong for the local collegians promises a big attendance.

Wednesday night of next week the postponed game with St. Mary's Athletics will be played, Manager Sterling having announced that his players will be fit by that time. In expectation of a big advance sale seats will be placed at the usual places on Saturday night.

Basket Ball Notes.

The Concordia Tigers beat the St. Paul Panthers Wednesday night by a score of 18 to 14. The line-up:

Tigers—Heine and Nord, forwards; C. Heine, center; Herrman and Benschel, guards.

Panthers—Hoffman and Haught, forwards; Adams, center; Schoenherr and Moellering, guards.

Field goals—Nord, 4; C. Heinc, 2; Hoffman, 2; Adams, 1; Moellering, 4.

Foul goals—Nord, 6.

The Rexalls won from the Aeolians Wednesday night at the Lyceum by a score of 28 to 22. The line-up:

Rexalls—Buchman and Bartels, forwards; Wilkins, center; ;Borkenstein and Distel, guards.

Aeolians—Kinney and Steinbach, forwards; McGuire, center; Loos and Rulo, guards.

Field goals—Buchman, 3; Bartels, 5; Wilkens, 2; Distel, 1; Kinney, 3; Steinbacher, 1; McGuire, 5; Rulo, 1.

Foul goals—Bartels, 2; McGuire, 2.

The T. A. G.'s challenge any team in the city averaging 130 pounds, the game to be played Saturday night. Telephone 6553, between 6 and 7 Thursday evening.

The West Ends challenge any team in the city averaging 120 pounds, the Lyceum Braves or Precious Blood Maroons preferred. Telephone 1316 Red, between 5:30 and 7 Thursday evening.

A game is booked for Friday night at the St. Paul gym when the St. Paul Nationals play the Kappa Sigma five, of New Haven. These two teams met recently at New Haven, and the latter won by two points. In the preliminary the St. Paul Juniors play the New Haven high school.

GIBBONS AND M'FARLAND TO A FINISH WOULD SUPPLY THE IDEAL BOXING MATCH OF THIS GENERATION.

BY LEFT HOOK.

Suppose, Fight Fan, that you were going to prison for life, or to the South Sea islands forever, or that the boxing game was about to be blotted out—what one fight would you like to see before anyone of those things came to pass.

You can have your own choice, but give us Mike Gibbons and Packey McFarland to a finish.

Of course, that is an idle dream in these days of petted and pampered ten-round pugilists, but even a half hour of that pair would be good enough to go miles to see if Mike would put up the same kind of battle he did against Jimmy Clabby the other evening in Milwaukee, and if Packey would come out of his shell and fight.

Gibbons' decisive defeat of Jimmy Clabby, heralded as king of the middleweights, put Mike right up on the top of the heap as the best middleweight since Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke were mussing each other up at every opportunity. He's another Jack Dempsey and well worthy of comparison with the Nonpareil.

It was a ten-round fight, it is true, but not one person who saw it left the arena doubting that Gibbons was Clabby's master in every end of the game. Mike outhit, outblocked and outdid Jimmy in everything the latter was credited with being most proficient at. And Joems is no slouch. He is one of the greatest boxers that ever climbed under the ropes. But Mike is a better one.

Now every middleweight of any class whatever is out for a wallop at Gibbons. McGoorty, with whom Mike fought a running fight in New York, is likely the best bet for somebody's club. But Eddie is getting bigger and makes 158 with an effort. Mike weighed in at 153 against Clabby.

Surely, Clabby will win a return match. And then there is George Chip and Young Ahern, whom the easterners are touting. Gibbons is in for a busy season if he wants it, and he wants it all right. The St. Paul tinner with the brilliant pompadour is passing up no chances to add to his real estate holdings.

But perhaps Packey, who has now so far forgotten his retirement from the ring as to book up as an added attraction with a show, will come back before the season is over. Then that Gibbons-McFarland match that caused so much discussion a year ago is likely to come off.

If Packey comes back, and how many of them ever stay away while they can yet stand, it may be to take the nailer on the chin that has stopped them all. Boxing history proves that no matter how great a record a man has stacked up he usually never quits until knocked out. Witness the painful Jeffries affair.

McFarland has never been knocked out.

JIM THORPE TOOK A LEAP JUST FOR FUN

Coach Genn Warner Saw Him—It Led to Discov- of Great Athlete.

New York, Feb. 4.—The law business wasn't very lucrative in New York, back in 1895, and that's why Glenn S. Warner, now coach of the University of Pittsburg eleven, busted into the football coaching business.

Warner today ranks as one of the greatest football coaches in America and one of the most famous athletic trainers in the world. Warner is a "miracle man" when it comes to developing green material, as is shown by his work as coach and trainer at the Carlisle Indiana school, in Carlisle, Pa.

Warner has brought to the fore many wonderful athletes, including Louis Tewanima, the great distance runner; Jim Thorpe, who won the title of greatest all-around athlete in the world in 1912 olympics, and Charles Albert ("Chief") Bender, one of the greatest pitchers in major league history.

"Bender was just a boy when he entered Carlisle," says Warner. "He had ambitions to become an outfielder. I recognized pitching skill in Bender and I coached him in the art of pitching. Bender proved an apt pupil. Bender was graduated from Carlisle in 1903. In 1904 he joined the Philadelphia Athletics. The rest is history.

"Jim Thorpe was one of the hardest men I ever had to handle," continued Warner. "He didn't believe he was an athlete. I had to keep drilling that into him. Even when he was gaining local fame he thought his accomplishments were due more to fool luck than skill.

"Thorpe was discovered in an accidental way. One day I had a squad out trying the high jumps. None of my men seemed able to clear the bar after I had shifted it rather high. Just at this moment Thorpe came along. He had been working in one of the school shops. He was wearing overalls and carrying a bucket.

"Thorpe, seeing that the others couldn't do the jump, dropped his bucket, stepped back a few paces, and without a word, made a flying leap and crossed that bar with inches to spare.

"Thorpe did that without training. I hadn't seen him before. At least, I didn't remember him, as he was a new man at the school. But you can bet that I hustled him off to the gymnasium, pushed him into an athletic suit and started him on his career that finally led him to the crest of the athletic world.

Warner has been handling athletes for twenty years, but most of his work was done at Carlisle, where he found nothing each year but "green" material. Indians from the plains and mountains of the far west who didn't know the difference between a pole vault and a hockey stick.

"How did you handle the Indians?" Warner was asked.

"With patience," answered Warner, "and kindness. An Indian can be made to do more through kindness than through any other method. They won't stand for bullying tactics.

"In the training of the athletes I adhered to one set of rules when teaching the men the fundamentals of the sport. But after that I humored the peculiarities of the men. No two men do things exactly alike. If you try to force a squad of athletes to train according to a fixed rule, you make an error. Whenever I found a man who wanted to do things his own way instead of in the generally accepted way, whether it was in baseball, football or track, I let him do it, unless I was convinced that the way he was doing it was detracting from his skill."

Warner was a famous football player in the early nineties. He played guard at Cornell and he was a wonder at that position. He played on the baseball team and won his letter for track work, too.

Warner graduated in 1895 and at once went to New York, where he hired an office and hung out a shingle. But business didn't do any perking up. Just about the time when Warner was beginning to figure out how he was going to purchase coal and other winter luxuries, the University of Georgia, hunting around for a football coach, discovered Warner. They offered him a job—and he accepted.

Warner is the type of coach who wins his men to him by his likable personality. Warner is kindly and brotherly in his attitude toward his men, yet he never encourages undue familiarity. On the field his men recognize him as the boss. Off the field he is their friend and their pal.

Warner's patience has become proverbial. Mistakes made by his pupils may rile him, but he never lets it show on the surface. If one of his pupils fails to execute an order in keeping with instructions, Warner doesn't threaten the player with instant death.

"That was a bit wrong that time," says Warner, kindly and not rebukingly. "Let's try it again. Now this is the way," and Warner repeats his first order.

E. F. Minnecker, assistant claim agent of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, underwent an operation at the St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday.

WIDOW SAYS SHE IS DEFRAUDED OF LAND

Frances E. Bowman Brings Suit Demanding Damages of $7,000.

Frances E. Bowman, who describes herself as a widow aged 64 years, has filed in the circuit court a suit with some sensational features and in it she demands damages of $7,000 from Frances E. Bowman and Abner S. Elzey. The complaint says that on April 1, 1914—a good day for such a trick as she alleges—she deeded to the defendants a tract of 160 acres in Allen county and another of seven acres in Wells county, there being a contract that if they sold her land, as was understood, she should pay them a fair and just commission for their trouble and that if they didn't sell it they were to pay off $7,000 of indebtedness and compensate her with a sum of money that would be equitable and just and provide her with a good home and maintenance. She says the contract was so drawn that Elzey, as party of the third part, escapes all liability for carrying out the contract, and he is charged with being the "master spirit in the perpetration of the fraud." She says the defendants have refused to keep certain oral agreements made with her and that she has received no reasonable sum representing the difference between the value of the land, which is stated to aggregate $26.000, and the debts that were paid for her, and that she has to beg them for fuel and provisions. Action was not filed until now, says the plaintiff, because she feared the defendants would refuse her any support whatever.

Three Weeks, or Thereabouts.

Joseph A. Current recites in his complaint for divorce from Minnie Current that following their marriage in July, 1914, they lived together "a few weeks" and that from the beginning she treated him in a cruel and inhuman manner. She tried constantly to quarrel with him, he says, and sought to compel him to support her child by another marriage, when there had been a pre-nuptial understanding that the child was to live with its grandmother. She became angry at him at the start, remained so and finally deserted his house. He says he cannot live with her because of her "vile temperament" and asks a divorce.

Brings Two Suits.

Charles Anderson, whose wife, Minnie, sued him for divorce a few days ago, has filed in the circuit court a cross complaint in which he says she cursed him, called him names that are not printable, denounced him as a fool and a liar and threatened to kill him, on one occasion hurling a flat-iron with such violence that it went through the panel of a door. Also she accused him of immoral associations, he says, while at the same time had admitted to him her own faithlessness. The children of the pair are alleged to have been scolded and cruelly beaten by her and at one time she abandoned them for three months and at another time for nine months. For the loss of this paragon of wifely virtue Anderson blames her mother, Mrs. Melissa Van Horn, against whom he has filed in the same court a suit for $2,000 damages, alleging that she got his wife to leave him and destroyed his happy home.

Got Drunk and Abused Her.

Emily Hughes has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from George Hughes, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. She says he would get drunk drunk and then strike, kick and otherwise maltreat her.She asks custody of children and an order restraining him from molesting her has been issued. They were married in November, 1912, and separated a few days ago.

Notes of the Courts.

In the circuit court Harry Jones pleaded guilty to grand larceny in having stolen $50 from the hosiery of a young woman with whom he had been having a sociable time at a little party in a boarding house and whom he robbed after he had tucked her in bed. Sentence of from one to fourteen years in the reformatory was suspended.

These suits have been dismissed by the superior court: Dreher vs. Wiener, Eggiman vs. Eggiman, and Wiegmann vs. Wiegmann.

Minnie Current has sued George Current for $600 borrowed money, the case being filed in the circuit court.

Joseph Swain was put on trial in the circuit court Thursday morning on a charge of burglarizing the Liebenguth restaurant on West Main street, several weeks ago. He pleaded not guilty and members of his family put in an alibi that in all its parts was thoroughly concordant. The trial was halted at 3 o'clock and continued until Friday afternoon at 1:30. Al Heider, accused with Swain on the jog, has been surrendered to the federal authorities for mail robberies and the burglary charge against him will be dismissed.

In the superior court Margaret Dodge has been granted a divorce from John W. Dodge.

The divorce suit of Anna Meese vs. Orin Meese has been dismissed from the superior court.

Sympathy.

"Pa, what are 'growing pains?'"

"Those are what little boys have when they are growing tall."

"My, you must have suffered awfully, pa."

Indirect Action.

"How are we going to poison that dog and get him out of the way? I think it's risky to try."

"Well, but not by my way."

"How's that?"

"Just rub the poison on your leg and let him bite it.'

LARGE ASSESSMENT ROLL IS PREPARED

Board of Works Will Confirm Levies for the Lakeside Sewer.

The principal business of the board of works Thursday night will be consideration of the assessment roll for the Lakeside sewer and sewer pumps recently constructed and now undergoing a satisfactory test. The city engineering department completed the huge roll and transmitted it to the board Thursday morning. It consists of forty-two pages containing 2,088 separate property descriptions and the aggregate of assessments is $7,430.96, which will pay for a connecting sewer, the pump-house, sewage pumps and other equipment and for the site on which the house stands. Assessment was based on the area of the property assessed at the rate of one-half mill per square foot. The board will probably confirm the rolls at Thursday night's session.

ANOTHER SHIFT IS MADE.

Another shift in the status of the Weisser park improvement resolution occurred Thursday when the park bureau of assessments located and identified additional resident property owners in the southeast park district whose names cannot be found so far as the search has proceeded on the remonstrances filed. This gives the resolution another small margin. If complete search fails to reveal these property owners as remonstrants and no other changes that will disturb the balance are necessary the resolution will not be defeated. It was stated at the park board office, however, that the work of checking up had not been completed and that the result might still be considered in doubt.

NEW AUTO IN COMMISSION.

A third automobile has been added to the vehicular equipment of the city light and power works and Superintendent Frank Dix is now driving a new Ford of latest design and equipment. The increasing business of the department made necessary this addition to the equipment of the service branch.

CLEVER INVENTION IS SAFETY DEVICE

Railroad Collisions Are Prevented—Test Proves Successful.

New York, Feb. 4.—President Ralph Peters, of the Long Island railroad, is conducting elaborate experiments with what seems, up to this time, a marvelous device for the prevention of railroad collisions. It was invented by a telegraph operator in the Hotel Knickerbocker, and Proprietor Regan of that hostelry is financing the development of the device. Guests of President Peters' private car who saw the invention in operation this week could hardly be brought to believe that it was entirely automatic. And you couldn't blame them much, for this is what they saw:

Turned the Engine Loose.

The locomotive attached to the private car was started at twenty-eight miles an hour in pursuit of a freight train. The engineer, after setting his levers for full speed ahead, lighted a cigar and sat at the back of his cab. When a collision seemed about to occur the locomotive's whistle blew, the steam was turned off and the air brakes were thrown on. The "special" came to as quick and timely a stop as if the engineer had foreseen danger and acted to avert it.

The device can be used only where the block system has been installed. But it makes the block system automatically effective. There was no dependence upon human fallibility. At each block junction two short stretches of third rail take the contact of a shoe, attached to the engine. If the block ahead is empty there is no effect from the contact. If a train, moving or stationary, however, is in the block which the engine is entering, the shoe picks up a current powerful enough to operate three electric devices on the engine. One of them blows the whistle, another throws on the air brakes and the third shuts off the steam. The devices operate with the same effect if there is a broken rail in the block which is being entered or—which is of great importance—if a switch is thrown behind the train. Thus a train may be stopped almost instantly by a switchman after it has passed him.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

Fireman Theodore Walda Sustains Fractured Bone in Fall Thursday.

The injuries sustained by Fireman Theodore Walda, of No. 1 engine house, when he lost his hold on the sliding pole Thursday morning when he responded to the call which destroyed the Electro Plating company's place of business, are thought not to be serious. His injuries consist of a fractured bone in the right forearm and several bruises. He was taken to the Lutheran hospital immediately following the accident and an X-ray picture was taken of his back, but the picture showed nothing. It is thought he will be able to leave in a week or ten days.

WHO IS THIS MAN WALSH, ANYWAY?

Chief Industrial Prober is Ranked as Very Fine Fighter.

Kansas City, Feb. 4.—Who is this man, Frank P. Walsh, head prober of unrest, whom the Gilded Order of Folks Who Live by the Sweat of Other Folks' Brows are beginning to dislike so much and to belittle or defame?

An iron jaw, a funny bone and a heart like an ox. That's what he is, in outline.

Geographically, he was born fifty years ago in St. Louis. He was born pup-poor. In the circle that he played with as a boy were thirty splendid chaps, Frank's chums. Only three of them "made good." The others, as they grew up, fell by the wayside, victims of poverty and the lack of a chance.

Two-fistedly fighting his own way up, through school and law school to a shingle at the Kansas City bar, Walsh one day began to wonder.

Was it necessary that twenty-seven should go down in order that three might rise?

So he became a student of social problems and, in time, a radical.

Irish and proud of it, he took to politics as a duck to water. But some strain in him kept him restless "within the party." Time after time he saw cheap skate politicians selling gold bricks to the poor under the banner of Thomas Jefferson; making brave talk before election and turning traitor the day after.

So he insurged.

Down in Missouri folks are talking yet about how nervy a fight Walsh made among the crooks in the democracy. Forward and backward, up and down, he belabored 'em; sometimes winning, more often losing, but always fighting—and smiling.

It must be that his funny bone is very close to his iron jaw for he's always seeing something to make his jaw snap and his eyes to smile.

The result of Walsh's shindies in Missouri politics was the election of Joe Folk as governor and a clean-out the old gangsters will never forget.

Between whiles Frank did law business. Some of it paid big; much paid nothing; for, like the doctors, he charged to fit the patient's purse; and his door stood open.

Many of his biggest court battles were fights against greed in behalf of the weak; and these he did for the sheer fun of the thing.

He was also a sort of standing counsel for organized labor—for with him the right of men to what they earn has the pull of a religion.

At that, he did enough paying business to put the wolf several feet from the door. Walsh isn't rich but he is insured—the wife and the eight kiddies are provided for.

It was mainly Walsh—Walsh and Bill Nelson, the editor man—who put over Kansas City's public welfare board; that first of American big city signs that the rights of humanity were going to get a look-in alongside the rights and grafts of property.

Three years ago when the Wilson campaign went "broke" owing to a big business boycott, Walsh put in $4,000 himself and got others to chip in, bringing the chasm and inspiring hope. In that campaign, too, he organized the social service workers and was the official optimist at McAdoo's headquarters.

With the youth, rosy health and spirits of a boy, but tempered by experiences that have touched life at every angle, Walsh is a husky specimen of alert manhood whose great passion is democracy. Remembering those twenty-seven chums who went down in the slums, the warm heart of him wants every boy and girl to have a fair chance.

It is that which made him lay aside big earnings at the bar to take from President Wilson the chairmanship of the federal commission on industrial relations, a job which actually costs him money, gets him in bad with the rich and mighty, but is nevertheless a joy, because through it he hopes to do good.

The chances are that you're not a predatory plute; that your sympathies are rather with Walsh than against him.

But if you are; if you want to scorn and hate him, take advice in time and keep away—he captures even his enemies when they get against the charm of the man.

poisoning added a grave complication to the case and his condition was admitted to be serious. There was a distinct rally on Wednesday morning and it was thought the improvement would continue, but later in the day there was a relapse and his condition became steadily worse until death intervened at 9:45 Wednesday night.

Very few of Mr. Johnson's host of friends had been aware that he was ill and had been obliged to submit himself to the surgeon's knife and the announcement of his death was received with the pain of a great shock.

Of the younger school of men of affairs in Fort Wayne Mr. Johnson was one of the best known, most influential and highly esteemed. His rise to prominence and consequence had been rapid and well deserved upon his own unhelped merits. He was born in Erie, Pa., November 3, 1877, and ten years later came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron J. Johnson, to Fort Wayne. He attended the public schools and as a small lad showed an early reliance upon himself by working as a newspaper carrier, having been for a time one of The Sentinel staff of carrier boys. At the age of 18 he took employment in the counting room of the Morning Journal as a collector and assistant bookkeeper. Later he entered the works of the Bowser Oil Tank company, serving an apprenticeship as a machinist, later going to the machine department of the Fort Wayne Electric works. Before he had reached his majority he had manifested lively interest and displayed uncommon talents in political affairs of the city and became one of the most active of the young republicans in the concerns of that party. In 1905 he was one of the five nominees of his party for councilman-at-large, and though the democrats won a sweeping victory in the city in that municipal campaign, he was elected, serving the entire term. When the administration of Mayor Jesse Grice was inaugurated in January, 1910, Mr. Johnson accepted appointment as one of the majority members of the board of safety and continued in office until little more than a year ago, when he retired with the Grice regime. In the council and as a member of the board he displayed ready energy and an intelligent grasp of public affairs. It was seven years ago that the Citizens' Trust company called him from his employment as a machinist in the Electric works to a position as agent in its insurance department. His discharge of these duties was marked by success so signal that he soon was promoted to a place in the offices and a short time afterward, when John G. Wolfrum resigned his position as cashier, Mr. Johnson was appointed to succeed him and had since filled the place with a notable degree of efficiency.

Mr. Johnson was a man of fine type. His personal life had always been above reproach. To a splendid capacity for business affairs he united a nature that was singularly gifted in those qualities that attract friends and invite confidence. His popularity with all who knew him was well founded and strong. He was a man of intense public spirit and took an active part in the civic affairs in whatever ways he best could be useful.

Mr. Johnson was married and had established a fine home at 2916 Shawnee Place. Surviving him are the widow, two sons, Merrill and Robert; his mother, Mrs. Jennie Downing; a brother, Clayton H. Johnson, and a sister, Mrs. Edith Ringwalt, residing in Fort Wayne, and three other sisters, Mrs. Edith Wilson and Mrs. Helen Holmes, of Plymouth, Mich., and Mrs. Bird, of Buffalo.

Mr. Johnson was a member of Trinity English Lutheran church and of the local lodge of Woodmen.

Tracks of Traction Company Are Under Water at Wabash.

With more rain predicted the prospects of high waters are favorable, according to W. S. Palmer, weather forecaster. While he would not say that there is danger of a flood the fact that the river is already high and more rain is probable there is a possibility of the river reaching the flood stage. However, Mr. Palmer does not believe there is cause for alarm.

The river reached 13 feet and 5 inches Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning at 7 o'clock it had receded three inches, indicating that the water is gradually going down. With more rain within the next few hours, however, another rise would be certain.

For a distance of about 500 feet at the eastern edge of Wabash the tracks of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company were under water Thursday and all passengers had to be transferred. The overflow is due to the ice in the Wabash river, which is being blasted with dynamite in an effort to relieve conditions at that place.

Five applications for jobs were filed at the postoffice Thursday morning.

YOUNG LAD IS HELD ON LARCENY CHARGE

Cyrus Fike, Aged 15, Probably Author of Tabernacle Robberies.

The arrest by Detective Sergeants Walter Immel and Martin A. Rundell of Cyrus Fike, a 15-year-old lad, is believed to hold the solution of a series of robberies that have been committed at the Lyon tabernacle, on West Wayne street, during the past week. Young Fike, who has been in repeated trouble heretofore for stealing, was arraigned in the city court Thursday morning, and being under the age of 16 years, was certified at once to the juvenile court without hearing. He was placed in custody of Probation Officer Wesley I. Wenk. The specific charge upon which young Fike was arraigned was for stealing an overcoat belonging to Orlie Dunifon, a young man residing at 507 Masterson avenue. An overcoat belonging to Leslie Hodsell, 1235 Boone street, and another belonging to S. D. Emmil, were also stolen from the tabernacle during evening religious services there during the past week. The Fike boy is suspected of these robberies.

Other City Court Cases.

Timothy Dee, who confessed that his right name is Timothy D. Keough, and his home in Buffalo, where he once or twice did special duty as a policeman, was found guilty of petit larceny and given $1 and costs and fifteen days in jail. He stole a pair of rubber arctic overshoes from in front of the Morris Meyer clothing store, 132 West Main street several days ago and was arrested by Detective Sergeants Immel and Rundell after he tried to sell them at a pawn shop. Keough insisted he had bought them of a stranger for 25 cents.

James Sullivan, who said he was a deep-sea sailor, was fined $5 and costs for being drunk and begging. After he had been locked in a police cell he fell from his bunk and badly cut his head.

Harry Jones, a colored vag, detained for a day or two, was taken at his word to get right out of town and when told to move did so from the court room with a lively trot that seemed to mean making good.

Walter Butler, a drunk, was turned loose. The case against Rozella Craig, charged with deserting her children, was continued, as was the disorderly charge against Morris Martin. The prosecutor asked that the loitering charge against Ora Franklin, a demented man detained here for a day or two, be dismissed.

"NEGLECT KILLS BEAUTY," SAYS SWITCHBOARD GIRL.

Miss Hough's hair is truly her "Crown of Glory."

No woman should be held responsible for her nose, be it of classic shape, or merely a saucy little snub, nor should she be blamed for the curve of her mouth or the color of her eyes, but every woman is responsible for her hair.

Not for its tints and glints, of course, unless she's one of the foolish sisterhood that resort to henna or peroxide, but the texture, and to a certain extent the quantity of her "crown of glory" is entirely her own affair.

This at least is the beauty philosophy of Miss Irene Hough, whose beauty has attracted wide attention since she was declared the most beautiful telephone girl in America.

Miss Hough has beautiful hair, with the glint of the sun in it, and it's like a thistle down in its softness and fluffiness. She believes that her golden topknot had a good deal to do with deciding the beauty contest in her favor.

"I'm rather proud of my hair," she said, "and I think I have a right to be because I practically raised this crop myself. My hair used to be fearfully scraggly, and not a bit good to look at. Then I said to myself, 'Miss Irene Hough, you have pretty nice eyes and fairly good complexion, altogether not a bad looking girl, why spoil your appearance with scraggly, dull hair?'

"Then I went to work. I got a good bristle brush, rather stiff, and a little jar of white vaseline.

"Every night I brush my hair until it shines and then I give my scalp a gentle massage with my finger tips until it is pink, which is the color of the healthy scalp.

"A little trick of my own is the use of an old silk handkerchief as a hair brush. I wrap the 'kerchief about my hand and then polish my hair as if I were polishing silver. Your hair will never be drab and dull if you brush it with silk."

BUYS A FARM IN WHITLEY.

Columbia City, Ind., Feb. 4.—Calvin H. Brown, ex-auditor of Allen county, closed a deal Tuesday whereby he becomes the owner of a tract of land in Whitley county and, according to the contract closed, he is to take possession of his property March 1. The land purchased was from Mr. and Mrs. Clifford H. Crothers, of Jefferson township, the farm consisting of 165 acres and, according to the terms of the contract, the purchase price was $18,000. The farm is one of the best in Jefferson township and it is understood that Mr. Brown expects to move on the same and make Whitley county his future home.

TIGER KEEPER PLEADS GUILTY.

Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 4.—After hearing evidence for nearly a whole day concerning the violating of the liquor laws by the Garvin family, who kept a road house near Claypool, Joseph Garvin pleaded guilty to the charge and the other members of the family, indicted on the same charge were allowed to go free. Joseph Garvin will probably be given a very heavy sentence, as this is his second offense. There is no prison sentence for violation of the liquor laws in this state. However for an offense of this nature may be placed under federal jurisdiction and a sentence in the federal prison at Leavenworth might be passed.

GROWING WHEAT IN DANGER.

Warsaw, Ind., Feb. 4.—Farmers report that where wheatfields are level as a rule they are covered with ice which will injure the growing wheat. Unless the ground is open enough to let the water soak in the earth there will be a great danger of a repetition of 1911, when the most of the growing wheat on level ground was all killed. The ground is frozen at least eighteen inches in the open and if the same conditions exist in growing wheat fields there will be more or less danger to the present wheat crop. Much depends on the conditions of the weather in the next ten days.

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids an instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Adv.

MARVELOUS MACHINERY FOR WHOLESALE MURDER WAR'S GREATEST CONTRIBUTION TO PROGRESS.

Great are the advances which the present war has already marked in man-killing machinery.

At its beginning the Germans developed a complete surprise in their now-famous "42-centimeter" howitzer. Contrary to early reports, it was not made by the Krupps, but in the Austrian works of Skoda, and it is the belief in military circles that, at the war's outbreak the Germans had but two of these great guns, so effective at Maubeuge and Namur.

But from the allies' point of view that was two too many; for the 2,000-pound shell from this 16.8-inch bore weapon, with its 36,000-yard range, fired high over the fortification selected as its target, falls with a velocity so irresistible as to crash through stone or steel like a bullet through butter, afterward exploding with more than the force of a thunderbolt.

The steel-capped gun chambers in the forts at Liege and Namur were pierced by shells from a smaller howitzer, of Krupp manufacture, known as the 28-centimeter type. With a bore of 11.2 inches, this gun hurls a projectile weighing 760 pounds a distance of nearly six miles. Once such a shell explodes within a confined space, it not only showers upon all living persons within the compartment a deluge of death-dealing bullets and fragments of steel, but, to complete the certainty of destruction, generates a suffocating gas.

In joint of explosives the Germans had also an initial advantage through their use, by a secret process, of a nitrated gas-tar by-product, known to scientists as "tri-nitro-toluene." Multiply by five the power of the fiercest explosive you know, and you will have some idea of what "tri-nitro-toluene" is like. Compared with it, British cordite is as weak tea to Jersey applejack.

But these smashing howitzers, though spelling quick ruin for the most pretentious fortifications, are of little or no use in field operations. Here the first half year of war's stern test has fully confirmed the glowing advance notices of the pet of French artillerists, the so-called "75."

This weapon shoots, at the rate of fifteen a minute, a fifteen-pound shell five or more miles. It is comparatively light and easily handled, works on a pivot so that one sighting suffices for a number of shots; is equipped automatically to take up its own recoil without disturbing its aim; and when one of its shells bursts, the area of death-deal is about twice the size of an average city lot; or say, sixty feet by 300.

Locate a battery of these field pieces within, say, four miles of an enemy's trench; and, if the entrenched enemy can be reached at all; if his protection be not perfect, it is like turning furrows to plot the trench and sweep it forward and backward till not a soul is left alive.

All this, of course, upon the assumption that the enemy's field pieces let you do it.

To the flying machine the god of modern war must at this point take off his hat and make a profound salute.

Imagine the difficulty of getting the right range on a target four to five miles away if you had no better guidance than the directions of some observer equally or further remote from the place you want to hit.

But the aviators not only sail right over the objective spot, but, by wireless, or by other signaling equally swift, let you know if the first shot fell short or overshot and how much, making the correction of range a matter of simple mathematics.

This is the one big new contribution of military science thus far in the present war to efficiency in murder by wholesale.

The second is the perfection of shell construction and propulsion as shown at Liege, Namur, Maubeuge and Antwerp, a point originally of German advantage, but said now to be more evenly balanced, at least among the western allies.

Not the least novel of the war's developments is the reversion to the tactics of the so-called dark ages by the employment of hand grenades; literally bombs such as we used to think only anarchists would hurl. In assailing trenches these are now quite in fashion. Creep up on the enemy at night, in the dark, if he is careless enough not to keep his searchlights going; and when near toss into the ditch where he is trying to sleep a lot of hand-propelled shells of high explosive quality, filled with bullets and scraps of iron.

When they go off he'll know you have called.

ALL AGREED WE NEED BILL, BUT WHAT KIND?

Hearing Brings Out Wide Variance on Workmen's Compensation.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—While agreed that a workmen's compensation law should be enacted by the Indiana legislature, employers and employes, who last night addressed the joint hearing of senate and house committees, which have five bills on the subject before them, differ greatly as to what the provisions of the law should be.

Employers favor the Ogle-Fredericks bill, which provides for fifty per cent. differential compensation and for it being left optional with the employer what form of insurance he carries to guarantee payment of claims. Employes favor the measure prepared by Charles Fox, president of the Indiana Federation of Labor, which provides 66 2-3 percent. compensation and for all employers, who elect to come under the proposed law to carry state insurance under control of a state commission.

No decision had been reached by the committees upon adjournment at midnight. Senator Van Nuys, of Anderson, who presided, said the committees likely would hold a number of executive sessions before either would report a bill to its respective house with the recommendation that it be passed. Mr. Van Nuys gave assurance that the legislature would enact a compensation law.

The meeting was largely attended, employers from Muncie, Terre Haute and other cities being present. The labor organizations throughout the state also were well represented. Among those who addressed the meeting were William Huston, Terre Haute, representing the miners; John A. Voll, of Zanesville, O., who discussed the working of the Ohio compensation law; John J. Walsh, state factory inspector; President Fox, of the state federation; P. H. Panna, a coal operator of Terre Haute; former State Senator Charles M. Kimbrough, of Muncie, and Frank Smith, of Indianapolis, secretary of the Indiana Manufacturers' association.

After two roll calls had been held in the house yesterday afternoon on the measure of Majority Floor Leader Branaman, which would give the state board of finance authority to call for advance payments of state money by county treasurers at any time, and errors had been found in each of them, Speaker Bedwell declared he "wanted no crooked roll calls to be held in this house," and ordered a third be taken. The speaker explained the errors in the previous roll calls had been due to "confusion in the house and not to any intention of the clerk."

The corrected vote was announced at 50 to 46, and the bill was declared defeated, as it lacked one vote of having a constitutional majority. The first roll call was announced at 54 to 42 and the second 51 to 45.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS.

Plating Company's Plant on Hanna Street Destroyed by Flames.

Fire, which undoubtedly had its origin from an overheated stove in the rear of the building occupied by the Fort Wayne Electro Plating company, at 1160 Hanna street at 1 o'clock Thursday morning, completely ruined the structure and caused a loss of $1,000, which is covered by insurance.

The Electro Plating company is operated by H. H. Ruchel and H. F. Greek and the building is owned by William Ruchel. The second floor, where it is supposed the fire started is used for a carpenter shop. Mr. Ruchel, however, was in the shop until eleven o'clock Wednesday evening and when he left he states everything was in first class shape.

The fire was discovered by L. F. Kinley, who turned in the call, to which No. 1 engine and companies 3 and 4 responded. Firemen succeeded in saving an empty house which stood next to the building that was destroyed.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

John B. Reynolds Lives Only Ten Minutes After Attack of Apoplexy.

John Burr Reynolds, passenger and freight agent at Convoy for the Pennsylvania, was stricken with apoplexy at 1:10 o'clock Thursday morning and died ten minutes later, before medical assistance could reach him. The attack came suddenly, Mr. Reynolds retiring last night in apparently good health, after working as usual at his office. The news of his death will be a most shocking surprise to his many acquaintances in railway and other circles along the line of the Pensylvania from Pittsburg to Chicago.

The deceased is survived by the widow, three daughters and two sons. The children are Fred Reynolds, a Pennsylvania train dispatcher, Fort Wayne; Carl Reynolds, Associated Press operator for western Ohio; Mrs. Theodore Kreichner, Mrs. Gettus Pugh and Miss Rose Reynolds, all of Convoy. Homer B. Reynolds, of Fort Wayne, division operator of the Pennsylvania, was a brother of the deceased.

John Burr Reynolds was born in 1861 and was past 53 years old. September 1, 1881, he became a telegraph operator at Lucas, O., for the Pennsylvania, and has been in the employ of the company ever since. When he began work for the company the telegraph department was more completely under the control of the superintendent of telegraph than it is at present and an operator was subject to change from one division to another over the entire northwest system. Under these circumstances Mr. Reynolds worked at various places on the eastern and western division before he was regularly assigned to Convoy. He became manager of the Ada office in March, 1884, and extra agent, with headquarters at Upper Sandusky, O., March 1, 1895. January 13, 1900, he was appointed freight and passenger agent at Convoy, which office he held at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Baptist church, of the Odd Fellow lodge, the Masonic lodge and the Knights of the Maccabee and took active part in the work of each in his home town. He was also widely known in western Ohio and eastern Indiana as an authority on matters pertaining to the culture and raising of bees and his apiary was one of the largest and best in this part of the country. Fred Reynolds went to Convoy yesterday to visit his parents and was at home when his father was stricken. H. B. Reynolds went down there at noon.

WANT THE LARGEST PROCESSION.

If the procession of railroad and shopmen from the Railroad Y. M. C. A. to the Lyon tabernacle Saturday night is not larger than any that preceded it or comes after, it will not be the fault of the men who will have charge of the procession. Master Mechanic E. E. Griest, of the Pennsylvania shops, said this morning that he expected to have 1,000 shopmen in the procession and H. A. Philley, A. J. Cash and others interested will endeavor to get several hundred men not employed in the shops in the procession. Engineer L. F. Wood, late captain of the battery, will be marshal of the day, Supt. W. M. Wardrop will head the general procession and Master Mechanic E. E. Griest will head the Pennsylvania shopmen. The Elks' band has been engaged for the occasion and appropriate banners are being made. All railway employes and railway shopmen in the city are urged to join in the demonstration. The gathering will be at the Y. M. C. A. in time to start for the tabernacle promptly at 7 o'clock.

SAYS LUMBER IS PLENTIFUL.

Frank I. Brown, purchasing agent for the Pennsylvania, who recently returned from Tennessee and Georgia, from whence comes the bulk of the southern pine supply used by the Pennsylvania, says there is plenty of lumber of all kinds down in that country. "Instead of difficulty in getting the supplies, my greatest difficulty was in refusing to place orders with the mill men I met," said Mr. Brown. "Some of the most wealthy of the mill men have practically suspended operations and one big concern has not turned a wheel since last November," said Mr. Brown. "Others not so well fixed financially are manufacturing lumber and forcing it upon the market at a reduction to get the necessary money to pay interest and other liabilities," he said. A revival of business will send lumber prices to normal figures very quickly, Mr. Brown thinks.

UNAPPRECIATIVE PUBLIC.

J. H. Barnhart, who has just retired after having guarded one dangerous street crossing at Kokomo for twenty years, says that during that time only one person ever thanked him for his vigilance on behalf of the public. That person was an old woman whom he helped across the street. Barnhart was employed by the Lake Erie railroad to guard the crossing at Hoagland and Main streets, where two city car lines, two interurban lines and Lake Erie and Pennsylvania tracks intersect.

Why Shave? Whiskers Save Doctors' Bills

Andrew Snellgrove

"Let your hair grow and defy the doctors," is the health creed of Andrew Snellgrove, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who is 75 years old and has never had a hair cut, never had a shave—and has never consulted a doctor.

Snellgrove was a circuit rider in the middle west in the early '60's, but, despite the many hardships he endured, he was never ill. He believes he owes his health to his whiskers. "My whiskers protected my throat, just as nature intended they should do. My hair protected my neck. I never caught cold, was never sick. Why shave, anyway?"

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 92 A Marcellus avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

PRETTY INDIAN DEBUTANTES DANCE ALL NIGHT AT TRIBAL "COMING OUT" PARTY FOR MAIDENS.

Mescalero-Apache debutants, and Indians gathering for the ceremonial.

Tularosa, N. M., Feb. 4.—With a thrill of anticipation that sparkles in their dusky eyes and deepens the copper of their cheeks, the 1915 class of Mescalero-Apache Indian debutantes are awaiting the annual 'coming out party" of their tribe on the reservation near here.

It is the social event of the tribal season, for twenty years forbidden by the government, but again permitted during the past three.

Combining religious ceremonial with the graceful dancing of the young girls and their admirers during a four-day festival, the event is one of the most fantastic and brilliant Indian pageants staged by the southwestern aborigines.

Already the mothers and grandmothers are busy making the wonderfully-adorned buckskin costumes to be worn by the debutantes, although the "coming out party" is not scheduled before June. These dresses readily command $50 each from white visitors at the reservation, although most of them are held priceless for sentimental reasons.

At the appointed time the young "buds" of the tribe gather in a specially constructed girls' tepee, made of poles with green leaves at the top and covered with tarpaulin, the sides being closed by felled trees.

Attired in their finery, trying to appear innocent of the admiring stares of the men, and imbued with the religious significance that attaches to the ceremonial, the girls begin the festival by running toward the sun with a graceful dance step.

After they have again retired to their sacred tepee, the young males come out, decked in eagle feathers and with painted bodies begin a dance about a fire before the girls' cloister. Marching toward the tepee from the four points of the compass, they salute the tepee gravely. After this the old men and young, together with priests and the little boys, encircle the fire for hours to the beat of the tom-tom.

And then the girls come out, timidly, joining in with slow, even step. Throughout the entire night the girls alternate between dancing and sitting about the glowing fire in their own tent where the priests are droning their incantations.

The girls are not allowed to dance until after 1 o'clock in the morning. They invite the men. And should the invitation be declined—respectfully—the man offers a present to the young woman after the ceremonial.

During the day the entire assemblage sleeps, resuming the dancing at night until four days and nights have elapsed.

On the fifth day the brush is removed from around the girls' tepee, and they stand facing the sun. The priest then annoint them with a paste made of yellow pollen, symbolical of the sun, to the accompaniment of a continuous chant. The debutantes' heads, arms and feet are rubbed with the golden mixture, the girls in turn annointing the priests.

This accomplished, the Indian mothers bring their babies and youngsters and present themselves for similar annointment in an impressive scene under June skies.

The ceremonial is concluded with another run toward the sun by the girls, the poles of their sacred tepee being lowered at the same time. Thereafter the girls participating are regarded as of marriageable age and intentions, and the wooing follows through the long summer days.

God Never Asked Man to Believe Anything That Was Irrational, Declares Dr. Milford H. Lyon.

THE REASONABLENESS OF RELIGION.

Isaiah 1:18—"Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord."

There are many who in some way have obtained a very mistaken conception of religion. While upon matters of business or of art or of science they think they should exercise their intellectual faculties, but when it comes to the matter of a religious life they think they must put their reasoning power aside and depend upon their feelings. Never did anyone make a more serious mental error than this. If in any department of life a person should use his strongest mental qualities, it is when he is considering the claims of Christianity and the essential preparation for eternity. In the words of our text, God invites man to a conference to reason together upon the most important subject that can occupy the human mind. While we would not for a moment depreciate the importance and value of the feelings and the emotions, yet no one can truly accept with his heart what he doubts with his head.

So at the very outset of this discussion, let us make it clear that God never asked man to believe anything that was irrational. There may be some things in religion that are super-rational, but nothing contra-rational. That is, there are many truths that our undeveloped, inexperienced minds cannot fully grasp and fathom, yet these truths do not violate either nature or reason when they are thoroughly understood. For example, you might go to the simple Africans and tell them that we are able now to communicate with people across the ocean, three thousand miles away. They say, "We do not believe it, because it is unreasonable." You go to the native Eskimo and endeavor to explain to him the power of the X-Ray. You tell him that you can look through a big volume and see a silver dollar on the other side, and he says, "It cannot be so because it is unreasonable." What he means to say is that it is unreasonable, judged by his narrow, limited ideas. Our beliefs are usually along the line of our knowledge, and our doubts along the line of our ignorance. Bacon said, "Little learning tendeth toward infidelity, but much learning tendeth toward Christianity."

I wish to present to you this evening three of the greatest facts of human life. These facts, believer and unbeliever, alike, accept. My fundamental proposition is this, that the gospel of Jesus Christ alone can solve these three great facts and problems. The first is the fact of man's higher and lower nature. The problem is, how can the higher nature be vitalized and put in the ascendant, and the lower nature be suppressed and conquered? There is a physiological basis to this dual nature in the cerebral and abdominal brains. There is a psychological basis in the primary and secondary consciousness. There is a spiritual basis for this fact in the carnal and spiritual nature. It seems that every person is not merely one individual, but has radically two personalities.

Mr. Watkinson has told us that some misguided scientists have recently succeeded in producing what has been called a diabolical fad. By grafting a portion of one insect upon the body of another they are able to make new organisms; the result, however, is hideous in the extreme. The grafting is done when the creatures are in the pupa state. The insect grafter may commence to work on either the chrysalis of the perfect insect itself; but the chrysalis, egg or grub of the insect offers the best facilities. The vivisector takes the pupa of a spider and by a delicate operation grafts it upon the pupa of a fly, and when the "freak" has passed the chrysalis state and merged into a perfect insect, we have a monster indeed. We may fancy the strange and distressing conflict which ensues within that violated organism—the clash of irreconcilable impulses in a creature compounded of, say, butterfly and spider. A passion for the sunshine and a love of darkness. A longing for roses and a thirst for blood, demanding inconsistent satisfaction; the creature perplexed within itself, afraid of itself devouring itself. Yet this painful creation of the vivisector expresses more closely than we like to think, the apostle's conception of human nature when first it becomes conscious of itself.

There is in every life the capacity for a higher, better being, than anything he has ever even dreamed. There is on the other hand also a capacity for a lower, more debased condition than anything he has ever dreamed. Here is the fact of these two natures, radically opposite and antagonistic. They cannot both permanently exist, side by side, in anything of equality. The one is to be conqueror—the other is to be conquered. The problem then is a clear one, how is the victory to be gained for the higher nature, and the evil to be mastered and finally eradicated? There are some that base their hopes upon a good environment. Doubtless this can help, but it cannot solve the problem. Many of the noblest lives have been developed under the most adverse conditions; and multitudes of others, for whom everything has been done externally that could contribute to a better life, has seemingly only strengthened them in their purpose to go astray. A rich, fertile soil, if left to itself, is much more apt to develop a rank growth of weeds than it is to grow a harvest of fruit or golden grain. In the days of the Roman empire, when wealth and comforts and art and literature did most universally flourish and abound, were indeed the days when morality and honesty and virtue began to decline.

The hopes of others are centered upon culture. It is true that education can do many things. Culture can bring to you and me the best that has ever been said or written. But how to solve the problems of life and infuse into the soul the strength to master the evil and bring victory to the good, that problem culture has never been able to solve. There are many in our day who talk much about ethical culture, about holding up high ideals, but that is no solvent for the difficulty. Go to the meanest man in the community that you know; sit down by him and ask his advice about moral questions and it will surprise you how much excellent moral instruction and good suggestion he can give. The most wicked and most worldly men can hold up high ideals. The question is, How are we to bridge the gulf between the real and the ideal—to bring a man from what he is to what he ought to be? Righteousness, the Bible says, is the only thing that ethics and culture have never been able to do this. This is the province of the gospel of Christ. The world is exclaiming "Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" Religion's answer is, "I thank God through Jesus Christ, our Lord."

Let us consider now the second problem, the fact of sin. We will not stop to consider how sin came into the world. It is enough for us to know that it is here. We see its slimy, serpent trail all over the pages of history. We see its effects in our own experience. No matter what you may believe about the Bible or about churches, or even about religion, you are forced to admit the fact that you have done wrong, that you have violated your own conscience, that you have chosen the evil rather than the good. You have been sowing the seed in your own character, which must inevitably reap a harvest of woe, unless some great power prevents this calamity.

Scientists tell us that there is a little animal in the south seas that has been going to the bad for countless thousands of years. The principle of evolution works not only upward, but also downward. Sin is not self-curative. What is there strong enough to counteract its deadly power? Do you try to fall back again upon environment? Upon education? You know full well that these factors, strong as they are, cannot solve the problem. Sin puts man out of harmony with his Creator and with his fellow-beings. Culture does not cure the disease, it only aggravates and intensifies it. If an engine is turned in the wrong direction, more fuel in the tender and more fire beneath the boiler is going to drive the train just that much more rapidly to its destruction. The philosopher Plato, in reasoning upon this subject, said, "I do not believe that even the gods themselves can forgive sin." Nature has no cure for sin. Its only answer is the law of sowing and reaping. There is no gospel in that, no good news. Philosophy brings no solution. Philosophy can merely present and prove the gloomy, direful fact that the wages of sin is death. In the face of sin, ethics stands acknowledging its impotence. All ethics can do is to say, "Be good." But the man replies, "I cannot be good. I have done wrong. I have evil desires and evil impulses. My bent is in the wrong direction, and even if I could begin today to do right, which I cannot, what am I to do with the load of past transgressions and guilt? I am morally bankrupt."

Here again we are compelled to fall back upon the gospel of Christ as the only solution for the problem of sin. It is most interesting and fascinating to dig deep into the divine plan of salvation, to note the wonderful wisdom God has revealed in the plan of redemption through Jesus Christ. In that plan there is a solvent not only to release from the obligations of past transgressions, but also to infuse into the life a new power which, in the language of science, will inoculate the soul with the divine virus to make the germs of the disease of sin harmless and ineffective.

Let us illustrate this fact from practical life. A few years ago there was a man in the state of New York, who had been convicted of murder in the first degree, and had been sentenced to death in the electric chair. Physicians declared also that the man was infected with a terrible disease, which must inevitably prove fatal. Supposing it had been the desire of the state of New York to restore this man to a complete and satisfactory condition, both of citizenship and of life, what must be done? Why, you say, "They must get a pardon for him from the governor." But supposing they had, the man would have died soon from this fatal disease. "No," said another, "what must be done for that man is to find a skillful physician who is able to cure that malady." But supposing they had, he would have died under his sentence in the electric chair. Now do you not see, that if that man is to be restored truly and completely, something must be done for that man, and also something must be done in that man.

Now that is just what the gospel of Jesus Christ does for the sinner. It does something for him. He is a moral and spiritual bankrupt. He has debts that he cannot pay. "Him who knew no sin, God hath made sin for us that we should be made the righteousness of God in Him." Jesus Christ is our substitute. He took our place. A sinful man could not have done this because he would have had his own debts to pay, but when Jesus Christ, the sinless One, offered Himself, there was a value which could be applied for the redemption of the guilty. God could look with no degree of leniency or complacency upon sin. To do so would violate His own moral nature. But by the death of Jesus for sin, that death which shows man at his worst and God at His best, the penalty is paid, and now the Father is free to treat with man upon the basis of forgiveness, making salvation a gift.

Then there is the other element in this divine plan of salvation, which is equally important. Not only does the gospel of Christ bring forgiveness for sin, but also victory over sin. Supposing here is a young man who was a spendthrift. He goes deeply into debt and time after time someone pays his obligations. That will avail nothing, for the chances are it will simply encourage him to plunge more deeply into debt next time. But supposing that youth puts himself under the instruction of a great financier. He imbibes the spirit of thrift, frugality and economy of that man, then his nature is changed and now if his debts are paid his life is put upon a new basis, and hereafter he will live with the spirit and plan that will enable him to meet his own obligations, with the guidance and direction of this great financier. This is just what Jesus Christ does for the sinner. Not only does He, by His death redeem us from spiritual bankruptcy, but also when we receive Him as our Helper and Friend and Lord, He imparts His divine life into our natures so that through Him we can come forth more than a conqueror.

The president of the National Educational association, a president of an American college, in a recent address, said: "Teachers, my study of psychology is causing me to fall back on Jesus Christ's idea of sin and pedagogy compels me to fall back on the Christian idea of regeneration."

Now in the last place we must face the third fact, a fact which everyone is compelled to admit, and that is the fact of death. No matter what you may think about God or religion, what you may think about the church or the ministry, no matter how much you may boast your infidelity, you stand face to face with the certainty of death. The crape on the door, the coffin in the parlor, the hearse at the gate, the white slabs in the graveyard, thrust this unwelcome fact continually before your view. What ray of hope have you to offer in the sad and solemn presence of death? Since you have been toiling early and late to accumulate property, since you have been starving your spiritual nature, neglecting your friends and forgetting God in order to amass wealth, surely then in this hour of need, which you must inevitably face, this financial power which you have accumulated is going to stand you in good stead and bring you release from the bonds of the grave. Merely to state the case shows its absurdity. Gold brings no deliverance from the grave.

Perhaps then we can turn to environment. We will say that the right economic conditions, freedom from wage slavery and more equitable distribution of property, better homes, better streets, and more favorable material conditions are the great needs of the world today. But what do all these things avail in the presence of that great enemy, death? Sooner or later he must come to the rich or poor, favorably or unfavorably situated. He accepts no excuses—makes no exceptions. Then we turn to education or philosophy, to ethics, to inventions, but in the hour of death all these stand aside, helpless, impotent. Even our earthly friends and loved ones who would willingly go down to our grave in our stead, cannot take our place. We have to step down to the brink of the chilly river alone.

Infidelity, where is your hope now? Infidelity builds no colleges, erects no hospitals, establishes no churches, sends no missionaries around the world to uplift strange races and people they have never seen. All infidelity can do is negative, to endeavor to criticise and endanger and destroy the fruits of religion and at last to crawl into the rat hole of its own nothingness. It is in that hour of death that you must turn to Jesus Christ, your only Hope. None other can avail but the divine Christ, who, on that first Easter morning broke the bonds of the tomb and came forth triumphant over death, offers to grant to you eternal life. With Him as your Savior death becomes not a limitation, but a liberation. It sets you free into a higher, broader existence than anything you had ever hoped or dreamed. It is not a choice then, reasoning men, between a good and a better, it is a choice between something and nothing.

I turn then from your reason, which has been convinced, to your will. Decide tonight. Say, "As for me I will receive the crucified and risen Christ as my Helper, my Friend, my Savior and my Lord. He only can give me the victory over my lower nature. He only can grant forgiveness of sin. He only can rob the grave of its terrors and give promise of immortality." You would violate your conscience, your reason, your judgment, if you continue to reject or delay.

ATHLETIC CLUB IS EXTINCT.

Van Wert, O., Feb. 4.—A state building inspector has put the Van Wert Athletic club, started several years ago and to which at some time practically every boy in Van Wert has belonged, out of business and the club is extinct. The club had been falling behind in expenses until recently, when a couple of young men took hold of it and had started to put it on a sound financial basis. Affairs were prospering until the state building inspector came along and said that if the club was going to continue it would have to make a number of improvements in its quarters to comply with the law. The expense was thought too great and the club quit.

Brakeman and Mrs. George Blue, the former of the Nickel Plate, have gone to Bourbon for a short visit.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Bulls in the wheat market were quick today to utilize President Wilson's speech as a help to overcome yesterday's big drop in prices. It was urged by bull leaders that the address was of high significance as an official appreciation of the food grain shortage in the world and as implying that the president was not in sympathy with a grain embargo. After opening ⅛c off to ⅜c higher, the market advanced to a point 2⅞c to 3¾c above last night.

Corn showed some heaviness at the start, but rallied sharply when wheat started upward in earnest. Country offerings to arrive were small. The opening which varied from ¼c off to a like advance, was followed by a material rise all around.

Oats took the same path as corn. Cash houses led the buying.

Outside investors gave unusual support to provisions. The best call was for pork

THE DAY ON WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 4.—Stocks displayed general firmness at today's opening, despite the lower rates reported by London. All the leaders opened at slight advances, which were soon increased. The demand was [illegible] and prices were [illegible] U. S. Steel moved up almost a point. National Biscuit and American Sugar were exceptions to the higher trend and U. S. Realty, which had conspicuously weakened, declining 7 points to 41, a point over its minimum.

The market received a decided set back in the first hour on offerings of Canadian Pacific and Southern Pacific, causing recessions of 1 to 2 points.

Toward mid-day, however, more liquidation and lower prices were encountered. American sugar was weakest of the industrials, selling off 3½ points to 103½. Bonds were steady.

RUSSIANS DROPPING BOMBS.

Czar's Aviators Attack German Mobilized Reserves and Trains.

Petrograd, Feb. 4.—Russian aviators on Feb. 2 successfully dropped bombs on the mobilized reserves and trains of the Germans at Rawa, Zarzecze and Boguszyce, about fifty miles southwest of Warsaw, according to an official announcement issued here today.

The general staff of the Russian army today issued a report of the progress of the war which reads as follows:

"In East Prussia our troops have strengthened their positions near the village of Gross Medunischken on the left bank of the Angrapp.

"On the left bank of the Vistula our encounters with the enemy have become more frequent. Engagements of considerable importance have taken place on the front between Lipne and Bejun. Our troops took by assault the town of Skempe, to the east of Lipne, and repulsed an attack of the enemy on the village of Blino, inflicting heavy losses on him. In this fighting we captured the commanding officer of the battalion, three other officers and 100 soldiers.

"On the right bank of the Vistula the fighting on the front between Borjomo and Wolaczosnoska continued February 2 with the same energy. The enemy brought into this engagement regiments of first line of troops and quantities of artillery, including their heavy pieces. The artillery fire was continued day and night. An engagement of particular severity took place at the village of Goumine where, after sanguinary hand to hand fighting, we repulsed the furious attacks of the enemy. The Germans here sustained immense losses, but they continue to bring fresh troops forward to the front.

"A demonstration of the enemy along the Nida river did not result successfully..

"The fighting in the Carpathians is continuing, and the engagements are becoming more and more tenacious in character. It is apparent that considerable forces of Germans are engaged."

It's Mutual.

"Where shall we go?"
"Let's visit the Joneses."
"But they have no children, and our Willie doesn't like them."
"Well, it's a standoff. They don't like our Willie either.

MRS. MYERS GOES TO THE HOSPITAL FOR OPERATION

Surgeon Makes Second Trial to Help Her But Fails—But Inter-State Doctors Came to Rescue.

After going to surgeon for two operations and still no better, Mrs. Myers, a prominent Indiana lady says she obtained relief in ten days by taking the new treatment of the Inter-State Doctors, those expert medical gentlemen who have their Fort Wayne institute located at 205 West Berry street.

She writes the following letter for publication:

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 20, 1915.

Gentlemen:—I feel that it is my duty to write you and tell you how I am. As you no doubt remember I came to you just two weeks ago today. I have been sick all of my life and doctored with lots of different doctors and gradually grew worse.

Many wanted to operate on me till finally I consented. I went to the hospital and that trip cost more than I really could afford. I was relieved, I believe, for a while, then gradually grew worse and so many of my friends and doctors insisted on my going back and being operated on again that I finally consented. I thought I might as well be buried a piece at a time as to be the way I was.

Well that cost a lot more money. But the promised relief failed to appear. I was not well by any means and began to suffer in a way that was unbearable and as I did not want to be all cut to pieces, I began to look for some one that could do something for me without always using the knife.

Learning that the Inter-State Doctors had opened an institute here and that you people never use the knife, I decided to see what you could do for me as your consultation and examination was free, as I saw by the papers.

Well I had never been examined as thoroughly and sicentifically as I was by the specialist that examined me. I felt better in my mind when I got through—I felt that I had at least found a man who understood my case better than any doctor that had ever examined me before. I decided to take treatment and in 48 hours I began to feel better. Now it is just two weeks and I have made steady improvement.

As to money matters they are no robbers and I advise all of my friends to avail themselves of the services of these great specialists.

MRS. J. D. MYERS,

WOMAN JUDGE PUZZLES GUILTY; IS BOTH STERN AND MERCIFUL

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2—Hand-cuffed together, two by two, half a dozen men shuffled awkwardly into the prisoners' dock. There was a bustle of preparation; a tense expectancy. And the prisoners furtively watched the door at the rear of the courtroom.

The next moment there emerged from the door a quiet little woman in dark serge, as plain as a nun's habit. She sat down in a big chair, as the bailiff rapped for silence.

The Honorable Justice Court of King County, Seattle precinct, was in session—with Justice Reah Mary Whitehead, the first woman justice, on the bench.

Out there in front, among the curious sat the judge's mother. Mrs. T. S. Bosley, a sudden lump in her throat from pride over her "baby girl's" elevation to importance.

To the prisoners, Judge Whitehead was a problem. The male wrongdoer can usually get some idea of what his fate will be by reading a man judge's face. But what chance has he of sizing up a being with a face like a [illegible] breath—to see what brand of justice a woman would deal.

An Italian charged with non-support of his two children, came first. With an interpreter's assistance he pleaded "not guilty," and had his case set for trial.

Next came a negro, charged with burglarly. His trial was set.

"I I'd had work I'd never done it." A youngster admitting check forgery, was explaining, appealing for clemency.

"This is a very serious matter," said her honor. "There have been other checks, I understand. It might be a penitentiary offense." For a moment she looked out of the window, deliberating. "Six months in the county jail," she concluded.

There came the turn of another worthless check writer. In the complaint his name was Smith.

"I have a sister," he said. "Her name is the same as mine. I will not reveal what it is." He said there was something the matter with the top of [illegible] still in the dock.

"This is the first time," she said, "I have had the unpleasant task of sentencing anyone, and it is my sincerest hope that it will be the last time anyone will have to sentence either of you two men," turning to the guilty forgers.

After court the judge with the face like a picture performed a marriage ceremony, uniting a 20-year-old youth with a 16-year-old girl. They had eloped to a neighboring town and had been brought back.

At the close of the ceremony Judge Whitehead dismissed the State's case against the youth.

And then, because it was her first wedding, she sent out and got some flowers for the bride.

MORE SUCCESS BERLIN CLAIM

Germans Victors in Fighting on Skis in Vosges Mountains.

Remnant of King Albert's Soldiery in Thick of Battle Clash.

Berlin, Feb. 4.—The announcement on the progress of the war given out today by the German general staff says the Germans, near Massiges, have been successful over the French, occupying their positions for more than a mile and capturing over 600 men. They claim also success in the fighting on skis in the Vosges.

In the eastern arena of the war no important engagements seem to have occurred. German, Austrian and Hungarian soliders are described as fighting successfully side by side in the Carpathians. Elsewhere in the east the German report claims success.

AGAIN IN HUNGARY.

Russians Reported to Have Crossed the Boundary.

London, Feb. 4.—(12:34 p. m.)—Emperor William's troops still are maintaining an offensive movement on the battlefields to the west of Warsaw in Russian Poland, but on the remainder of the eastern battle line the Russians claim to be exerting the greatest pressure, notably across the East Prussian frontier and in the Carpathians. In the latter region the Russians claim that the fighting has gone against the Austro-German force and the Russians again are reported to have crossed into Hungary.

The remnants of the Belgian troops, which are still defending the little strip of their fatherland not in possession of the Germans, once more are bearing the brunt of the fighting in the west. Unofficial reports from Amsterdam state that the Germans are again making an attack along the Yser, which was the scene of the heaviest fighting and greatest loss of life of the war thus far, during the earlier German attempts to break through the allied line and reach the English channel. For the last two days Belgians and Germans have been engaged in combat, in which the possession of trenches has been decided with the bayonet. The Amsterdam reports say the German attacks have been repulsed.

The struggle in the east is increasing in severity as the Austro-German attack develops. Hard fighting is now in progress along virtually the whole front, except in Bukowina.

Turkish activities along the Suez canal can hardly be classed yet as even

Thrilling Escapes in Lake Accident Off Mouth of Chicago River.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—The steamer Iowa, of the Goodrich Transit company, sank in Lake Michigan about three miles off the river mouth today after being crushed by what lake men declare was the heaviest ice jam seen in years off the Chicago harbor.

The crew numbering 70 and the one passenger clambered over the ice pack as the vessel settled and struggled over the hummocks to shore. Some reached the government breakwater and were rescued by tugs and others landed at different points. Those who reached safety first declared that no one had been lost.

The Iowa, beaten back from the Chicago harbor Tuesday night, made a fresh start from Milwaukee last night and with the Racine and other vessels, was caught in the ice floes off the harbor here this morning.

Today's War News Given in Summary.

German attacks have been resumed in several sections of the western battle front, and according to today's official communication from Berlin, one of these movements in the Argonne has resulted in a victory of importance. Three lines of trenches were stormed, and the statement is made that the principal French positions for more than a mile were taken. The French statement mentions a few small engagements, which are said to have ended favorably for the allies.

The German statement confirms Petrograd's assertions that another great battle is in progress in Poland west of Warsaw. Russian attacks were repulsed, the Berlin war office says, and the Germans were able to make further progress in the vicinity of Bolimow, on the section of the front closest to Warsaw.

Germany today notified the United States that American vessels should avoid the north and west coast of France. The state department at Washington believes that this action is intended as a warning against mines rather than as equivalent to the declaration of a blockade.

7:30 p. m.—Song service led by Mr. Jones.

8:00 p. m.—Sermon by Dr. Lyon.

Those who persuaded a Fort Wayne man who recently committed suicide to take a drink, the bartender who sold him liquor and those who have been voting for the liquor business are equally guilty of that man's murder, declared Dr. Milford H. Lyon in his sermon at the tabernacle Wednesday evening.

"That isn't in my sermon; I'm merely throwing it in for good measure!" exclaimed the evangelist.

He said the man had decided to reform after hearing the famous lecture on booze at the tabernacle the other Sunday.

After the meeting he called on his wife, from whom he had been separated because of his excessive drinking, and promised her that he intended to reform. She gave him encouragement and they were soon to be reunited.

Lured Into a Saloon.

"But he was lured into a saloon and the bartender and his old associates succeeded in getting him drunk," the evangelist continued. "When he went home in that condition his wife closed the door on him and in his despondency he went out and committed suicide."

"That bartender, those devils who lured him into that saloon and you men voting for years past in favor of the liquor business stand guilty before the bar of God of the murder of that man!" cried the evangelist.

"More than one church member must cut loose from sin or they will go to hell as sure as the sun rises in the morning," Dr. Lyon declared.

Audience Is Astounded.

The audience was astounded that such a tragedy had taken place in Fort Wayne. It was known that the man had committed suicide, but not until Dr. Lyon's reference to it Wednesday night was it known of the struggle he had made to reform.

Indifferent church members who had raised their hands when asked if they were Christians were given a scoring by Dr. Lyon because of their refusal to do personal work.

"I like to have a hundred of you people right in front of me hit the trail," he exclaimed. "You don't talk to others and you don't seem to care whether people go to heaven or hell. Many of you raised your hands signifying you are Christians. If you are Christians, in the name of God what kind of religion have you? Do something!"

Dr. Lyon spoke on "The Reasonableness of Religion." He declared that those in their right mind would accept three facts: A higher and lower nature; the fact of sin and death. He dwelt at length upon each point.

Must Bridge the Gulf.

"The most wicked and most worldly men can hold up high ideals," he said. "The question is how are we to bridge the gulf between the real and the ideal—to bring a man from what he is to what he ought to be? Environment, ethics and culture have never been able to do this. This is the province of the gospel of Christ."

The evangelist delivered a message to cause one to think. This was particularly true in his picture of death and the certainty of it.

Dr. Lyon made the startling statement that there are more kinds of devilry in Fort Wayne than in any city he has ever visited.

"Don't think emotion is everything in religion," the evangelist said. "The fundamental principle is that the gospel of Jesus Christ is the only reasonable religion. Religion is always rational. It may be at times super-rational, but it is never contra-rational. What many

A temporary writ of injunction issued by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court, shortly after noon Thursday, prevented the forcible seizure of Miss Lillian Russell, the famous American actress and beauty, and her cast in the production of "Wildfire," the race track drama in which Miss Russell so signally stars. The suit was brought by the Lyric Theater company, of Fort Wayne, and enjoined and restrained the World Film company, of New York, and more particularly one Ratz and Constable Harvey Hughes from forcibly by seizure or by process from taking possession of the moving picture reels of Lillian Russell in "Wildfire" from the Lyric theater, where it was billed for presentation Wednesday and Thursday. The Film company is said to have made a mistake in its bookings for this reel drama and sent a man here to take possession of it. Messrs. Stouder and Barnett, of the Lyric, got out an injunction to prevent the seizure, alleging that the film had been extensively advertised and to deprive them of it would close their picture theater for the day, much to their loss and damage.

DEATH OF MARION B. JOHNSON IS SHOCK

Young Banker and Political Leader Dies Following Operation.

The unexpected death of Marion B. Johnson, aged 37, cashier of the Citizen's Trust company, former member of the city council, and during the Grice municipal administration a member of the board of safety, has been a severe shock to an uncommonly wide circle of acquaintances in Fort Wayne. His death came at the Lutheran hospital at 9:45 Wednesday night and was due to complications that attended an operation performed at the hospital last Monday for appendicitis. Mr. Johnson had been ill but a short time when his physicians decided that an operation was necessary. He was at his post in the Citizen's Trust company bank last Saturday and made no complaint of illness. He complained Sunday of abdominal pain, but ascribed his suffering to indigestion. He rapidly became worse and a physician was summoned. The trouble was diagnosed as appendicitis and on Monday he was taken to the Lutheran hospital.

Mr. Johnson endured the operation well, but the development of uraemic

A total of $87.85 was realized from the dance, which money has been turned over to the B'nai Brith society and was forwarded Thursday to the headquarters of the society in New York. The members of the Daughters of Israel Benevolent society believed the money could not be used to better advantage.

RANDOLPH COUNTY MAN PRESENTS IT

Governor Discusses Anti-Lobby Law After Signing Measure.

Indianapolis, Feb. 4.—State-wide prohibition was put up to the legislature today in a bill introduced by Representative Frank E. Wright, of Randolph county.

The bill, which if passed would go into effect January 1, 1916, would prohibit the manufacture, sale or giving away of spiritous, malt, vinous or intoxicating liquors as a beverage, but provides for their use for sacramental, scientific, mechanical and medicinal purposes.

All laws in conflict with the provisions of the measure would be repealed. The senate clauses provide for any violation being regarded as a misdemeanor, and for the convicted person being fined on the first offense from $50 to $500 with a jail sentence of from thirty days to six months shall be added, while upon second or subsequent violation a fine of from $200 to $500, to which a jail sentence of six months shall be added, shall be imposed by the court.

Legalized by the Bill.

The manufacture of wine or cider by citizens would be legalized by the bill. Common carriers in shipping intoxicating liquors into the state would be required to file a report stating all facts concerning the shipment and delivery with county officials. Druggists, who would be permitted to sell intoxicants, would be required to secure a license from the county clerk and furnish

WOMEN TAKES STEPS FOR CITIZENSHIP

Miss O'Dowd and Miss Noonan, War Sufferers, Want Papers.

Caught in London at the outbreak of the great European war, without passports or other credentials to show that they were residents of this country, and put to great trouble, embarrassment and deprivation by the difficulties they encountered in getting back to their adopted land, Miss Mary Gertrude O'Dowd and Miss Mary Noonan, of 1236 Calhoun street, Fort Wayne, have filed their declaration of intention to become citizens of the United States of America and thereby renounce allegiance to all foreign rules, princes and potentates, more particularly his majesty, King George V, king of Great Britain and Ireland.

Miss O'Dowd is a sister of Thomas W. O'Dowd, proprietor of the Rich hotel and is employed by him as a bookkeeper. She has been in America since 1893, when she left Ireland, her native land. Miss Noonan came here in 1909. She also is a native of Ireland. Last summer these ladies paid a visit to their old homes in Ireland and had great trouble to get back. These are believed to be the first citizenship declarations ever filed by women in the courts of Fort Wayne.

GETS JAIL SENTENCE ON AMERICAN CHARGE

Vanceboro, Maine, Feb. 4.—Werner Horn was today sentenced to thirty days in the county jail on conviction of having damaged property in this town by the explosion of dynamite under the international railroad bridge.

It is expected that he will be surrendered by the state to federal jurisdiction and transferred to Bangor or Portland for a hearing before a federal commissioner on the application of the British government for the extradition of the prisoner to Canada.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

JAP CRUISER WRECKED; AZAMA IS BREAKING UP

Washington, Feb. 4.—Rear Admiral Howard, commander of the Pacific fleet, reported to the navy department from his flagship Sandiego, that the Japanese cruiser Azama, with 500 men, was wrecked about 350 miles south of Port Bartolome and was breaking up.

EMPEROR WILLIAM AT WILHELMSHAVEN

Amsterdam, Feb. 4.—A dispatch received here from Hamburg, says that Emperor William arrived at Wilhelmshaven this morning. His majesty inspected the German submarine U-21, going over the vessel personally. He bestowed the decoration of the iron cross upon the members of the submarine's crew. The emperor also inspected the units of the fleet at Wilhelmshaven. The men on the various battleships lined the decks and cheered his majesty loudly as he made his appearance.

FIGHTING ON YSER AGAIN DESPERATE

Amsterdam, Feb. 4.—The Belgian positions on the Yser near Westende again have been the scene of fierce attacks by the Germans, in which the bayonet was used by the troops on both sides of the trenches, the Telegraaf states in a dispatch from its Sluis correspondent.

The Germans, after the usual preparatory bombardment by artillery, the correspondent says, made repeated but unsuccessful attacks on several important Belgian trenches.

The desperate nature of the fighting of the past two days is indicated by the large convoys of wounded being sent to Germany.

The German administration in Belgiumgium has announced that a limited railway service will be open on thirteen lines in the region of Brussels, fourteen in that of Liege, five around Luxemberg and five in the vicinity of Charleroi.

ON VERGE OF STARVATION.

Germans Will Seek to Relieve Austrians At Przemysl.

Geneva, Feb. 4.—A determined effort to relieve the besieged Austrian garrison at Przemysl with a German army is to be undertaken, according to a dispatch from Cracow.

This report states that the governor of Cracow has been instructed by the Austrian general staff to make preparations for the reception of 200,000 troops which it is proposed to withdraw from the center of the forces operating in Russian Poland.

The situation at Przemysl is reported to be desperate, with the garrison on the verge of starvation as the result of the long investment by the Russians.

TO HAVE NO OPPOSITION

House Officers Will All Be Re-Elected in Caucus Tonight.

Caucus Chairmanship Promises Only Big Fight of Session.

Washington, Feb. 4.—New democrats of the sixty-fourth congress and re-elected members of the next congress will caucus tonight to reorganize the house of the next congress. There is no opposition to re-election of Champ Clark of Missouri and the entire list of house officers, embracing Clerk of the House South Trimble, of Kentucky; Sergeant-at-Arms Robert B. Gordon, of Ohio; Rev. Dr. Henry N. Couden, District of Columbia, and Postmaster Wm. M. Dunbar.

Representative Claude Kitchen, of North Carolina, has no opposition for chairman of the ways and means committee, who automatically becomes democratic leader of the house to succeed Representative Underwood, of Alabama.

The fight in the caucus promises to be between Representatives Saunders, of Virginia, and Foster, of Illinois, for chairman of the democratic caucus. Both claim sufficient strength. All the eight re-elected democrats on the ways and means committee, Representatives Kitchen, Rainey of Illinois, Dixon of Indiana, Hull of Tennessee, Garner of Texas, Collier of Mississippi, Dickinson of Missouri and Conry of New York, are expected to be selected again for the committee.

The democratic majority representation on the committee is to continue evenly balanced between the north and the south, seven from each section. There will be six vacancies for the coming congress, two from the south and four from the north. For these vacancies Representatives McGillcuddy of Maine, Allen of Ohio and Helvering of Kansas, are looked upon as certain of election on the committee and Casey of Pennsylvania is another candidate with considerable support. From the south the candidates are Representatives Barkley of Kentucky, Oldfield of Arkansas and Crisp of Georgia, only two of whom can be selected.

Other matters that may come up in the caucus include the representation to give the progressives, which probably will be referred to the committee, and an increase of the number of republicans of the committee because of the increased membership of the next house.

NOTED JURIST OF INDIANA IS DEAD

(Special to The Sentinel.)

Angola, Ind., Feb. 4.—Hon. Frank H. Powers, judge of the Indiana appellate court for the Northern district, died here last night at 10 o'clock of pneumonia. He had been ill for about ten days, but his condition had not been regarded as critical until early in the present week.

Judge Powers had not been in good health for some time and was decidedly unwell when he went to Indianapolis the first of the year to take his oath of office and ascend the bench of the appellate court. He returned to his home here January 23 for a rest and at once was taken to his bed. Pneumonia developed following what had seemed to be an attack of acute indigestion and he never again arose.

HON. FRANK H. POWERS,
Judge of Indiana Appellate Court and Noted Jurist, Who Is Dead at Angola Home.

Judge Powers was eminent in Northern Indiana as a lawyer and jurist. He was born in this city fifty-five years ago and all his life had resided here. His education was obtained in the public schools and in the Tri-State Normal college. Following his graduation from that institution he became a student of law in the offices of Woodhull & Croxton and in 1882 was admitted to the bar. He built up an extensive practice and gained a high repute in his profession. In 1910 he was elected judge of the DeKalb-Steuben circuit court and served on that bench for three years ending last December, when he resigned to assume his duties as a judge of the appellate court of Indiana, a position to which he had been elected last November.

Judge Powers leaves no immediate family. He never was married and with his brother-in-law, Hamilton H. Keep, had kept bachelor apartments in this city. He leaves a brother, George W. Powers, of this city, and a sister, Mrs. Harriett Rose, now residing in Arizona. The late Hon. Stephen A. Powers, formerly judge of the DeKalb-Steuben judicial circuit and later state senator from these two counties, was a cousin.

Judge Powers was a Scottish Rite Mason of the 32d degree and that and other Masonic bodies will participate in the funeral services. Arrangements for the funeral will not be completed until communication can be had with the confreres of the deceased on the appellate bench and with other officials of the state. The bar associations of this and DeKalb counties will take appropriate action upon his death.

VILLA DESCRIBES ARMY ACTIVITIES

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 4.—General Villa, who yesterday proclaimed himself provisional president of Mexico, as well as military chief, in a telegram to the Associated Press today described the activities of his forces against Carranza troops.

The message declared that the troops near San Luis Potosi had captured more than 300 prisoners, three trains and other equipment. It added that Lieutenant Colonels Verduge and Orendain had joined the Villa forces with a command of 400 men. General Estrada in Jalisco state was reported active.

SAYS ALL WHO HAD PART ARE GUILTY

people call irrational is that which they cannot understand with their narrow, peanut-brained manner of thinking. You might as well try to dam Niagara Falls with a toothpick as to try and stop the onward flow of Christianity."

Dr. Lyon said that one of the greatest battles of life is the battle between the flesh and the spirit. The devil is at the bottom of the soul pulling down, and Jesus Christ is at the top lifting up."

Theory of Evolution.

The evangelist declared there are a great many people who don't know whether their parents came from the Garden of Eden or a zoological garden. He was speaking of the theory of evolution.

"By no process of evolution was a bird ever developed into a horse, or a monkey into a man," he declared. "Some people apply not evolution, but de-evolution or devilution. Why, there are some foolish people today who have a fad and believe, or say they do, that blue glass in the windows will make us all right."

Dr. Lyon said he had frequently heard some flippant person say, "I'm not afraid to die." "Neither is a hog," he said.

"Gold will not keep you from the grave," he continued. "You may be a millionaire here, but a pauper over there."

"My God," the evangelist shouted, "a large share of mankind is drifting along as though they were going to live here forever. How can you drift on to eternity helpless and hopeless?"

There were forty-eight decisions Wednesday evening, making a total of 2,537 who have signed cards.

Three Young Men Converted.

Two young men were under conviction and wanted to go forward, but a dance stood in the way. They couldn't decide whether to surrender themselves to Christ or attend the dance. Finally, the personal worker who was talking to them went up and told Dr. Lyon the situation.

"Tell the boys to come up here, I want to talk to them," the evangelist said. The two young men agreed, explaining to Dr. Lyon the thing that stood in their way.

"Boys, it isn't necessary for me to advise you," he told them. "If you surrender yourselves to Christ He will remove the thing that is bothering you."

The two boys knelt down in the sawdust with Dr. Lyon between them and his arms around them. The evangelist prayed one of those wonderful prayers and the boys were converted. Then they went to the rear of the tabernacle and talked with another young man. He, too, marched forward and gave himself to Christ.

The three young men are in deadly earnest and since their conversion they have been doing some wonderful personal work among their friends and associates.

Five Delegations.

There were five delegations Wednesday evening as follows: Rebekah lodge, members of the South Side Baptist Young People's union, Mrs. Easley's Sunday school class of the First M. E. church and professional women. Practically every delegation had a special song or a yell.

One of the features of the song service was a solo by little Onley Wight, the five-year-old daughter of Amherst Wight, 622½ Clinton street, who was called to the platform by Mr. Jones. The youngster was taken forward by her father, but she would not sing a word until her father took a seat. "Go and sit down," she told him. Standing before the big audience the little girl sang in a clear sweet tone that could be heard in almost every part of the big tabernacle the chorus of "Jesus Will Sustain You." The applause was so continuous that she had to respond to an encore.

In speaking to the Rebekahs Dr. Lyon said: "I have been told that Rebekah was a very pretty woman and I guess you are following in her footsteps. She was a very shrewd woman, too. I am speaking of Rebekah of old."

Chautauqua Salute Given.

As the evangelist entered the tabernacle he was given a Chautauqua salute by the professional women. Speaking to the South Side Baptist Young People's union he said that the south side folks were way ahead of any other section of the city in attending the tabernacle meetings.

"I want that good looking preacher to make a report," Dr. Lyon said and Rev. Montgomery marched forward. He said that there were seventeen or eighteen more old people who wanted to attend the meeting Thursday afternoon than there were machines provided. He said more machines were needed. Mr. Jones sang as a solo, "So May You." Prayer was offered by Rev. C. M. Tunison, pastor of the South Side Baptist church.

Arrangements were made Wednesday by Dr. Lyon to go to Terre Haute at the close of the meeting in Tiffin, Ohio, where he had been invited by the ministers for a series of meetings. Rev. H. H. Pitzer will go to Terre Haute next Monday to complete the arrangements.

Employes from Bowser's plant will attend Thursday evening in a body. The railroad men will attend Saturday evening.

Noon-Day Luncheon.

Between eighty and ninety men were present at the noon-day luncheon Thursday at the First Presbyterian church, after which Dr. Lyon spoke for about half an hour on "Ability and Responsibility." Each person has some natural ability, the evangelist declared, and God expects him to use it. A man with the most opportunities will be held more responsible than the man with less opportunities.

There should be advancement in religion the same as in other things, the speaker said.

"The trouble in the religious life of today is that we have altogether too much tallow candle, stage coach, log cabin religion," he continued. "Making a profession of your religion does not increase your responsibility one ta. Christianity gives you power to bear those responsibilities."

Shop meetings were held at the Fort Wayne Electric works and the Pennsylvania car shops at the noon hour by members of the Lyon party.

A special service was held Thursday afternoon for the old folks of Fort Wayne. They were conveyed to the tabernacle in automobiles and were provided with every possible comfort.

Cottage Prayer Meetings.

Cottage prayer meetings will be held on Friday. The topic is "Overcomers." Rev. 21:1-7; John 5:15.

Remarkable Experiences.

Those who went out in the work of Tuesday visiting from house to house, report remarkable experiences. The blessing was mutual upon the visitor and visited. Some who went out with fear and trembling returned with joy overflowing. They say they would not have missed the experiences for anything. In nearly every home they were welcomed. Prayer was offered in thousands of homes. All districts not visited should be completed on next Tuesday. Captains needing help report immediately.

Less Expense——Greater Values

The Patterson-Fletcher Co. business year begins Feb. 1st, and this year we begin a new policy—A policy of "Less Expense," and still greater value, but values in the finest of Men's wearables such as Hirsh Wickwire and Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothing, Wilson, Manchester and Manhattan Shirts, Trimble and Stetson Hats, Vassar Underwear, Auerback Stag Underwear.

When we see all of the extravagant advertisement in the papers with just as extravagant statements, we are convinced that the best advertisement in the world is to give people values they can get in no other store. This we did during the past year, but we are going to do still more in value-giving during 1915, but the only way we can do it is to cut our expense. Our windows and our customers must do the greater part of our advertising.

Aside from our GREAT SALES that we have twice a year—(Feb. and August), we will do but little advertising, but what we say in our small space will be right to the point.

We probably have the largest clothing business in Indiana. We expect to hold this trade and gain new customers by giving the best possible service and values that you can find in no other store in the state.

Tell your friends that this is the store that has what you want when you want it, and that it is the best clothing store in the state, and your statements will be backed up by

Why is POSTUM Replacing Coffee?

People are waking up to the harmful effects of the powerful drug—caffeine—in coffee, which poisons the system, often resulting in nervousness, heart flutter, headache, biliousness and many other ills and discomforts.

The pure food-drink, Postum, is absolutely drug-free—made only of the choicest wheat and a bit of wholesome molasses. It contains no caffeine or other harmful elements.

If you doubt that coffee hurts you, a sure test is to leave it off for 10 days and use Postum. It's an easy change, too, for Postum tastes much like the mild, high-grade Javas. As the coffee-drug is eliminated from your system, your own feelings will suggest Postum and better health.

Postum comes in two forms: Regular Postum—must be boiled, 15c and 25c packages; Instant Postum—soluble form, made in the cup with hot water instantly, 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious, and the cost per cup is about the same.

And Quantity Measures Up Well With Quality of Coming Show.

In addition to having more "actors" than any minstrel show that has ever been produced on a Fort Wayne stage —Road companies not excepted—the Moose charity minstrels, which will hold the boards at the Majestic theater next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings, will be the best show of the kind in the city's home talent history.

More time has been devoted to training the participants and in arranging the scenic effects and the general stage "business" and more money has been spent in reading perfection. Val Ewig and Adolph Wichman, who are directing the production, are highly pleased with the showing that has been made by the eighty-seven amateurs that will take part and they are confident the stage rehearsal at the Majestic Saturday evening will show everything all set for the start Tuesday night.

The olio that will close the show is made up of a half-dozen clever little skits. Among these is "A Night at the Club," written by Jack Bailey, of the Englander Woolen company, which will be staged by the author, Darrell D. Hallenstein and Ed Cranston. Each of the three will render a song and between the numbers will pull an amusing fire of quick conversation. Mr. Hallenstein will sing "Ruff Johnson's Harmony Band"; Mr. Bailey, "Memphis Blues," and Mr. Cranston, "When He Kissed Her Good-bye."

A ten-minute sketch, featured by singing and dancing numbers, will be "In Camp at Twilight." Miss Marie Morris will be the fortune teller in this tabloid; Adolph F. Wiemann, the man of the world; Miss Ruth Lanternier, the flower girl, and Miss Helen Farman, the dancing girl.

A silk flag, fifty-six by forty-eight inches in dimensions, ordered by the lodge for the tableau scene that will close the show with a blaze of beauty, has been delivered and is on display in a window of the Fort Wayne Outfitters store.

SENATE SAVES ON PRINTING BILLS

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—A saving of $465.30 has been made in the matter of printing of senate bills up to and including January 30, as compared with the same period of the 1913 legislative session, as shown by an itemized statement filed with the senate today by Secretary Free. The report also shows that there have been more bills ordered printed for that time than there were during the same period of the 1913 session.

It is shown that the total cost of the printing for the senate at this session had been $1,383.34, whereas the total cost for the same period in 1913 was $1,848.64. In 1913 there was a total of 140 bills presented as compared with a total of 178 bills printed at this session. The saving, it is said, has been due to the new plan adopted by the senate at the suggestion of Senator Chambers, himself a printer. This year the bills are printed forty ems wide instead of twenty and the space between the lines has been reduced.

OFFICIAL STARTER DIRECTS TRAFFIC OF JITNEY BUS.

The jitney bus loop at the San Francisco Ferry building, where the association of five-cent auto drivers recently stationed an official starter to expedite the handling of crowds and to give each bus the same chance to get a load. GOVERNOR SIGNS ANTI-LOBBY BILL

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—Governor Samuel M. Ralston today signed the anti-lobby bill, passed by the Indiana legislature. The law provides that all lobbyists must register with the secretary of state, giving the name of the employer, the legislation in which they are interested and the pay received. Heavy fines are provided for violation of the law, which goes into effect at once.

After signing the measure Gov. Ralston went before the legislature and discussed the law, which had been objected to by lawyers all over the state. The lawyers contend they should have the privilege of representing their clients without being classed as lobbyists.

To give the unemployed in Indiana work will be the purpose of a meeting in this city today, which is being held at the instigation of the chamber of commerce of Kokomo. It is thought that a bill will be drafted to be introduced in the legislature this week providing for municipal and county administrations to do public improvement work without submitting the jobs to contractors under competitive bids. Representatives of various commercial civic and charitable organizations of the state will attend.

R. L. Polk and company has been awarded a judgment for $20 against August Kline for the publication of a book. The case was heard in the court of Justice Michael J. Tancey.

URGES FEDERAL AID TO MERCHANT MARINE

Washington, Feb. 4.—Government aid in building up an American merchant marine and federal legislation permitting the maintenance of resale prices were commended in special report submitted at today's session of the chamber of commerce of the United States. These recommendations and addresses by Secretary McAdoo and Senator Burton, of Ohio, on the "development of the merchant marine of the United States," and Commissioner of Corporations Davies, on the "Federal Trade Commission," were features on the day's program.

In its report the committee on merchant marine advocated the creation of a federal shipping board to encourage the establishment and successful operation of an American merchant marine and a marine development company, capitalized at $30,000,000, to advance funds to buyers or builders of steamers.

THE SENTINEL'S DAILY SCRIPTURE READING.

Proverbs 6:1-19.

1 My son, if thou be surety for thy friend, if thou hast stricken thy hand with a stranger,
2 Thou art snared with the words of thy mouth, thou art taken with the words of thy mouth.
3 Do this now, my son, and deliver thyself, when thou art come into the hand of thy friend; go, humble thyself, and make sure thy friend.
4 Give not sleep to thine eyes, nor slumber to thine eyelids.
5 Deliver thyself as a roe from the hand of the hunter, and as a bird from the hand of the fowler.
6 Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise:
7 Which having no guide, overseer, or ruler,
8 Provideth her meat in the summer, and gathereth her food in the harvest.
9 How long wilt thou sleep, O sluggard? when wilt thou arise out of thy sleep?
10 Yet a little sleep, a little slumber, a little folding of the hands to sleep:
11 So shall thy poverty come as one that travelleth, and thy want as an armed man.
12 A naughty person, a wicked man, walketh with a froward mouth.
13 He winketh with his eyes, he speaketh with his feet, he teacheth with his fingers;
14 Frowardness is in his heart, he deviseth mischief continually; he soweth discord.
15 Therefore shall his calamity come suddenly; suddenly shall he be broken without remedy.
16 These six things doth the Lord hate: yea, seven are an abomination unto him:
17 A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood,
18 An heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief,

Cutting Down the Offices.

In these days when the fashion is the creation of new offices, new commissions and new boards rather than the abolition of old ones, it is somewhat shocking and at the same time rather refreshing to note that certain Indiana lawmakers strongly favor the elimination of some state offices that have long been maintained. Bills looking to this end have already been introduced in the state legislature but it is of course too early to hazard any sort of prediction as to what will come of them.

These bills include among others a measure to abolish the state geologist's department, the state entomologist, the state board of forestry and the state statistician's office and transfer the duties of these departments to Indiana and Purdue universities. Representative Waite introduced a bill seeking to create a state department of horticulture and forestry and abolish the office of state entomologist and the state board of forestry. Representative Denistou introduced a measure to abolish the state department of statistics and transfer its duties to Indiana university. He also introduced a measure to abolish the office of state geologist and transfer its duties to the state school at Bloomington. Representative Coons introduced bills seeking to abolish the office of state entomologist, his deputy, the state apiarist and the state board of forstry and transfer the duties of these offices to Purdue university.

There is at hand no specific information as to just how the proposed changes would work out, but we fancy that as a general proposition the idea will obtain a good deal of favor over the state. On the face of things, if we are going to have economy in state expenditures, there has been a rather admirable selection of places at which to make a start.

The death of Judge Frank M. Powers, of Angola, will bring a shock of poignant grief to his very wide acquaintance over Northeastern Indiana and in other sections of the state as well. To thousands who have known Frank Powers as lawyer citizen, jurist and frind his passing comes as a deep personal sorrow. He was just, fearless, upright, kindly, companionable, of lofty honor, a man of brilliant attainments and of warm sympathies who gained friends steadily and never lost them. He had been repeatedly honored by the citizens of his home town, county and district, and more recently was elevated to a place on the Indiana appellate court bench, a position which he had but begun to adorn when stricken by the illness which has proven fatal. It is in such men as was Frank Powers that one of the finest types of American citizenship is to be found and his passing is a distinct loss to the community and to the state.

The postoffice department has manifested pronouncedly favorable interest in the suggestion to experiment with an aeroplane mail service between Fort Wayne and Indianapolis, and it is made clear that it will be gladly undertaken as quickly as an appropriation can be secured from congress to defray the expenses of the enterprise. Those who were inclined to smile superciliously at Aviator Gladbach's proposition may yet see the airship mail proposition between Fort Wayne and the state capital a daily actuality.

Representative Rauch is said to be having the troubles of his life picking a postmaster for Huntington from the list of four ambitious patriots who are after the place and at the same time keeping the other three maintaining an unshaken faith in the glory of the stars and stripes and the United States constitution. The Eleventh district congressman might have profited by noting the quick action policy pursued in the Twelfth, where selections were made before so many persons had been exposed to the postmastership contagion.

Jack Johnson is reported to be deeply puzzled as to how he is going to be able to evade federal officers and get into Mexico for his forthcoming fight, but the general public is plainly going to let the negro pugilist do his own worrying about it.

EFFICIENCY ON THE JOB.

(Indiana Times.)

Lieut. Gov. O'Neill and Speaker Bedwell are to be commended for fairness, attention to duty and for efficiency in the performance of the important tasks to which they are assigned by the people. As presiding officers of the separate houses of the Indiana legislature, these two men carry a large responsibility. Not the least difficult of their problems is that which compels them to maintain a party offense and defense, while at the same time, according to their political foes, the republican minority, the courtesy and consideration that result in respect and friendship unimpaired.

The sixty-ninth session of the Indiana legislature thus far has been marked by good feeling and fair play and by an acceleration of business that only is achieved through efficient leadership. Credit, and large credit, is due to the president of the senate and to the speaker of the house. The democratic majority is fortunate, for many reasons, in having two such presiding officers as O'Neil and Bedwell. The people will judge the majority leadership on the record it makes: on the economy, fairness, justice and the quality of the work done by the legislature. If the early part of the session is to stand as a criterion for the remaining weeks of the legislative period, it appears the public will be able to find much worth commending. If O'Neill and Bedwell are to continue throughout the session on the lines they have laid down up to this time, the people, regardless of party, will bestow upon them a full measure of praise. It is no more than the truth to say that these two men, a new leadership, as it were, have done much in a short time to bring credit upon themselves and on their party. They are doing good work in a modest, matter-of-fact way.

WELL TEMPERED LIVING.

(Seattle Post-Intelligencer.)

The statistics of insanity show that the minds of men and women are often made aberrant through the steady drive of environment, in which the simple life and the spurring city life are equally at fault. The figures show the per capita of insanity differs little in city and country. Rural solitude and the abnormal life of the city are alike responsible for mental diseases. It is as bad for man to be too much alone as it is for him to be surrounded by perfervid life. The history of the race, the inquiries of investigators and the judgment of specialists in the diseases of mind and body tell us that the well tempered life, void of excesses, is the plane upon which men and women best endure in mental and bodily health; a temperance of thought and a temperance of action in an environment in which the individual is neither submerged by human society or detached from it.

LETTER TO PRESIDENT WILSON.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 3, 1915.—To President Woodrow Wilson, Washington, D. C.—A six (6) cent loaf of bread is in sight now all over the land.

Now is the time to urge again the three (3) cent coinage, held up before by the five (5) cent street railways.

There is no danger now to street railways of a three (3) cent care fare, their traction expenses are so much higher with everything higher now.

When the cost of a food product is four (4) cents, one (1) cent is not enough profit, the dealer says, and jumps the selling price to ten (10) cents, the same practice holding in other small merchandise items of many kinds and varieties, to avoid giving pennies in change. Many of such small items would be marked eight (8) cents, (a five and a three) instead of ten (two fives or a dime), and nine (9) million dollars per annum is a low representative estimate of the savings to the consumers all over the United States.

MR. BRYAN FACES A HIGH-SPEED PROGRAM

Eight Speeches Before Him in Two Days Visit at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—Eight speeches were before Secretary of State Wm. J. Bryan when he arrived here at noon for a two days' visit. While here Mr. Bryan will be the guest of Governor and Mrs. Ralston and will have luncheon at the home of United States Senator John W. Kern on Friday. Mr. Bryan's first address was to be to the students of Shortridge high school at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Two addresses are on the program for tonight, the first before the democratic state editorial association and the second at a public meeting at 8:30. The activities of the second day of Mr. Bryan's visit will begin at 7:30 tomorrow morning, when the governor planned to invite a number of friends in to meet the secretary. Then will follow an address at Butler college at the foundation day exercises at 8:30, after which the secretary will make a hurried trip for a speech at Manual Training High school. The speech before the Indiana legislature will begin at 11 o'clock.

After the luncheon with Mrs. Kern Mr. Bryan expects to rest at the Ralston home until 3:30 o'clock, when he will speak at the Y. M. C. A. The final and probably the most important speech of the trip will be made at the Transportation association club banquet, where he will talk on the subject: "The Railroads' Relations to the Business World."

Secretary Bryan will depart for Washington late tomorrow night, arriving there at 2:15 o'clock Sunday morning.

GERMAN NEWSPAPERS CRITICIZE WILSON

Berlin, Feb. 4.—A news dispatch has been received here from Washington saying that President Wilson has consented to an amendment to the ship purchase bill which provides that no vessel is to be bought by the United States if such purchase would lead to conflict with any one of the belligerent powers. Nearly all the German newspapers criticize this course sharply. They virtually unite in calling it a backdown before Great Britain on the part of President Wilson. The Kreuz Zeitung says:

"This tender consideration for Great Britain is the more remarkable inasmuch as it injures America herself."

When Mary Garden pinned a Red Cross badge on and went a-nursing sick soldiers in French hospitals, her grand opera mantle seemed to naturally slip around the shoulders of Miss Helen Stanley, the American prima donna.

BABY'S FACE BROKE OUT WITH PIMPLES

Itched and Burned. Fretful and Restless. Impossible to Sleep Nights. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Face as Well as Ever.

Glenburn, N. Dak.—"My baby's face began to break out with pimples which turned into sores. The pimples were small and festered. They itched and burned so that she scratched them. She was fretful and restless and kept scratching them while she slept. It became so bad that it was impossible for her to sleep nights.

"I began by bathing her face with ——— and water and then applying ——— but as it kept growing worse I got a prescription of some kind of salve. Still her face got worse. I read of Cuticura Soap and Ointment so tried them. After the second application I could notice an improvement and in less than two weeks her face was as well as ever without a scar." (Signed) Mrs. Sidney Turner, June 5, 1914.

Beauty of skin and hair promoted and maintained by Cuticura Soap and Ointment.

WOULD MAKE INDIANA DRY

monthly a report showing the amount of liquor sold.

Where intoxicants are intended for use for scientific, medicinal and mechanical purposes, the druggist would be permitted to make the sale direct only to persons whom he knows not to be in the habit of using intoxicants as a beverage, and who has good moral character. The quantity a retail druggist could sell would be limited to a pint, while the wholesale druggist could not sell less than a gallon at a time.

Prescriptons Public Records.

Physicians in giving prescriptions would be required to state the liquor was needed for medicinal purposes and in event of a false statement being made the person could be prosecuted. His prescriptions would become public records. Any citizen, the prosecuting attorney, or the attorney general of the state could institute proceedings to determine any violaton of the proposed law. Possession of a United States liquor tax license also would be regarded as prima facie evidence of sale.

It would be made unlawful for a liquor advertisement being placed in any street car, or posted on any billboard, or printed upon handbills and distributed.

Governor Ralston in an address to the legislature after signing and interpreting the anti-lobby bill as he understood it, said it was broad enough to include all organizations, whether incorporated or not and to require a strict accounting of all money received by lobbyists. The governor defended the constitutionality of the law, which he said had been attacked and quoted state supreme court decisions to sustain him.

He said that under the act "the citizens' rights are in no wise abridged, but the exercise of certain of his rights are regulated."

Governor Ralston said in part: "Notwithstanding all the talk and misrepresentation indulged in either through ignorance or with the deliberate desire to deceive the public to the effect that this act does not apply to public officials, on the contrary, it expressly provides that it shall be unlawful for public officials to serve as 'legislative counsel' or 'legislative agents,' who are the only persons that may be legally employed to advocate or to oppose legislation. It does not prevent, of course, a public official advocating or opposing legislation without hire.

"The law has long been recognized in justice to law makers and the public that those who favor or oppose legislation because they are financially interested, commit a fraud upon the law when they fail to disclose their interest to the legislator, whom they seek to influence.

"This act, I am convinced, if complied with, will make employment to present a client's case before a law making body respectable, and the patriotic legislator and the reputable lawyer should be its strongest champions."

The vessel, valued at $150,000, carried a miscellaneous cargo of from $50,000 to $75,000 in value. Officials of the company said it was fully insured. On July 16, 1913, the Iowa was in collision in the Chicago river and sank after being tied up at her dock. She was raised and rebuilt and was given an A-1 rating by government inspectors.

CLOTHING FOR NEEDY.

Fifteen Hundred Wagons Make Collections in New York.

New York, Feb. 4.—Fifteen hundred wagons are today collecting bundles of clothing in every section of the city for distribution among the needy unemployed men and women and for children of the poor. Thousands of bundles were received yesterday at the headquarters of the bundle day committee and it was believed the day's collection would be more than a million bundles.

MARSHALL MAY HOLD SHIP BILL'S FATE

Washington, Feb. 4.—Vice President Marshall probably will cast the vote which decides whether the administration ship bill lives or dies at this session of congress. If the expectations of the leaders are fulfilled it will be one of the few instances in which the vice president of the United States has swung the balance. The last was when the late Vice President Sherman cast the deciding vote for the Bristow session, which put constitutional amendment for direct election of senators before the people.

Administration democrats re-formed their lines today and found they had only 46 votes against the 48 republicans waiting to send the bill back to the commerce committee without instructions. Their only course was to stave off a vote while Senator Newlands hurries back from California and Senator Smith, of South Carolina, can come from the bedside of his wife. With these votes the democrats figure that, barring surprises, the contest will be even on the floor and the vice president will be called on to cast a deciding vote. Administration leaders count him with them. With this program before them today's proceedings were carried on as part of the plan to hold off a vote until the arrival of the two absent senators.

In the course of the debate Senator Hoke Smith said: "It is understood that if the bill as now before the senate goes to a vote, it will be beaten. It is also understood that if it is amended a majority of the senate will vote for it."

AL HEIDER NOW A FEDERAL PRISONER

Hardened Young Crook Has Confessed to Stealing Mail Packages.

Albert C. Heider, 28, who has been living with his brother at 1309 Maud street, arrested with Joseph C. Swain, 27, on charge of breaking into a restaurant on West Main street, has made a complete confession to W. B. Piatt, postoffice inspector, to the charge of stealing three packages from mail sacks at the Wabash depot on three different occasions, August 12, 1914; November 19, 1914, and January 8, 1915, and was turned over to the federal authorities this afternoon.

Heider was arrested on complaint of Piatt on the specific charge of stealing a package containing dry goods on August 12, 1914, directed to Miss Persis Bond, 2137 Robinwood avenue, Toledo, O.

When arraigned in the city court for preliminary hearing on the burglary charge several days ago, Heider admitted on the witness stand that he had stolen mail packages from the Wabash depot, said he knew it was a federal case and that he was not terrified at the prospect of a term in the federal prison at Leavenworth, Kas.

Heider's pal, Swain, with whom he has had a falling out and whom he denounces as a "dirty rat," was arraigned for trial in the circuit court Thursday morning on the burglary charge.

NOW UP TO STATE VOTERS.

New York Senate Adopts Woman Suffrage Resolution.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 4.—The woman suffrage resolution passed by the legislature in 1913 was adopted in the senate today by a unanimous vote. It previously had been adopted in the assembly. The voters of the state will now be given the opportunity to vote on the question of a constitutional amendment to permit women suffrage.

BLANKETS SILENT PROOF.

Two Marked "Idler" Washed Ashore at Cape Hatteras.

Washington, Feb. 4.—Two blankets marked "Idler" washed ashore at the Cape Hatteras coast guard station are regarded as silent proof that the vessel wrecked on the diamond shoals last week was the yacht of that name from New York on a cruise of the Pacific and that the captain and crew of twelve undoubtedly were lost.

GREAT IS COLLEGE EDUCATION—KNOCKS BOTTOM OUT OF H. C. L.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Who cares whether the little red hen goes on her annual winter strike or not? Who ever else does, the gay college chappies of Evanston don't. These boys don't spend all their time selecting purple socks and ties. Last fall they took a course in reducing the high cost of living on a college allowance without doing janitor work to pay room rent.

It was Howard Osborne, student of chemistry, who discovered that a solution of radium silicate was a sure preservative for hen fruit. He organized a corporation, cornered a few hundred eggs, painted them with silicate, planted them until the prices went up—and now some Evanston students are egg merchants, unworried by the infrequency with which checks come from the "old man."

Cleveland, O., Feb. 4.—Dreams of a cozy home, either in Akron or some southern clime, and remembrances of auto rides, dinner and theater parties and frequent visits which, she alleges, were among numberless attentions paid her, crumbled and fell for Mrs. Zella M. Gilbert, of Cleveland and Akron, who has commenced a breach of promise suit against Rev. George H. Richie, asking $10,000 heart balm.

Mrs. Gilbert, pretty at thirty-six, who was divorced from her first husband and whose second husband died three years ago, expected, she said, to be a bride for the third time on February 3.

Mrs. Gilbert conducts a rooming house in Akron and is active in business. She has been a successful real estate agent, rent collector and until recently conducted a grocery store.

"I dread all this notoriety, but there was nothing left for me to do," she said. "I disposed of all my property on Mr. Ritchie's promise to marry me, and I had no reason to believe that he would not keep his promise."

GERMANY WARNS TO AVOID FRENCH COAST

Washington, Feb. 4.—Germany today notified the state department that American vessels should avoid the north and west coast of France.

The state department does not regard the notice as a formal declaration of a blockade by Germany of the French coast. It is said the presence of German submarines or the planting of German mines would not constitute a blockade, which, according to long established principles of the state department, requires the maintenance of a fleet of warships sufficient to prevent any intercourse with the blockaded port.

The Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company handled the "Merry Burlesquers" to Muncie Thursday morning.

MADE HER WILL AT AGE OF 100 YEARS

The late Mrs. Caroline P. Ferry, who died a few days ago in this city at the age of more than 100 years, did not make her will until after she had passed the century mark.

Her last will and testament was filed in the circuit court Thursday for probate and it bears the date of October 23, 1914. Mrs. Ferry celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of her birth in September. Her estate, real and personal, is left to her daughter, Mrs. Eudora E. Boyles, of West Main street.

In running to catch a car Wednesday, Charles R. Lane in some manner strained the muscles in his right leg, causing a most painful injury.

Charles L. Biederwolf, secretary of the Commercial club, who has been ill for the last few days with grip, was able to be at the club Thursday. He is much improved.

Society

Miss Katherine MacDougal entertained a dozen ladies at a luncheon at noon today with Miss Nelly O'Brien, of Foynes, Ireland. Only a dozen ladies were seated at the luncheon, which was quite informal, Miss MacDougal taking this opportunity to have a number of club women interested in the Gaelic league, which Miss O'Brien represents, meet the distinguished guest.

"Cead Mile Failte" is the greeting to be extended to people who attend the entertainment to be given at Library hall tomorrow evening. Those words are the Gaelic meaning of a thousand welcomes. Another Gaelic expression which will become familiar to the audience is "abhrain rinnci agus ceolta," which is true Gaelic for songs, dances and music. For besides cultivating the Irish language and promoting Irish industries the Gaelic league is fostering the traditional Irish dances. An interesting feature of the entertainment tomorrow will be the costumes to be worn as the ladies conducting the exhibit of Irish art in the city will appear in costumes worn by gentlewomen in Ireland during the fifteenth century. Miss Teresa Halpin, of Garryowen, who illustrates much of the talk to be given by Miss O'Brien, is the winner of hundreds of trophies in Ireland for step dancing.

The kindergarten teachers and parents of little children are greatly interested in the entertainment to be given this evening in the auditorium of the High school building by Miss Mari Reul Hofer, of Chicago. Miss Hofer has a national reputation for her work concerning songs for children and her work in kindergarten methods and her subjects are such as interest all parents and teachers. No admission is charged but the kindergarten association of the city is anxious that a big audience pays respect to a woman with an important subject.

Another address of far more than passing interest is to be given tomorrow afternoon, also in the High school auditorium, at 3:30 o'clock by C. D. Jarvis. Mr. Jarvis is sent here by Dr. P. P. Claxton, United States commissioner of education, to talk about home and school gardening. Dr. Claxton heard a few months ago of the work done by some Fort Wayne schools and Fort Wayne children in gardening and asked for a report. The report pleased him and this talk by Mr. Jarvis under the auspices of the Woman's League educational department is to further interest in the movement. Parents, teachers and everyone else interested is invited to hear this address.

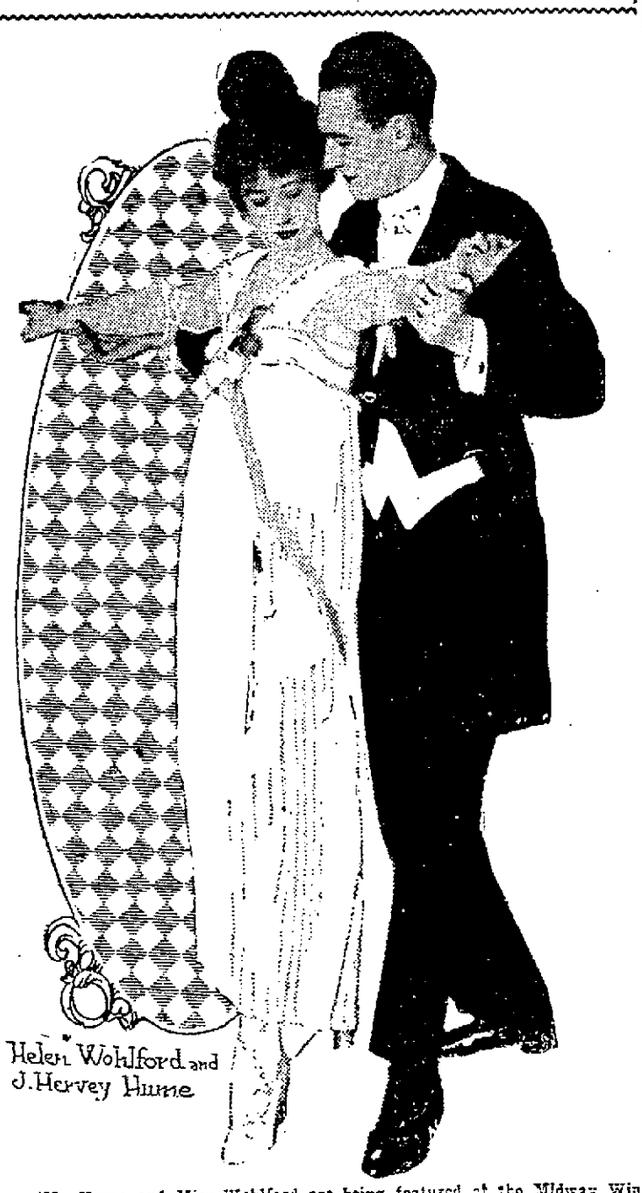
THE "BREAKSTEP" IN THE NEW WALTZ CANTER.



(Mr. Hume and Miss Wohlford are being featured at the Midway Winter Gardens, Chicago, in this series of new dances.)

(By J. Hervey Hume.)

The waltz canter is little more than the "lame duck" figure in the one step or hesitation tango, done to waltz time. With the exception of the pivots, the lady's step is backwards practically all of the time while the gentleman goes forward. However, canter variations are many, including what is known as the "draw" or "break step," the "box turn," the "reverse" and the "half cortes." Making proper allowance for the difference in music, most any one step variation may be adapted to the canter.

AT THE EMPRESS.

For the last half of the week—opening this afternoon—the Empress has a dazzling array of theatrical talent for Fort Wayne people to feast their eyes on. The Six Abdallahs, the world's greatest tumblers, with their mystifying, marvelous feats of strength and skill, will charm and delight all beholders. "Henpecked Henry," with five people in the cast, is one of those nifty farces that are all mirth and movement. Patrick and Otto, two warriors bold, present "A Battle of Words," founded on the recent fracas between the United States and Mexico. Brennan and Carr, with their "Fun on the Docks," are there with the laugh goods, while Eiler's animals constitute a real novelty in the way of animal acts.

AT THE LYRIC.

The charmer of charmers, Lillian Russell, whose golden beauty has made her name internationally famous, will repeat her performance of "Wildfire" in five big acts at the Lyric this evening. Miss Russell still is the mistress of all the artifices of the professional beauty and is as charming as ever in this role, which first gave her fame. She plays a game of tennis, although as a matter of fact, she is a grandmother a couple of times and in the thrilling race scene is infinitely more convincing on the screen than in the spoken drama.

"The Man Behind the Door" is the thrilling story to be told in four acts at the Lyric Friday. Murray Vann is playing the leading role in this splendid production.

AT THE NEW PALACE

With Frank Keenan, the American actor, featuring the bill, in his surpassing playlet, "Vindication," the New Palace has a current program in every respect worthy of the headline attraction which is surely sufficient that it is a real entertainment. Mr. Keenan's remarkable abilities as a character actor never were given a better vehicle for their exploitation than afforded by the sketch written for him by Willard Mack.

Annie Laurie is a Scotch classic that never will grow old, especially when it is sung by a girl with a voice like the one possessed by the soloist with Wyatt's Scotch Lads and Lassies. The act is a rollicking succession of Scotch ballads, dances and instrumental music.

George W. Barry and Maude C. Wolford are royal entertainers, who have provided themselves with a seemingly unending array of topical songs and funny chatter that have made them prime favorites at the New Palace. The remainder of the bill consists of the Farrell Taylor trio of blackface comedians, in "The Minstrel Man at the Club;" Charlie Nevins and Ada Gordon, in a hodge podge of laughs, songs and dances, the Steiner trio of acrobats, and Grace DeMar, the raven-haired beauty in a cycle of new songs.

AT THE TEMPLE.

An entertainment every minute the curtain is up and with enough laughs in the action to keep one chuckling between burlettas, "The Cherry Blossoms" at the Temple is a regular show, especially with Harry Shapelle and Mart Guild doing the opposite comedy roles. These two fun makers with Jim Hazelton as the "rube" comedian provide a bunch of fun that leaves a good taste in one's mouth.

The two burlettas are crammed full of tuneful, catchy music sung by girls with real voices, grace and skill in dancing and beauty of face and form. Costumed in an elaborate manner and fitted out with scenic effects that rival the musical extravaganzas of a couple of years ago, "The Cherry Blossoms" are entitled to the success that is theirs.

Girl in Purple Coming.

AT THE COLONIAL

MRS. LESLIE CARTER IN "DU BARRY."

Vast Pageant of Color.

In order to insure the proper atmosphere necessary to the presentation of the "Du Barry" drama, George Kleine, the producer, took the entire company of participating artists to Italy, and filmed the scenes among environments of surpassing beauty. Little doubt that this picture is considered a masterpiece by all who have seen it.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

German Performance of "Lieb Vaterland" Friday Evening.

"Lieb Vaterland," the latest and greatest war play of the present day, will be produced at the Majestic theater tomorrow evening. It is indeed a rare treat that is in store for our German American citizens and all students of the German language. The New York critics have unanimously endorsed "Lieb Vaterland" and praised its author, Max Simon, a New York newspaper man, on account of the fairness and impartiality shown in his thrilling play. The four powerful parts of "Lieb Vaterland" depict the great struggle of Germany from four new and immensely interesting angles.

"A Pair of Sixes" Next Monday Evening a Great Comedy.

Someone has suggested that the naming of the clever comedy by Edward Peple, which played at the Longacre theater, New York, for an entire season and the Cort theater, Chicago, for six months, should have been called "The Purple Pill" instead of "A Pair of Sixes." There are probably more poker players among the theater-goers than there are druggists, and so "A Pair of Sixes" may, after all, be the better of the two titles.

The story of the play carries a valuable hint to all partners and particularly to proprietary medicine people. The two partners who manufacture Eureka Digestive Pills have built up a wonderful business, selling over 10,000,000 pills annually, but developing an absolute hatred for each other in their mutual jealousy as to which of the two is contributing most of the success of the business.

CONCORDIANS ARE READY FOR WINONA

College Boys Believe They Can Trim the Aggies Friday Night.

Capt. G. E. Byroade and his squad of Concordia college basket ball players are all keyed up for Louis Scott and his Winona Aggies, who are carded for the college gymnasium here on Friday evening.

They figure something like this. Zanesville is the standard by which all the basket ball teams hereabouts have been measured. The margin by which it defeated Concordia is smaller than that by which it beat the other clubs therefore the local collegians have a little something over the others.

With this as a basis it is calculated that the Concordia club is about the best of the city's fives and it ought to pile up a bigger victory over Winona than the Lyceum team managed to annex.

Of course, managers of other city clubs will dispute this but these little differences between players and managers as to the relative strength of their organizations is what contests are founded upon. Concordia does not expect to win easily and is preparing for the game as carefully as it has for the others in which it has taken part this season.

The Winona team has always been a strong card and this coupled with the fact that there is a big contingent of fans strong for the local collegians promises a big attendance.

Wednesday night of next week the postponed game with St. Mary's Athletics will be played, Manager Sterling having announced that his players will be fit by that time. In expectation of a big advance sale seats will be placed at the usual places on Saturday night.

Basket Ball Notes.

The Rexalls won from the Aeolians Wednesday night at the Lyceum by a score of 28 to 22. The line-up:

Rexalls—Buchman and Bartels, forwards; Wilkins, center; Borkenstein and Distel, guards.

Aeolians—Kinney and Steinbach, forwards; McGuire, center; Loos and Rulo, guards.

Field goals—Buchman, 3; Bartels, 5; Wilkens, 2; Distel, 1; Kinney, 3; Steinbacher, 1; McGuire, 5; Rulo, 1.

A game is booked for Friday night at the St. Paul gym when the St. Paul Nationals play the Kappa Sigma five, of New Haven. These two teams met recently at New Haven, and the latter won by two points. In the preliminary the St. Paul Juniors play the New Haven high school.

GIBBONS AND M'FARLAND TO A FINISH WOULD SUPPLY THE IDEAL BOXING MATCH OF THIS GENERATION.

BY LEFT HOOK.

Suppose, Fight Fan, that you were going to prison for life, or to the South Sea islands forever, or that the boxing game was about to be blotted out—what one fight would you like to see before anyone of those things came to pass.

You can have your own choice, but give us Mike Gibbons and Packey McFarland to a finish.

Of course, that is an idle dream in these days of petted and pampered ten-round pugilists, but even a half hour of that pair would be good enough to go miles to see if Mike would put up the same kind of battle he did against Jimmy Clabby the other evening in Milwaukee, and if Packey would come out of his shell and fight.

Gibbons' decisive defeat of Jimmy Clabby, heralded as king of the middleweights, put Mike right up on the top of the heap as the best middleweight since Stanley Ketchel and Billy Papke were mussing each other up at every opportunity. He's another Jack Dempsey and well worthy of comparison with the Nonpareil.

It was a ten-round fight, it is true, but not one person who saw it left the arena doubting that Gibbons was Clabby's master in every end of the game. Mike outhit, outblocked and outdid Jimmy in everything the latter was credited with being most proficient at. And Jeems is no slouch. He is one of the greatest boxers that ever climbed under the ropes. But Mike is a better one.

Now every middleweight of any class whatever is out for a wallop at Gibbons. McGoorty, with whom Mike fought a running fight in New York, is likely the best bet for somebody's club. But Eddie is getting bigger and makes 158 with an effort. Mike weighed in at 155 against Clabby.

Surely, Clabby will win a return match. And then there is George Chip and Young Ahern, whom the easterners are touting. Gibbons is in for a busy season if he wants it, and he wants it all right. The St. Paul tinner with the brilliant pompadour is passing up no chances to add to his real estate holdings.

But perhaps Packey, who has now so far forgotten his retirement from the ring as to book up as an added attraction with a show, will come back before the season is over. Then that Gibbons-McFarland match that caused so much discussion a year ago is likely to come off.

If Packey comes back, and how many of them ever stay away while they can yet stand, it may be to take the nailer on the chin that has stopped them all. Boxing history proves that no matter how great a record a man has stacked up he usually never quits until knocked out. Witness the painful Jeffries affair.

McFarland has never been knocked out.

JIM THORPE TOOK A LEAP JUST FOR FUN

Coach Genn Warner Saw Him—It Led to Discov- of Great Athlete.

New York, Feb. 4.—The law business wasn't very lucrative in New York, back in 1895, and that's why Glenn S. Warner, now coach of the University of Pittsburg eleven, busted into the football coaching business.

Warner today ranks as one of the greatest football coaches in America and one of the most famous athletic trainers in the world. Warner is a "miracle man" when it comes to developing green material, as is shown by his work as coach and trainer at the Carlisle Indiana school, in Carlisle, Pa.

Warner has brought to the fore many wonderful athletes, including Louis Tewanima, the great distance runner; Jim Thorpe, who won the title of greatest all-around athlete in the world in 1912 olympics, and Charles Albert ("Chief") Bender, one of the greatest pitchers in major league history.

"Bender was just a boy when he entered Carlisle," says Warner. "He had ambitions to become an outfielder. I recognized pitching skill in Bender and I coached him in the art of pitching. Bender proved an apt pupil. Bender was graduated from Carlisle in 1903. In 1904 he joined the Philadelphia Athletics. The rest is history.

"Jim Thorpe was one of the hardest men I ever had to handle," continued Warner. "He didn't believe he was an athlete. I had to keep drilling that into him. Even when he was gaining local fame he thought his accomplishments were due more to fool luck than skill.

"Thorpe was discovered in an accidental way. One day I had a squad out trying the high jumps. None of my men seemed able to clear the bar after I had shifted it rather high. Just at this moment Thorpe came along. He had been working in one of the school shops. He was wearing overalls and carrying a bucket.

"Thorpe, seeing that the others couldn't do the jump, dropped his bucket, stepped back a few paces, and without a word, made a flying leap and crossed that bar with inches to spare.

"Thorpe did that without training. I hadn't seen him before. At least, I didn't remember him, as he was a new man at the school. But you can bet that I hustled him off to the gymnasium, pushed him into an athletic suit and started him on his career that finally led him to the crest of the athletic world.

Warner has been handling athletes for twenty years, but most of his work was done at Carlisle, where he found nothing each year but "green" material. Indians from the plains and mountains of the far west who didn't know the difference between a pole vault and a hockey stick.

"How did you handle the Indians?" Warner was asked.

"With patience," answered Warner, "and kindness. An Indian can be made to do more through kindness than through any other method. They won't stand for bullying tactics.

"In the training of the athletes I adhered to one set of rules when teaching the men the fundamentals of the sport. But after that I humored the peculiarities of the men. No two men do things exactly alike. If you try to force a squad of athletes to train according to a fixed rule, you make an error. Whenever I found a man who wanted to do things his own way instead of in the generally accepted way, whether it was in baseball, football or track, I let him do it, unless I was convinced that the way he was doing it was detracting from his skill."

Warner was a famous football player in the early nineties. He played guard at Cornell and he was a wonder at that position. He played on the baseball team and won his letter for track work, too.

Warner graduated in 1895 and at once went to New York, where he hired an office and hung out a shingle. But business didn't do any perking up. Just about the time when Warner was beginning to figure out how he was going to purchase coal and other winter luxuries, the University of Georgia, hunting around for a football coach, discovered Warner. They offered him a job—and he accepted.

Warner is the type of coach who wins his men to him by his likable personality. Warner is kindly and brotherly in his attitude toward his men, yet he never encourages undue familiarity. On the field his men recognize him as the boss. Off the field he is their friend and their pal.

Warner's patience has become proverbial. Mistakes made by his pupils may rile him, but he never lets it show on the surface. If one of his pupils fails to execute an order in keeping with instructions. Warner doesn't threaten the player with instant death.

"That was a bit wrong that time," says Warner, kindly and not rebukingly. "Let's try it again. Now this is the way," and Warner repeats his first order.

E. F. Minnecker, assistant claim agent of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company, underwent an operation at the St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday.

WIDOW SAYS SHE IS DEFRAUDED OF LAND

Frances E. Bowman Brings Suit Demanding Damages of $7,000.

Frances E. Bowman, who describes herself as a widow aged 64 years, has filed in the circuit court a suit with some sensational features and in it she demands damages of $7,000 from Frances E. Bowman and Abner S. Elzey. The complaint says that on April 1, 1914—a good day for such a trick as she alleges—she deeded to the defendants a tract of 160 acres in Allen county and another of seven acres in Wells county, there being a contract that if they sold her land, as was understood, she should pay them a fair and just commission for their trouble and that if they didn't sell it they were to pay off $7,000 of indebtedness and compensate her with a sum of money that would be equitable and just and provide her with a good home and maintenance. She says the contract was so drawn that Elzey, as party of the third part, escapes all liability for carrying out the contract, and he is charged with being the "master spirit in the perpetration of the fraud." She says the defendants have refused to keep certain oral agreements made with her and that she has received no reasonable sum representing the difference between the value of the land, which is stated to aggregate $26,000, and the debts that were paid for her, and that she has to beg them for fuel and provisions. Action was not filed until now, says the plaintiff, because she feared the defendants would refuse her any support whatever.

Three Weeks, or Thereabouts.

Joseph A. Current recites in his complaint for divorce from Minnie Current that following their marriage in July, 1914, they lived together "a few weeks" and that from the beginning she treated him in a cruel and inhuman manner. She tried constantly to quarrel with him, he says, and sought to compel him to support her child by another marriage, when there had been a pre-nuptial understanding that the child was to live with its grandmother. She became angry at him at the start, remained so and finally deserted his house. He says he cannot live with her because of her "vile temperament" and asks a divorce.

Brings Two Suits.

Charles Anderson, whose wife, Minnie, sued him for divorce a few days ago, has filed in the circuit court a cross complaint in which he says she cursed him, called him names that are not printable, denounced him as a fool and a liar and threatened to kill him, on one occasion hurling a flat-iron with such violence that it went through the panel of a door. Also she accused him of immoral associations, he says, while at the same time had admitted to him her own faithlessness. The children of the pair are alleged to have been scolded and cruelly beaten by her and at one time she abandoned them for three months and at another time for nine months. For the loss of this paragon of wifely virtue Anderson blames her mother, Mrs. Melissa Van Horn, against whom he has filed in the same court a suit for $2,000 damages, alleging that she got his wife to leave him and destroyed his happy home.

Got Drunk and Abused Her.

Emily Hughes has brought suit in the superior court for divorce from George Hughes, alleging cruel and inhuman treatment. She says he would get drunk drunk and then strike, kick and otherwise maltreat her. She asks custody of children and an order restraining him from molesting her has been issued. They were married in November, 1912, and separated a few days ago.

Notes of the Courts.

In the circuit court Harry Jones pleaded guilty to grand larceny in having stolen $50 from the hosiery of a young woman with whom he had been having a sociable time at a little party in a boarding house and whom he robbed after he had tucked her in bed. Sentence of from one to fourteen years in the reformatory was suspended.

These suits have been dismissed by the superior court: Dreher vs. Wiener, Eggiman vs. Eggiman, and Wiegmann vs. Wiegmann.

Minnie Current has sued George Current for $600 borrowed money, the case being filed in the circuit court.

Joseph Swain was put on trial in the circuit court Thursday morning on a charge of burglarizing the Liebenguth restaurant on West Main street, several weeks ago. He pleaded not guilty and members of his family put in an alibi that in all its parts was thoroughly concordant. The trial was halted at 3 o'clock and continued until Friday afternoon at 1:30. Al Heider, accused with Swain on the jog, has been surrendered to the federal authorities for mail robberies and the burglary charge against him will be dismissed.

In the superior court Margaret Dodge has been granted a divorce from John W. Dodge.

LARGE ASSESSMENT ROLL IS PREPARED

Board of Works Will Confirm Levies for the Lakeside Sewer.

The principal business of the board of works Thursday night will be consideration of the assessment roll for the Lakeside sewer and sewer pumps recently constructed and now undergoing a satisfactory test. The city engineering department completed the huge roll and transmitted it to the board Thursday morning. It consists of forty-two pages containing 2,988 separate property descriptions and the aggregate of assessments is $7,430.96, which will pay for a connecting sewer, the pump-house, sewage pumps and other equipment and for the site on which the house stands. Assessment was based on the area of the property assessed at the rate of one-half mill per square foot. The board will probably confirm the rolls at Thursday night's session.

ANOTHER SHIFT IS MADE.

Another shift in the status of the Weisser park improvement resolution occurred Thursday when the park bureau of assessments located and identified additional resident property owners in the southeast park district whose names cannot be found so far as the search has proceeded on the remonstrances filed. This gives the resolution another small margin. If complete search fails to reveal these property owners as remonstrants and no other changes that will disturb the balance are necessary the resolution will not be defeated. It was stated at the park board office, however, that the work of checking up had not been completed and that the result might still be considered in doubt.

NEW AUTO IN COMMISSION.

A third automobile has been added to the vehicular equipment of the city light and power works and Superintendent Frank Dix is now driving a new Ford of latest design and equipment. The increasing business of the department made necessary this addition to the equipment of the service branch.

CLEVER INVENTION IS SAFETY DEVICE

Railroad Collisions Are Prevented—Test Proves Successful.

New York, Feb. 4.—President Ralph Peters, of the Long Island railroad, is conducting elaborate experiments with what seems, up to this time, a marvelous device for the prevention of railroad collisions. It was invented by a telegraph operator in the Hotel Knickerbocker, and Proprietor Regan of that hostelry is financing the development of the device. Guests of President Peters' private car who saw the invention in operation this week could hardly be brought to believe that it was entirely automatic. And you couldn't blame them much, for this is what they saw:

Turned the Engine Loose.

The locomotive attached to the private car was started at twenty-eight miles an hour in pursuit of a freight train. The engineer, after setting his levers for full speed ahead, lighted a cigar and sat at the back of his cab. When a collision seemed about to occur the locomotive's whistle blew, the steam was turned off and the air brakes were thrown on. The "special" came to as quick and timely a stop as if the engineer had foreseen danger and acted to avert it.

The device can be used only where the block system has been installed. But it makes the block system automatically effective. There was no dependence upon human fallibility. At each block junction two short stretches of third rail take the contact of a shoe, attached to the engine. If the block ahead is empty there is no effect from the contact. If a train, moving or stationary, however, is in the block which the engine is entering, the shoe picks up a current powerful enough to operate three electric devices on the engine. One of them blows the whistle, another throws on the air brakes and the third shuts off the steam. The devices operate with the same effect if there is a broken rail in the block which is being entered or—which is of great importance—if a switch is thrown behind the train. Thus a train may be stopped almost instantly by a switchman after it has passed him.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

Fireman Theodore Walda Sustains Fractured Bone in Fall Thursday.

The injuries sustained by Fireman Theodore Walda, of No. 1 engine house, when he lost his hold on the sliding pole Thursday morning when he responded to the call which destroyed the Electro Plating company's place of business, are thought not to be serious. His injuries consist of a fractured bone in the right forearm and several bruises. He was taken to the Lutheran hospital immediately following the accident and an X-ray picture was taken of his back, but the picture showed nothing. It is thought he will be able to leave in a week or ten days.

A Better Future.

"Which is?"

"Becomin' a censor!"

ADVANCED.

"My ain't you afraid of gettin' sick, smokin'?"

"Say, kid, don't let that worry you. That happens only with a first segar—this one is second-handed!"

Lawton Wayne post, G. A. R., will hold a regular meeting Friday evening, February 5 in the Vordermark hall on Calhoun street at 7:30 o'clock. A campfire will follow.

Several of the recitation rooms must be used as session rooms at present until other plans are made.

Prof. C. T. Lane is ill and was unable to be on duty at the school Thursday morning and Prof. Louis W. Ward is taking his place. It is thought that Mr. Lane will be back to work Friday morning.

WHO IS THIS MAN WALSH, ANYWAY?

Chief Industrial Prober is Ranked as Very Fine Fighter.

Kansas City, Feb. 4.—Who is this man, Frank P. Walsh, head prober of unrest, whom the Gilded Order of Folks Who Live by the Sweat of Other Folks' Brows are beginning to dislike so much and to belittle or defame?

An iron jaw, a funny bone and a heart like an ox. That's what he is, in outline.

Geographically, he was born fifty years ago in St. Louis. He was born pup-poor. In the circle that he played with as a boy were thirty splendid chaps, Frank's chums. Only three of them "made good." The others, as they grew up, fell by the wayside, victims of poverty and the lack of a chance.

Two-fistedly fighting his own way up, through school and law school to a shingle at the Kansas City bar, Walsh one day began to wonder.

Was it necessary that twenty-seven should go down in order that three might rise?

So he became a student of social problems and, in time, a radical.

Irish and proud of it, he took to politics as a duck to water. But some strain in him kept him restless "within the party." Time after time he saw cheap skate politicians selling gold bricks to the poor under the banner of Thomas Jefferson; making brave talk before election and turning traitor the day after.

So he insurged.

Down in Missouri folks are talking yet about how nervy a fight Walsh made among the crooks in the democracy. Forward and backward, up and down, he belabored 'em; sometimes winning, more often losing, but always fighting—and smiling.

It must be that his funny bone is very close to his iron jaw for he's always seeing something to make his jaw snap and his eyes to smile.

The result of Walsh's shindies in Missouri politics was the election of Joe Folk as governor and a clean-out the old gangsters will never forget.

Between whiles Frank did law business. Some of it paid big; much paid nothing: for, like the doctors, he charged to fit the patient's purse; and his door stood open.

Many of his biggest court battles were fights against greed in behalf of the weak: and these he did for the sheer fun of the thing.

He was also a sort of standing counsel for organized labor—for with him the right of men to what they earn has the pull of a religion.

At that, he did enough paying business to put the wolf several feet from the door. Walsh isn't rich but he is insured—the wife and the eight kiddies are provided for.

It was mainly Walsh—Walsh and Bill Nelson, the editor man—who put over Kansas City's public welfare board; that first of American big city signs that the rights of humanity were going to get a look-in alongside the rights and grafts of property.

Three years ago when the Wilson campaign went "broke" owing to a big business boycott, Walsh put in $4,000 himself and got others to chip in, bringing the chasm and inspiring hope. In that campaign, too, he organized the social service workers and was the official optimist at McAdoo's headquarters.

With the youth, rosy health and spirits of a boy, but tempered by experiences that have touched life at every angle, Walsh is a husky specimen of alert manhood whose great passion is democracy. Remembering those twenty-seven chums who went down in the slums, the warm heart of him wants every boy and girl to have a fair chance.

It is that which made him lay aside big earnings at the bar to take from President Wilson the chairmanship of the federal commission on industrial relations, a job which actually costs him money, gets him in bad with the rich and mighty, but is nevertheless a joy, because through it he hopes to do good.

The chances are that you're not a predatory plute: that your sympathies are rather with Walsh than against him. But if you are; if you want to scorn and hate him, take advice in time and keep away—he captures even his enemies when they get against the charm of the man.

poisoning added a grave complication to the case and his condition was admitted to be serious. There was a distinct rally on Wednesday morning and it was thought the improvement would continue, but later in the day there was a relapse and his condition became steadily worse until death intervened at 9:45 Wednesday night.

Very few of Mr. Johnson's host of friends had been aware that he was ill and had been obliged to submit himself to the surgeon's knife and the announcemet of his death was received with the pain of a great shock.

Of the younger school of men of affairs in Fort Wayne Mr. Johnson was one of the best known, most influential and highly esteemed. His rise to prominence and consequence had been rapid and well deserved upon his own unhelped merits. He was born in Erie, Pa., November 3, 1877, and ten years later came with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Byron J. Johnson, to Fort Wayne. He attended the public schools and as a small lad showed an early reliance upon himself by working as a newspaper carrier, having been for a time one of The Sentinel staff of carrier boys. At the age of 18 he took employment in the counting room of the Morning Journal as a collector and assistant bookkeeper. Later he entered the works of the Bowser Oil Tank company, serving an apprenticeship as a machinist, later going to the machine department of the Fort Wayne Electric works. Before he had reached his majority he had manifested lively interest and displayed uncommon talents in political affairs of the city and became one of the most active of the young republicans in the concerns of that party. In 1905 he was one of the five nominees of his party for councilman-at-large, and though the democrats won a sweeping victory in the city in that municipal campaign, he was elected, serving the entire term. When the administration of Mayor Jesse Grice was inaugurated in January, 1910, Mr. Johnson accepted appointment as one of the majority members of the board of safety and continued in office until little more than a year ago, when he retired with the Grice regime. In the council and as a member of the board he displayed ready energy and an intelligent grasp of public affairs. It was seven years ago that the Citizens' Trust company called him from his employment as a machinist in the Electric works to a position as agent in its insurance department. His discharge of these duties was marked by success so signal that he soon was promoted to a place in the offices and a short time afterward, when John G. Wolfrum resigned his position as cashier, Mr. Johnson was appointed to succeed him and had since filled the place with a notable degree of efficiency.

Mr. Johnson was a man of fine type. His personal life had always been above reproach. To a splendid capacity for business affairs he united a nature that was singularly gifted in those qualities that attract friends and invite confidence. His popularity with all who knew him was well founded and strong. He was a man of intense public spirit and took an active part in the civic affairs in whatever ways he best could be useful.

Mr. Johnson was married and had established a fine home at 2916 Shawnee Place. Surviving him are the widow, two sons, Merrill and Robert; his mother, Mrs. Jennie Downing; a brother, Clarton U. Johnson, and a sister, Mrs. Edith Ringwalt, residing in Fort Wayne, and three other sisters, Mrs. Edith Wilson and Mrs. Helen Holmes, of Plymouth, Mich., and Mrs. Bird, of Buffalo.

Mr. Johnson was a member of Trinity English Lutheran church and of the local lodge of Woodmen.

Tracks of Traction Company Are Under Water at Wabash.

With more rain predicted the prospects of high waters are favorable, according to W. S. Palmer, weather forecaster. While he would not say that there is danger of a flood the fact that the river is already high and more rain is probable there is a possibility of the river reaching the flood stage. However, Mr. Palmer does not believe there is cause for alarm.

The river reached 13 feet and 5 inches Wednesday afternoon and Thursday morning at 7 o'clock it had receded three inches, indicating that the water is gradually going down. With more rain within the next few hours, however, another rise would be certain.

For a distance of about 500 feet at the eastern edge of Wabash the tracks of the Fort Wayne & Northern Indiana Traction company were under water Thursday and all passengers had to be transferred. The overflow is due to the ice in the Wabash river, which is being blasted with dynamite in an effort to relieve conditions at that place.

Five applications for jobs were filed at the postoffice Thursday morning.

Cyrus Fike, Aged 15, Probably Author of Tabernacle Robberies.

The arrest by Detective Sergeants Walter Immel and Martin A. Rundell of Cyrus Fike, a 15-year-old lad, is believed to hold the solution of a series of robberies that have been committed at the Lyon tabernacle, on West Wayne street, during the past week. Young Fike, who has been in repeated trouble heretofore for stealing, was arraigned in the city court Thursday morning, and being under the age of 16 years, was certified at once to the juvenile court without hearing. He was placed in custody of Probation Officer Wesley I. Work. The specific charge upon which young Fike was arraigned was for stealing an overcoat belonging to Orlie Dunifon, a young man residing at 507 Masterson avenue. An overcoat belonging to Leslie Hodsell, 1235 Boone street, and another belonging to S. D. Emmil, were also stolen from the tabernacle during evening religious services there during the past week. The Fike boy is suspected of these robberies.

Other City Court Cases.

Timothy Dee, who confessed that his right name is Timothy D. Keough, and his home in Buffalo, where he once or twice did special duty as a policeman, was found guilty of petit larceny and given $1 and costs and fifteen days in jail. He stole a pair of rubber arctic overshoes from in front of the Morris Meyer clothing store, 132 West Main street several days ago and was arrested by Detective Sergeants Immel and Rundell after he tried to sell them at a pawn shop. Keough insisted he had bought them of a stranger for 25 cents.

James Sullivan, who said he was a deep-sea sailor, was fined $5 and costs for being drunk and begging. After he had been locked in a police cell he fell from his bunk and badly cut his head.

Harry Jones, a colored vag, detained for a day or two, was taken at his word to get right out of town and when told to move did so from the court room with a lively trot that seemed to mean making good.

Walter Butler, a drunk, was turned loose. The case against Rozelia Craig, charged with deserting her children, was continued, as was the disorderly charge against Morris Martin. The prosecutor asked that the loitering charge against Ora Franklin, a demented man detained here for a day or two, be dismissed.

"NEGLECT KILLS BEAUTY," SAYS SWITCHBOARD GIRL.

Miss Hough's hair is truly her "Crown of Glory."

No woman should be held responsible for her nose, be it of classic shape, or merely a saucy little snub, nor should she be blamed for the curve of her mouth or the color of her eyes, but every woman is responsible for her hair.

Not for its tints and glints, of course, unless she's one of the foolish sisterhood that resort to henna or peroxide, but the texture, and to a certain extent the quantity of her "crown of glory" is entirely her own affair.

This at least is the beauty philosophy of Miss Irene Hough, whose beauty has attracted wide attention since she was declared the most beautiful telephone girl in America.

Miss Hough has beautiful hair, with the glint of the sun in it, and it's like a thistle down in its softness and fluffiness. She believes that her golden topknot had a good deal to do with deciding the beauty contest in her favor.

"I'm rather proud of my hair," she said, "and I think I have a right to be because I practically raised this crop myself. My hair used to be fearfully scraggly, and not a bit good to look at. Then I said to myself, 'Miss Irene Hough, you have pretty nice eyes and fairly good complexion, altogether not a bad looking girl, why spoil your appearance with scraggly, dull hair?'

"Then I went to work. I got a good bristle brush, rather stiff, and a lb jar of white vaseline.

"Every night I brush my hair until it shines and then I give my scalp a gentle massage with my finger tips until it is pink, which is the color of the healthy scalp.

"A little trick of my own is the use of an old silk handkerchief as a hair brush. I wrap the 'kerchief about my hand and then polish my hair as if I were polishing silver. Your hair will never be drab and dull if you brush it with silk."

The ground is frozen at least eighteen inches in the open and if the same conditions exist in growing wheat fields there will be more or less danger to the present wheat crop. Much depends on the conditions of the weather in the next ten days.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

An Open Letter

(About Bronchitis).

August 2, 1914.

TO THE PUBLIC:

In March, 1914, I became afflicted with an attack of Bronchitis which forced me to remain in bed for two months. The doctor in attendance changed the medicine several times, and instead of improvement I seemed to grow worse. For awhile I was despondent, until my wife read a little pamphlet advertising the "Essence Mentho-Laxene." Discouraged with what I had been using without effect, I was willing to try almost anything that sounded like a cure. The Mentho-Laxene was bought, the syrup prepared according to direction, and before half of the quantity was consumed the cough had abated and I was able to get up and get around the house. To make a long story short, I was at work four days after, and have never felt any symptoms of the dread disease since. All who are acquainted with Bronchitis will understand how hard it is to subdue the cough, but today I am willing to take an oath or make an affidavit to the effect, that my case of Bronchitis was as severe as ever afflicted man, and that I was positively cured of it in less than four days, all due to the wonderful curative powers of the "Essence Mentho-Laxene." Since then I have recommended it to all sufferers as I was, or to those who were subject to colds of any kind. In each case the medicine sustained the reputation I had given it, and all were loud in their praises of this truly valuable prescription.

All who may be skeptical in its use can write me, and I will cheerfully give them all the information they desire above my personal signature.

Very respectfully, A. CAMPBELL,
2447 Lafayette St., Denver, Colo.

For the benefit of readers: Essence Mentho-Laxene can be obtained of druggists. A 2½ oz. bottle makes a full pint of cold and cough syrup. Full directions are with each bottle. 1-21-thur-tf

ACID IN STOMACH SOURS THE FOOD

Says Excess of Hydrochloric Acid is Cause of Indigestion.

A well-known authority states that stomach trouble and indigestion is nearly always due to acidity—acid stomach—and not, as most folks believe, from a lack of digestive juices. He states that an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach retards digestion and starts food fermentation, then our meals sour like garbage in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. We then get that heavy, lumpy feeling in the chest, we eructate sour food, belch gas, or have heartburn, flatulence, waterbrash, or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids an instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for one week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.—Adv.

MARVELOUS MACHINERY FOR WHOLESALE MURDER WAR'S GREATEST CONTRIBUTION TO PROGRESS.

Great are the advances which the present war has already marked in man-killing machinery.

At its beginning the Germans developed a complete surprise in their now-famous "42-centimeter" howitzer. Contrary to early reports, it was not made by the Krupps, but in the Austrian works of Skoda, and it is the belief in military circles that, at the war's outbreak the Germans had but two of these great guns, so effective at Maubeuge and Namur.

But from the allies' point of view that was two too many; for the 2,000-pound shell from this 16.8-inch bore weapon, with its 36,000-yard range, fired high over the fortification selected as its target, falls with a velocity so irresistible as to crash through stone or steel like a bullet through butter, afterward exploding with more than the force of a thunderbolt.

The steel-capped gun chambers in the forts at Liege and Namur were pierced by shells from a smaller howitzer, of Krupp manufacture, known as the 28-centimeter type. With a bore of 11.2 inches, this gun hurls a projectile weighing 760 pounds a distance of nearly six miles. Once such a shell explodes within a confined space, it not only showers upon all living persons within the compartment a deluge of death-dealing bullets and fragments of steel, but, to complete the certainty of destruction, generates a suffocating gas.

In joint of explosives the Germans had also an initial advantage through their use, by a secret process, of a nitrated gas-tar by-product, known to scientists as "tri-nitro-toluene." Multiply by five the power of the fiercest explosive you know, and you will have some idea of what "tri-nitro-toluene" is like. Compared with it, British cordite is as weak tea to Jersey applejack.

But these smashing howitzers, though spelling quick ruin for the most pretentious fortifications, are of little or no use in field operations. Here the first half year of war's stern test has fully confirmed the glowing advance notices of the pet of French artillerists, the so-called "75."

This weapon shoots, at the rate of fifteen a minute, a fifteen-pound shell five or more miles. It is comparatively light and easily handled, works on a pivot so that one sighting suffices for a number of shots; is equipped automatically to take up its own recoil without disturbing its aim; and when one of its shells bursts, the area of death-deal is about twice the size of an average city lot; or say, sixty feet by 300.

Locate a battery of these field pieces within, say, four miles of an enemy's trench; and, if the entrenched enemy can be reached at all; if his projection be not perfect, it is like turning furrows to plot the trench and sweep it forward and backward till not a soul is left alive.

All this, of course, upon the assumption that the enemy's field pieces let you do it.

To the flying machine the god of modern war must at this point take off his hat and make a profound salute.

Imagine the difficulty of getting the right range on a target four to five miles away if you had no better guidance than the directions of some observer equally or further remote from the place you want to hit.

But the aviators not only sail right over the objective spot, but, by wireless, or by other signaling equally swift, let you know if the first shot fell short or overshot and how much, making the correction of range a matter of simple mathematics.

This is the one big new contribution of military science thus far in the present war to efficiency in murder by wholesale.

The second is the perfection of shell construction and propulsion as shown at Liege, Namur, Maubeuge and Antwerp, a point originally of German advantage, but said now to be more evenly balanced, at least among the western allies.

Not the least novel of the war's developments is the reversion to the tactics of the so-called dark ages by the employment of hand grenades; literally bombs such as we used to think only anarchists would hurl. In assailing trenches these are now quite in fashion. Creep up on the enemy at night, in the dark, if he is careless enough not to keep his searchlights going; and when near toss into the ditch where he is trying to sleep a lot of hand-propelled shells of high explosive quality, filled with bullets and scraps of iron.

When they go off he'll know you have called.

ALL AGREED WE NEED BILL, BUT WHAT KIND?

Hearing Brings Out Wide Variance on Workmen's Compensation.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 4.—While agreed that a workmen's compensation law should be enacted by the Indiana legislature, employers and employes, who last night addressed the joint hearing of senate and house committees, which have five bills on the subject before them, differ greatly as to what the provisions of the law should be.

Employers favor the Ogle-Fredericks bill, which provides for fifty per cent. differential compensation and for it being left optional with the employer what form of insurance he carries to guarantee payment of claims. Employes favor the measure prepared by Charles Fox, president of the Indiana Federation of Labor, which provides 66 2-3 percent. compensation and for all employers, who elect to come under the proposed law to carry state insurance under control of a state commission.

No decision had been reached by the committees upon adjournment at midnight. Senator Van Nuys, of Anderson, who presided, said the committees likely would hold a number of executive sessions before either would report a bill to its respective house with the recommendation that it be passed. Mr. Van Nuys gave assurance that the legislature would enact a compensation law.

The meeting was largely attended, employers from Muncie, Terre Haute and other cities being present. The labor organizations throughout the state also were well represented. Among those who addressed the meeting were William Huston, Terre Haute, representing the miners; John A. Voll, of Zanesville, O., who discussed the working of the Ohio compensation law; John J. Walsh, state factory inspector; President Fox, of the state federation; P. H. Panna, a coal operator of Terre Haute; former State Senator Charles M. Kimbrough, of Muncie, and Frank Smith, of Indianapolis, secretary of the Indiana Manufacturers' association.

After two roll calls had been held in the house yesterday afternoon on the measure of Majority Floor Leader Branaman, which would give the state board of finance authority to call for advance payments of state money by county treasurers at any time, and errors had been found in each of them, Speaker Bedwell declared he "wanted no crooked roll calls to be held in this house," and ordered a third be taken. The speaker explained the errors in the previous roll calls had been due to "confusion in the house and not to any intention of the clerk."

The corrected vote was announced at 50 to 46, and the bill was declared defeated, as it lacked one vote of having a constitutional majority. The first roll call was announced at 54 to 42 and the second 51 to 45.

FIRE CAUSES HEAVY LOSS.

Plating Company's Plant on Hanna Street Destroyed by Flames.

Fire, which undoubtedly had its origin from an overheated stove in the rear of the building occupied by the Fort Wayne Electro Plating company, at 1160 Hanna street at 1 o'clock Thursday morning, completely ruined the structure and caused a loss of $1,000, which is covered by insurance.

The Electro Plating company is operated by H. H. Ruchel and H. F. Greek and the building is owned by William Ruchel. The second floor, where it is supposed the fire started is used for a carpenter shop. Mr. Ruchel, however, was in the shop until eleven o'clock Wednesday evening and when he left he states everything was in first class shape.

The fire was discovered by L. F. Kinley, who turned in the call, to which No. 1 engine and companies 3 and 4 responded. Firemen succeeded in saving an empty house which stood next to the building that was destroyed.

SHOP AND RAIL ROAD NEWS

John B. Reynolds Lives Only Ten Minutes After Attack of Apoplexy.

John Burr Reynolds, passenger and freight agent at Convoy for the Pennsylvania, was stricken with apoplexy at 1:10 o'clock Thursday morning and died ten minutes later, before medical assistance could reach him. The attack came suddenly, Mr. Reynolds retiring last night in apparently good health, after working as usual at his office. The news of his death will be a most shocking surprise to his many acquaintances in railway and other circles along the line of the Pennsylvania from Pittsburg to Chicago.

The deceased is survived by the widow, three daughters and two sons. The children are Fred Reynolds, a Pennsylvania train dispatcher, Fort Wayne; Carl Reynolds, Associated Press operator for western Ohio; Mrs. Theodore Kreichner, Mrs. Gettus Pugh and Miss Rose Reynolds, all of Convoy. Homer B. Reynolds, of Fort Wayne, division operator of the Pennsylvania, was a brother of the deceased.

John Burr Reynolds was born in 1861 and was past 53 years old. September 1, 1881, he became a telegraph operator at Lucas, O., for the Pennsylvania, and has been in the employ of the company ever since. When he began work for the company the telegraph department was more completely under the control of the superintendent of telegraph than it is at present and an operator was subject to change from one division to another over the entire northwest system. Under these circumstances Mr. Reynolds worked at various places on the eastern and western division before he was regularly assigned to Convoy. He became manager of the Ada office in March, 1884, and extra agent, with headquarters at Upper Sandusky, O., March 1, 1895. January 13, 1900, he was appointed freight and passenger agent at Convoy, which office he held at the time of his death.

He was a member of the Baptist church, of the Odd Fellow lodge, the Masonic lodge and the Knights of the Maccabee and took active part in the work of each in his home town. He was also widely known in western Ohio and eastern Indiana as an authority on matters pertaining to the culture and raising of bees and his apiary was one of the largest and best in this part of the country. Fred Reynolds went to Convoy yesterday to visit his parents and was at home when his father was stricken. H. B. Reynolds went down there at noon.

WANT THE LARGEST PROCESSION.

If the procession of railroad and shopmen from the Railroad Y. M. C. A. to the Lyon tabernacle Saturday night is not larger than any that preceded it or comes after, it will not be the fault of the men who will have charge of the procession. Master Mechanic E. E. Griest, of the Pennsylvania shops, said this morning that he expected to have 1,000 shopmen in the procession and H. A. Philley, A. J. Cash and others interested will endeavor to get several hundred men not employed in the shops in the procession. Engineer L. F. Wood, late captain of the battery, will be marshal of the day. Supt. W. M. Wardrop will head the general procession and Master Mechanic E. E. Griest will head the Pennsylvania shopmen. The Elks' band has been engaged for the occasion and appropriate banners are being made. All railway employes and railway shopmen in the city are urged to join in the demonstration. The gathering will be at the Y. M. C. A. in time to start for the tabernacle promptly at 7 o'clock.

SAYS LUMBER IS PLENTIFUL.

Frank I. Brown, purchasing agent for the Pennsylvania, who recently returned from Tennessee and Georgia, from whence comes the bulk of the southern pine supply used by the Pennsylvania, says there is plenty of lumber of all kinds down in that country. "Instead of difficulty in getting the supplies, my greatest difficulty was in refusing to place orders with the mill men I met," said Mr. Brown. "Some of the most wealthy of the mill men have practically suspended operations and one big concern has not turned a wheel since last November," said Mr. Brown. "Others not so well fixed financially are manufacturing lumber and forcing it upon the market at a reduction to get the necessary money to pay interest and other liabilities," he said. A revival of business will send lumber prices to normal figures very quickly, Mr. Brown thinks.

UNAPPRECIATIVE PUBLIC.

J. H. Barnhart, who has just retired after having guarded one dangerous street crossing at Kokomo for twenty years, says that during that time only one person ever thanked him for his vigilance on behalf of the public. That person was an old woman whom he helped across the street. Barnhart was employed by the Lake Erie railroad to guard the crossing at Hoagland and Main streets, where two city car lines, two interurban lines and Lake Erie and Pennsylvania tracks intersect.

COMPLETED WORK AND GONE.

Machinist Ed Harsh, of the Pennsylvania shops, had one of his fingers lacerated yesterday. He was pulling a steel shaving from his machine and had the digit cut by the sharp edges of the piece.

Treasurer C. A. Dunkelberg, of S. F. Bowser & Co., Mrs. Dunkelberg and their son left this morning for Los Angeles, San Francisco and other Pacific coast points to stay two or three months.

O. P. Reed had a leg sprained yesterday when he stepped in a hole in the flooring at the factory of the Wayne Oil Tank and Pump Co. He was attended by Dr. J. Frank Dinnen.

Machinist James McLaughlin, of the Lake Shore shops, had one of the bones of his right foot broken a few days ago when a heavy casting fell upon the member. He will be off duty a few days.

Convention rate fares have been granted for the National Canners association at New York February 8 to 13 inclusive. The rate will be $30.50 for the round trip, a reduction of about $2.50.

General Baggage Agent G. B. Lindsey, of the Wabash, is making a trip over the system making arrangements for weighing mails, which will commence next week. He spent two hours in this city yesterday.

C. W. Johnston, oiler in the Pennsylvania planing mills, is at that work again, after being on the sick list a few days. Jules A. Henry, of the car machine work, also reported for duty after being sick awhile.

The G. R. & I. paymaster, who is paying the Pennsylvania shopmen, will complete that work at noon tomorrow and immediately leave for Grand Rapids, stopping en route a number of times to pay employes.

Superintendent W. M. Wardrop, of the Pennsylvania, left last night for Pittsburgh on business for the company. Mr. Wardrop began the fifth year of his administration as superintendent of the western division of the Pennsylvania this morning.

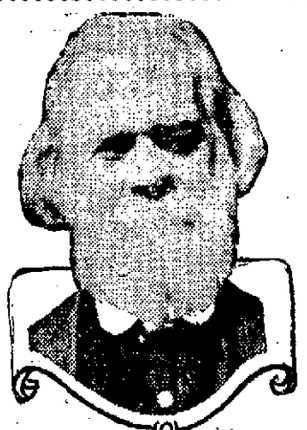
Why Shave? Whiskers Save Doctors' Bills



Andrew Snellgrove

"Let your hair grow and defy the doctors," is the health creed of Andrew Snellgrove, of Ann Arbor, Mich., who is 75 years old and has never had a hair cut, never had a shave—and has never consulted a doctor.

Snellgrove was a circuit rider in the middle west in the early '60's, but, despite the many hardships he endured, he was never ill. He believes he owes his health to his whiskers. "My whiskers protected my throat, just as nature intended they should do. My hair protected my neck. I never caught cold, was never sick. Why shave, anyway?"

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 92 A Marcellus avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

PRETTY INDIAN DEBUTANTES DANCE ALL NIGHT AT TRIBAL "COMING OUT" PARTY FOR MAIDENS.

Mescalero-Apache debutants, and Indians gathering for the ceremonial.

Tularosa, N. M., Feb. 4.—With a thrill of anticipation that sparkles in their dusky eyes and deepens the copper of their cheeks, the 1915 class of Mescalero-Apache Indian debutantes are awaiting the annual 'coming out party" of their tribe on the reservation near here.

It is the social event of the tribal season, for twenty years forbidden by the government, but again permitted during the past three.

Combining religious ceremonial with the graceful dancing of the young girls and their admirers during a four-day festival, the event is one of the most fantastic and brilliant Indian pageants staged by the southwestern aborigines.

Already the mothers and grandmothers are busy making the wonderfully-adorned buckskin costumes to be worn by the debutantes, although the "coming out party" is not scheduled before June. These dresses readily command $50 each from white visitors at the reservation, although most of them are held priceless for sentimental reasons.

At the appointed time the young "buds" of the tribe gather in a specially constructed girls' tepee, made of poles with green leaves at the top and covered with tarpaulin, the sides being closed by felled trees.

Attired in their finery, trying to appear innocent of the admiring stares of the men, and imbued with the religious significance that attaches to the ceremonial, the girls begin the festival by running toward the sun with a graceful dance step.

After they have again retired to their sacred tepee, the young males come out, decked in eagle feathers and with painted bodies begin a dance about a fire before the girls' cloister. Marching toward the tepee from the four points of the compass, they salute the tepee gravely. After this the old men and young, together with priests and the little boys, encircle the fire for hours to the beat of the tom-tom.

And then the girls come out, timidly, joining in with slow, even step. Throughout the entire night the girls alternate between dancing and sitting about the glowing fire in their own tent where the priests are droning their incantations.

The girls are not allowed to dance until after 1 o'clock in the morning. They invite the men. And should the invitation be declined—respectfully—the man offers a present to the young woman after the ceremonial.

During the day the entire assemblage sleeps, resuming the dancing at night until four days and nights have elapsed.

On the fifth day the brush is removed from around the girls' tepee, and they stand facing the sun. The priest then annoint them with a paste made of yellow pollen, symbolical of the sun, to the accompaniment of a continuous chant. The debutantes' heads, arms and feet are rubbed with the golden mixture, the girls in turn annointing the priests.

This accomplished, the Indian mothers bring their babies and youngsters and present themselves for similar annointment in an impressive scene under June skies.

The ceremonial is concluded with another run toward the sun by the girls, the poles of their sacred tepee being lowered at the same time. Thereafter the girls participating are regarded as of marriageable age and intentions, and the wooing follows through the long summer days.

God Never Asked Man to Believe Anything That Was Irrational, Declares Dr. Milford H. Lyon.

THE REASONABLENESS OF RELIGION.

Isaiah 1:18—"Come now, and let us reason together, saith the Lord."

There are many who in some way have obtained a very mistaken conception of religion. While upon matters of business or of art or of science they think they should exercise their intellectual faculties, but when it comes to the matter of a religious life they think they must put their reasoning power aside and depend upon their feelings. Never did anyone make a more serious mental error than this. If in any department of life a person should use his strongest mental qualities, it is when he is considering the claims of Christianity and the essential preparation for eternity. In the words of our text, God invites man to a conference to reason together upon the most important subject that can occupy the human mind. While we would not for a moment depreciate the importance and value of the feelings and the emotions, yet no one can truly accept with his heart what he doubts with his head.

So at the very outset of this discussion, let us make it clear that God never asked man to believe anything that was irrational. There may be some things in religion that are super-rational, but nothing contra-rational. That is, there are many truths that our undeveloped, inexperienced minds cannot fully grasp and fathom, yet these truths do not violate either nature or reason when they are thoroughly understood. For example, you might go to the simple Africans and tell them that we are able now to communicate with people across the ocean, three thousand miles away. They say, "We do not believe it, because it is unreasonable." You go to the native Eskimo and endeavor to explain to him the power of the X-Ray. You tell him that you can look through a big volume and see a silver dollar on the other side, and he says, "It cannot be so because it is unreasonable." What he means to say is that it is unreasonable, judged by his narrow, limited ideas. Our beliefs are usually along the line of our knowledge, and our doubts along the line of our ignorance. Bacon said, "Little learning tendeth toward infidelity, but much learning tendeth toward Christianity."

I wish to present to you this evening three of the greatest facts of human life. These facts, believer and unbeliever, alike, accept. My fundamental proposition is this, that the gospel of Jesus Christ alone can solve these three great facts and problems. The first is the fact of man's higher and lower nature. The problem is, how can the higher nature be vitalized and put in the ascendant, and the lower nature be suppressed and conquered? There is a physiological basis to this dual nature in the cerebral and abdominal brains. There is a psychological basis in the primary and secondary consciousness. There is a spiritual basis for this fact in the carnal and spiritual nature. It seems that every person is not merely one individual, but has radically two personalities.

Mr. Watkinson has told us that some misguided scientists have recently succeeded in producing what has been called a diabolical fad. By grafting a portion of one insect upon the body of another they are able to make new organisms; the result, however, is hideous in the extreme. The grafting is done when the creatures are in the pupa state. The insect grafter may commence to work on either the chrysalis of the perfect insect itself; but the chrysalis, egg or grub of the insect offers the best facilities. The vivisector takes the pupa of a spider and by a delicate operation grafts it upon the pupa of a fly, and when the "freak" has passed the chrysalis state and merged into a perfect insect, we have a monster indeed. We may fancy the strange and distressing conflict which ensues within that violated organism—the clash of irreconcilable impulses in a creature compounded of, say, butterfly and spider. A passion for the sunshine and a love of darkness. A longing for roses and a thirst for blood, demanding inconsistent satisfaction; the creature perplexed within itself, afraid of itself devouring itself. Yet this painful creation of the vivisector expresses more closely than we like to think, the apostle's conception of human nature when first it becomes conscious of itself.

There is in every life the capacity for a higher, better being, than anything he has ever even dreamed. There is on the other hand also a capacity for a lower, more debased condition than anything he has ever dreamed. Here is the fact of these two natures, radically opposite and antagonistic. They cannot both permanently exist, side by side, in anything of equality. The one is to be conqueror the other is to be conquered. The problem then is a clear one, how is the victory to be gained for the higher nature, and the evil to be mastered and finally eradicated? There are some that base their hopes upon a good environment. Doubtless this can help, but it cannot solve the problem. Many of the noblest lives have been developed under the most adverse conditions; and multitudes of others, for whom everything has been done externally that could contribute to a better life, has seemingly only strengthened them in their purpose to go astray. A rich, fertile soil, if left to itself, is much more apt to develop a rank growth of weeds than it is to grow a harvest of fruit or golden grain. In the days of the Roman empire, when wealth and comforts and art and literature did most universally flourish and abound, were indeed the days when morality and honesty and virtue began to decline.

The hopes of others are centered upon culture. It is true that education can do many things. Culture can bring to you and me the best that has ever been said or written. But how to solve the problems of life and infuse into the soul the strength to master the evil and bring victory to the good, that problem culture has never been able to solve. There are many in our day who talk much about ethical culture, about holding up high ideals, but that is no solvent for the difficulty. Go to the meanest man in the community that you know; sit down by him and ask his advice about moral questions and it will surprise you how much excellent moral instruction and good suggestion he can give. The most wicked and most worldly men can hold up high ideals. The question is, How are we to bridge the gulf between the real and the ideal—to bring a man from what he is to what he ought to be? Environment, ethics and culture have never been able to do this. This is the province of the gospel of Christ. The world is exclaiming "Who shall deliver me from the body of this death?" Religion's answer is, "I thank God through Jesus Christ, our Lord."

Let us consider now the second problem, the fact of sin. We will not stop to consider how sin came into the world. It is enough for us to know that it is here. We see its slimy, serpent trail all over the pages of history. We see its effects in our own experience. No matter what you may believe about the Bible or about churches, or even about religion, you are forced to admit the fact that you have done wrong, that you have violated your own conscience, that you have chosen the evil rather than the good. You have been sowing the seed in your own character, which must inevitably reap a harvest of woe, unless some great power prevents this calamity.

Scientists tell us that there is a little animal in the south seas that has been going to the bad for countless thousands of years. The principle of evolution works not only upward, but also downward. Sin is not self-curative. What is there strong enough to counteract its deadly power? Do you try to fall back again upon environment? Upon education? You know full well that these factors, strong as they are, cannot solve the problem. Sin puts man out of harmony with his Creator and with his fellow-beings. Culture does not cure the disease, it only aggravates and intensifies it. If an engine is turned in the wrong direction, more fuel in the tender and more fire beneath the boiler is going to drive the train just that much more rapidly to its destruction. The philosopher Plato, in reasoning upon this subject, said, "I do not believe that even the gods themselves can forgive sin." Nature has no cure for sin. Its only answer is the law of sowing and reaping. There is no gospel in that, no good news. Philosophy brings no solution. Philosophy can merely present and prove the gloomy, direful fact that the wages of sin is death. In the face of sin, ethics stands acknowledging its impotence. All ethics can do is to say, "Be good." But the man replies, "I cannot be good. I have done wrong. I have evil desires and evil impulses. My bent is in the wrong direction, and even if I could begin today to do right, which I cannot, what am I to do with the load of past transgressions and guilt? I am morally bankrupt."

Here again we are compelled to fall back upon the gospel of Christ as the only solution for the problem of sin. It is most interesting and fascinating to dig deep into the divine plan of salvation, to note the wonderful wisdom God has revealed in the plan of redemption through Jesus Christ. In that plan there is a solvent not only to release from the obligations of past transgressions, but also to infuse into the life a new power which, in the language of science, will inoculate the soul with the divine virus to make the germs of the disease of sin harmless and ineffective.

Let us illustrate this fact from practical life. A few years ago there was a man in the state of New York, who had been convicted of murder in the first degree, and had been sentenced to death in the electric chair. Physicians declared also that the man was infected with a terrible disease, which must inevitably prove fatal. Supposing it had been the desire of the state of New York to restore this man to a complete and satisfactory condition, both of citizenship and of life, what must he done? Why, you say, "They must get a pardon for him from the governor." But supposing they had, the man would have died soon from this fatal disease. "No," said another, "what must be done for that man is to find a skillful physician who is able to cure that malady." But supposing they had, he would have died under his sentence in the electric chair. Now do you not see, that if that man is to be restored truly and completely, something must be done for that man, and also something must be done in that man.

Now that is just what the gospel of Jesus Christ does for the sinner. It does something for him. He is a moral and spiritual bankrupt. He has debts that he cannot pay. "Him who knew no sin, God hath made sin for us that we should be made the righteousness of God in Him." Jesus Christ is our substitute. He took our place. A sinful man could not have done this because he would have had his own debts to pay, but when Jesus Christ, the sinless One, offered Himself, there was a value which could be applied for the redemption of the guilty. God could look with no degree of leniency or complacency upon sin. To do so would violate His own moral nature. But by the death of Jesus for sin, that death which shows man at his worst and God at His best, the penalty is paid, and now the Father is free to treat with man upon the basis of forgiveness, making salvation a gift.

Then there is the other element in this divine plan of salvation, which is equally important. Not only does the gospel of Christ bring forgiveness for sin, but also victory over sin. Supposing here is a young man who was a spendthrift. He goes deeply into debt, and time after time someone pays his obligations. That will avail nothing, for the chances are it will simply encourage him to plunge more deeply into debt next time. But supposing that youth puts himself under the instruction of a great financier. He imbibes the spirit of thrift, frugality and economy of that man, then his nature is changed and now if his debts are paid his life is put upon a new basis, and hereafter he will live with the spirit and plan that will enable him to meet his own obligations, with the guidance and direction of this great financier. This is just what Jesus Christ does for the sinner. Not only does He, by His death redeem us from spiritual bankruptcy, but also when we receive Him as our Helper and Friend and Lord, He imparts His divine life into our natures so that through Him we can come forth more than a conqueror.

The president of the National Educational association, a president of an American college, in a recent address, said: "Teachers, my study of psychology is causing me to fall back on Jesus Christ's idea of sin and pedagogy compels me to fall back on the Christian idea of regeneration."

Now, in the last place we must face the third fact, a fact also which everyone is compelled to admit, and that is the fact of death. No matter what you may think about God or religion, what you may think about the church or the ministry, no matter how much you may boast your infidelity, you stand face to face with the certainty of death. The crape on the door, the coffin in the parlor, the hearse at the gate, the white slabs in the graveyard, thrust this unwelcome fact continually before your view. What ray of hope have you to offer in the sad and solemn presence of death? Since you have been toiling early and late to accumulate property, since you have been starving your spiritual nature, neglecting your friends and forgetting God in order to amass wealth, surely then in this hour of need, which you must inevitably face, this financial power which you have accumulated is going to stand you in good stead and bring you release from the bonds of the grave. Merely to state the case shows its absurdity. Gold brings no deliverance from the grave.

Perhaps then we can turn to environment. We will say that the right economic conditions, freedom from wage slavery and more equitable distribution of property, better homes, better streets, and more favorable material conditions are the great needs of the world today. But what do all these things avail in the presence of that great enemy, death? Sooner or later he must come to the rich or poor, favorably or unfavorably situated. He accepts no excuses—makes no exceptions. Then we turn to education or philosophy, to ethics, to inventions, but in the hour of death all these stand aside, helpless, impotent. Even our earthly friends and loved ones who would willingly go down to our grave in our stead, cannot take our place. We have to step down to the brink of the chilly river alone.

Infidelity, where is your hope now? Infidelity builds no colleges, erects no hospitals, establishes no churches, sends no missionaries around the world to uplift strange races and people they have never seen. All infidelity can do is negative, to endeavor to criticise and endanger and destroy the fruits of religion and at last to crawl into the rat hole of its own nothingness. It is in that hour of death that you must turn to Jesus Christ, your only Hope. None other can avail but the divine Christ, who, on that first Easter morning broke the bonds of the tomb and came forth triumphant over death, offers to grant to you eternal life. With Him as your Savior death becomes not a limitation, but a liberation. It sets you free into a higher, broader existence than anything you had ever hoped or dreamed. It is not a choice then, reasoning men, between a good and a better, it is a choice between something and nothing.

I turn then from your reason, which has been convinced, to your will. Decide tonight. Say, "As for me I will receive the crucified and risen Christ as my Helper, my Friend, my Savior and my Lord. He only can give me the victory over my lower nature. He only can grant forgiveness of sin. He only can rob the grave of its terrors and give promise of immortality." You would violate your conscience, your reason, your judgment, if you continue to reject or delay.

ATHLETIC CLUB IS EXTINCT.

Van Wert, O., Feb. 4.—A state building inspector has put the Van Wert Athletic club, started several years ago and to which at some time practically every boy in Van Wert has belonged, out of business and the club is extinct. The club had been falling behind in expenses until recently, when a couple of young men took hold of it and had started to put it on a sound financial basis. Affairs were prospering until the state building inspector came along and said that if the club was going to continue it would have to make a number of improvements in its quarters to comply with the law. The expense was thought too great and the club quit.

Brakeman and Mrs. George Blue, the former of the Nickel Plate, have gone to Bourbon for a short visit.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Feb. 4.—Bulls in the wheat market were quick today to utilize President Wilson's speech as a help to overcome yesterday's big drop in prices. It was urged by bull leaders that the address was of high significance as an official appreciation of the food grain shortage in the world and as implying that the president was not in sympathy with a grain embargo. After opening ½c off to ⅝c higher, the market advanced to a point 2⅝c to 3¼c above last night.

Corn showed some heaviness at the start, but rallied sharply when wheat started upward in earnest. Country offerings to arrive were small. The opening which varied from ¼c off to a like advance, was followed by a material rise all around.

Oats took the same path as corn. Cash houses led the buying.

Outside investors gave unusual support to provisions. The best call was for pork

THE DAY ON WALL STREET

New York, Feb. 4.—Stocks displayed general firmness at today's opening, despite the lower range reported by London. All the leaders opened at slight advances, which were soon increased. The feature was Bethlehem steel, which rose 1⅝, with gains of almost as much in the special group. High grade railway shares seemed to be in [illegible]. U. S. Steel moved up almost a point. National Biscuit and American Sugar were exceptions to the higher trend and U. S. Realty, which had conspicuously weakened, declining 7 points to 41, a point over its minimum.

The market received a decided set back in the first hour on offerings of Canadian Pacific and Southern Pacific, causing recessions of 1 to 2 points.

Toward mid-day, however, more liquidation and lower prices were encountered. American sugar was weakest of the industrials, selling off 3½ points to 103⅞. Bonds were steady.

RUSSIANS DROPPING BOMBS.

Czar's Aviators Attack German Mobilized Reserves and Trains.

Petrograd, Feb. 4.—Russian aviators on Feb. 2 successfully dropped bombs on the mobilized reserves and trains of the Germans at Rawa, Zarzecze and Boguszyce, about fifty miles southwest of Warsaw, according to an official announcement issued here today.

The general staff of the Russian army today issued a report of the progress of the war which reads as follows:

"In East Prussia our troops have strengthened their positions near the village of Gross Medumischken on the left bank of the Angrapp.

"On the left bank of the Vistula our encounters with the enemy have become more frequent. Engagements of considerable importance have taken place on the front between Lipne and Bejun. Our troops took by assault the town of Skempe, to the east of Lipne, and repulsed an attack of the enemy on the village of Blino, inflicting heavy losses on him. In this fighting we captured the commanding officer of the battalion, three other officers and 100 soldiers.

"On the right bank of the Vistula the fighting on the front between Borjomo and Wolaczosnoska continued February 2 with the same energy. The enemy brought into this engagement regiments of first line of troops and quantities of artillery, including their heavy pieces. The artillery fire was continued day and night. An engagement of particular severity took place at the village of Goumine where, after sanguinary hand to hand fighting, we repulsed the furious attacks of the enemy. The Germans here sustained immense losses, but they continue to bring fresh troops forward to the front.

"A demonstration of the enemy along the Nida river did not result successfully.

"The fighting in the Carpathians is continuing, and the engagements are becoming more and more tenacious in character. It is apparent that considerable forces of Germans are engaged."

It's Mutual.

"Where shall we go?"

"Let's visit the Joneses."

"But they have no children, and our Willie doesn't like them."

"Well, it's a standoff. They don't like our Willie either.

MRS. MYERS GOES TO THE HOSPITAL FOR OPERATION

Surgeon Makes Second Trial to Help Her But Fails—But Inter-State Doctors Came to Rescue.

After going to surgeon for two operations and still no better, Mrs. Myers, a prominent Indiana lady says she obtained relief in ten days by taking the new treatment of the Inter-State Doctors, those expert medical gentlemen who have their Fort Wayne institute located at 205 West Berry street.

She writes the following letter for publication:

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 20, 1915.

Gentlemen:—I feel that it is my duty to write you and tell you how I am. As you no doubt remember I came to you just two weeks ago today. I have been sick all of my life and doctored with lots of different doctors and gradually grew worse.

Many wanted to operate on me till finally I consented. I went to the hospital and that trip cost more than I really could afford. I was relieved, I believe, for a while, then gradually grew worse and so many of my friends and doctors insisted on my going back and being operated on again that I finally consented. I thought I might as well be buried a piece at a time as to be the way I was.

Well that cost a lot more money. But the promised relief failed to appear. I was not well by any means and began to suffer in a way that was unbearable and as I did not want to be all cut to pieces. I began to look for some one that could do something for me without always using the knife.

Learning that the Inter-State Doctors had opened an institute here and that you people never use the knife, I decided to see what you could do for me as your consultation and examination was free, as I saw by the papers.

Well I had never been examined as thoroughly and scientifically as I was by the specialist that examined me. I felt better in my mind when I got through—I felt that I had at least found a man who understood my case better than any doctor that had ever examined me before. I decided to take treatment and in 48 hours I began to feel better. Now it is just two weeks and I have made steady improvement.

As to money matters they are no robbers and I advise all of my friends to avail themselves of the services of these great specialists.

MRS. J. D. MYERS.
R. R. No. 9.

Inter-State Doctors treat all curable cases of chronic diseases of the nerves, blood, skin, heart, liver, stomach, kidneys, rheumatism, neuralgia, constipation, goitre, gall stones, catarrh, epilepsy, dyspepsia, indigestion, dropsy, weak back, eczema and scrofula.

Any sick person is safe in going to these specialists for they accept no cases beyond help. Their consultation and advice is free to all prospective patients. —Adv.

WOMAN JUDGE PUZZLES GUILTY; IS BOTH STERN AND MERCIFUL

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 2.—Hand-cuffed together, two by two, half a dozen men shuffled awkwardly into the prisoners' dock. There was a bustle of preparation; a tense expectancy. And the prisoners furtively watched the door at the rear of the courtroom.

The next moment there emerged from the door a quiet little woman in dark serge, as plain as a nun's habit. She sat down in a big chair, as the bailiff rapped for silence.

The Honorable Justice Court of King County, Seattle precinct, was in session—with Justice Reah Mary Whitehead, the first woman justice, on the bench.

Out there in front, among the curious sat the judge's mother. Mrs. T. S. Bosley, a sudden lump in her throat from pride over her "baby girl's" elevation to importance.

To the prisoners, Judge Whitehead was a problem. The male wrongdoer can usually get some idea of what his fate will be by reading a man judge's face. But what chance has he of sizing up a being with a face like a picture and an attire of serge and satin, sitting in judgment.

The court crowd watched with bated breath—to see what brand of justice a woman would deal.

An Italian charged with non-support of his two children, came first. With an interpreter's assistance he pleaded "not guilty," and had his case set for trial.

Next came a negro, charged with burglary. His trial was set.

"I'd had work I'd never done it." A youngster admitting check forgery, was explaining, appealing for clemency.

"This is a very serious matter," said her honor. "There have been other checks, I understand. It might be a penitentiary offense." For a moment she looked out of the window, deliberating. "Six months in the county jail," she concluded.

There came the turn of another worthless check writer. In the complaint his name was Smith.

"I have a sister," he said. "Her name is the same as mine. I will not reveal what it is." He said there was something the matter with the top of his head.

"Six months," said Judge Whitehead steadily.

Then she turned and faced the men still in the dock.

"This is the first time," she said, "I have had the unpleasant task of sentencing anyone, and it is my sincerest hope that it will be the last time anyone will have to sentence either of you two men," turning to the guilty forgers.

After court the judge with the face like a picture performed a marriage ceremony, uniting a 20-year-old youth with a 16-year-old girl. They had eloped to a neighboring town and had been brought back.

At the close of the ceremony Judge Whitehead dismissed the State's case against the youth.

And then, because it was her first wedding, she sent out and got some flowers for the bride.
